Easterners Dig Out After Big Snowfall

By The Canadian Press

Weather conditions began returning to more seasonal norms across Canada today.

Montreal and Ottawa area residents started digging themselves clear of snowdrifts piled up after two days of wind-whipped storms. Heavy rains that disrupted ferry service to Newfoundland and train traffic in Nova Scotia gave way to clearer skies and light snow on the Atlantic Coast.

Typical mid - November conditions continued on the Prairies where temperatures hovered just above zero and light snowflurries spread over Alberta and into Saskatchewan.

Cloud and rain covered the West Coast and some snow fell in the British Columbia interior Thursday night but the temperature in Vancouver was in the 55-to-60-degree range.

In the Atlantic provinces, colder air, cloud and light snows moved in after high winds and heavy rain Thursday battered the west coast of Newfoundland, halting passenger and freight ferry service. At least five trains were hours behind schedule in Nova Scotia. Temperatures today rose to the high 20s and mi-d50s.

In Montreal, workers were clearing streets clogged with 10 inches of snow. The snow, driven by 40-mile-an-hour winds had disrupted shipping in the St. Lawrence Seaway between Beauharnois and Montreal. But brighter conditions are expected for the next few days.

Sunny skies returned to the Ottawa area following snow and sleet storms that ripped down power lines, blocked roads and left cars in ditches.

In the rest of Ontario, there was continuation of cool weather today with considerable cloudiness and a few snowflurries. Temperatures stayed around the high 20s and 30s.

Light snow and winds and temperatures ranging from five below to 20 remained in Manitoba.

Late Thursday night, snow was falling in Edmonton and spreading into western Saskatchewan. There was some fog and cloudiness in southern Alberta, with occasional light snowfalls today in both provinces. Below normal temperatures prevailed.

Pearson Won't Be Pressed

OTTAWA (CP) — The prime minister's office decided today to end the corridor scramblings and jostlings that almost invariably mark the quest for news after a cabinet meeting.

The second-floor corridor outside the cabinet room in Parliament's East Block is to be "off limits" to reporters just before, during and after cabinet meetings.

Instead, reporters are to wait in a special press room for either the prime minister or a spokesman to appear after such meetings to make statements and answer questions.

The step apparently was sparked by a noisy corridor conclave following the first cabinet meeting after the Nov. 8 election.

Steps to end the scramble as reporters clustered around the prime minister or other cabinet figures had been under consideration for two years, the announcement added.

But it seemed evident that the corridor tangle outside the Nov. 10 post-election cabinet meeting that brought some testy comments from Prime Minister Pearson played a part in the move.

Kosygin Holds Talks With U.S. Senators

By SIDNEY WEILAND

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Senator Mike Mansfield conferred today with Soviet Premier Kosygin, completing the U.S. Senate majority leader's discreet probe into current Russian policies.

Kosygin received the Montana Democrat and four other travelling senators in his Kremlin office. The Senators leave Saturday after a four-day visit.

Although U.S. officials have maintained unusual secrecy on why Mansfield has come to Moscow, it was generally believed he is talking to the Russians about a possible way out of the Viet Nam war.

Most diplomats here believed the visit is significant and could be "meaningful." But U.S. officials have been careful to say nothing to encourage speculation of this kind.

There have been persistent but unconfirmed reports North Vietnamese Premier Pham Van Dong made a secret visit to Moscow and Peking during the last few weeks.

If this is correct, Kosygin may have been in a position to put Hanoi's latest thinking before the visiting Americans.

'PROCEEDING IN FACE OF FURORE'

Conciliation Officer Meets Oil Workers

By ROGER STONEBANKS
Times Labor Reporter

Mediation talks resumed today between oil workers and chief government conciliation officer Reg Clements.

An initial meeting between the two sides was held Wednesday followed by a meeting between Mr. Clements and oil companies Thursday.

The chances of averting a two-day general work stoppage in B.C. next week depend on the outcome of these talks.

Major unions are supporting a call from the 110.000-member B.C. Federation of Labour for a work stoppage next Thursday and Friday if the oil workers' dispute is not settled by midnight Wednesday.

'NORMAL WAY'

Mr. Clements has declined to comment on progress of the talks. He would only say: "The talks are on and I am just proceeding in a normal way and as quietly as possible in face of all the furore."

Labor department sources in Vancouver, where the talks are taking place, said it is unlikely there will be direct company-union bargaining today.

The Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers' Union already is on strike against British-American and Imperial Oil's refinery at Port Moody. Pacific Petroleums has locked out employees at its Taylor, B.C., refinery.

The union has set a strike deadline of next Wednesday night for an extension of the strike to all other petroleum companies. This is almost the last day the union can legally strike the companies under the Labor Relations Act.

KEY ISSUES

Key issues in the dispute concern job security. The union, representing 600 men in B.C., wants job retraining within the company in the face of growing automation plus six months' notification of new processes

In two other developments today, British-American Oil Company accused union leaders of irresponsibility towards oil workers and the public by "publicizing non-existent issues and in threatening the economy with a general strike."

And Labor Minister Leslie Peterson decried speculation in public about possible methods of settling the oil dispute as a hindrance to mediation efforts

STATEMENT

A statement from B-A, struck two months ago in B.C., the Prairies and Ontario, said after five months of negotiations the issues were put to a conciliation board whose recommendations were rejected by the union.

"The union has also rejected B-A's subsequent offers," the statement continued. "The last offer was substantially better than settlements being accepted in Canadian industry generally.

Rhodesian Policy Protested

UNITED NATIONS (AP) —African diplomats boycotted a reception for Princess Margaret at the United Nations today to protest the British government's policy toward the breakaway white - minority government of Rhodesia.

Heads of all UN General Assembly delegations and permanent UN missions of Commonwealth countries were invited to the reception, but none from Africa showed up.

One African diplomat told a reporter:

"I know definitely that it was a boycott."

In UN Security Council debate, Africans generally have accused Britain of not acting with firmness either to prevent Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith from declaring independence from Britain or to end his rebellion and install Negro majority rule in Rhodesia.

The royal party was welcomed by several rounds of applause as it passed through the delegates' entrance. Pierre de Meulemeester of France, chief of protocol, welcomed the party on behalf of UN Secretary-General U Thant.

Princess Margaret and her husband arrived under police escort after a visit to the Empire State Building. A crowd of United Nations employees and officials gathered inside and outside the entrance to the building.

The royal party was escorted immediately to the second floor where it was welcomed by Lord Caradon, Britain's permanent representative to the United Nations. The party then proceeded to a reception in the Indonesian Lounge where there were between 50 and 60 guests, including the heads of the Commonwealth delegations to the UN.

The princess looked beautiful in her pink, diagonal-weave wool coat with detailed top stitch. She wore a pink silk dress with stitched inset on the bodice. A multi-colored lace wool turban, grey handbag, shoes and gloves completed the ensemble.

SAW THANT

After the brief reception, Princess Margaret and Lord Snowdon were escorted to the 38th-floor apartment of Thant for a visit. From there the party proceeded to the Dag Hammarskjold Memorial Library for a lunch.

Hostess at the luncheon was Mrs. Tin Myint U, daughter of the secretary-general. About 50 persons were invited.

The remainder of the program at the UN involved a tour of committee rooms and a brief visit to the General Assembly hall where the royal party was to attend the opening of the afternoon session.

Police said security at the Empire State Building was the heaviest since Cuban Premier Fidel Castro visited the 102-storey skyscraper in 1959. Some 30 uniformed policemen were assigned to the royal couple's route between street level and the building observatory.

Judges Refuse To Obey Smith

SALISBURY (CP) — Chief Justice Sir Hugh Beadle indicated today there was some substance to a press report that Rhodesia's judges had refused to take an oath of allegiance to Prime Minister Ian Smith's rebel government.

Beadle declined to confirm the report in the Johannesburg, South Africa, Rand Daily Mail. But he also did not deny it, saying instead that no authority had been given for publication of the report that the nine judges had refused to sign the new oath required by Smith's government after it declared independence from Britain last week.

Rhodesia's judges are appointed by the Crown, not by the government of the colony.

The Rand Daily Mail said in a dispatch from its Salisbury correspondent that Rhodesia's judges had unanimously decided to stand firmly behind the

GOVERNOR THREATENED

SALISBURY (AP) — Prime Minister Ian Smith's rebel Rhodesian government restored a police guard to Government House today after it was disclosed Sir Humphrey Gibbs, British-appointed governor deposed by Smith, had received four threatening letters.

Prime Minister Smith himself disclosed the threats in a radio broadcast. At least one of the writers, it was learned, threatened to come to Salisbury and shoot the governor.

ROUSING START GIVEN TO TIMES-USC FUND

$7.47 . . . Reminder of Suffering Children

By CANDIDE TEMPLE

A rousing start was given the Children of Asia fund Thursday night at its opening meeting in St. Andrew's Kirk Hall.

Contributions totalling more than $650 were received—giving the annual Times-sponsored Christmas campaign a warm send-off.

"A great success," said Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, of the meeting.

The energetic, red-haired doctor, executive-director of the Unitarian Service Committee which distributes the aid, spoke of the 20 years of work the USC has done with needy persons around the world.

Special contributions to the fund included a $100 cheque from the Victoria Daily Times, and $7.47 in coppers and silver presented in a tin by two young boys.

Particularly pleased with their gift, Dr. Hitschmanova recalled how one of the boys "used to sit on his mother's lap" at USC meetings every year when Dr. Hitschmanova came to speak.

The boys, now aged 10 and 13, who wanted to remain anonymous, collected the money by dropping a few coins in the tin before meals to remind them of hungry children in other lands.

Other "special guests" at the meeting, attended by more than 100 persons, were two elderly ladies who had travelled from Salt Spring Island for the event.

Mrs. S. A. Thompson and Mrs. E. Adams, residents of Fernwood on the Island, founded a group called the North End Neighbours three years ago to contribute to the USC fund.

Sweaters, blankets, shirts, pants and other garments similar to those made by the two ladies were on display at the meeting.

"We're wishing we had brought some over with us ourselves," said Mrs. Adams. "We really have some lovely stuff."

Starting in a small way with only the two of them working for the fund, they were soon "avalanched with clothing and offers of help."

Last year Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Adams were presented with USC pins for outstanding work for the fund, when Dr. Hitschmanova made her annual appearance in Victoria.

The two workers, who "don't feel they do any more than we should," say they have enjoyed every minute of it.

"It gets to be sort of a disease," said Mrs. Thompson. "If I'm not patching or mending something I feel lost."

Dr. Hitschmanova, introduced by Times' editor Brian Tobin, spoke of the 20 years of work done by the USC in far corners of the world.

Slides of the committee's progress and Dr. Hitschmanova's visits to the various projects in India, Korea, Hong Kong and Europe were shown.

Contributions to the Children of Asia fund can be made by sending them care of The Victoria Daily Times.

A list of donors will be published daily.

for dealing with employees has been good and considering B-A's steady employment record and no-strike history, the union's demands for absolute guaranteed employment go beyond reason

"The union has grossly exaggerated the effects of automation in the oil industry in an attempt to generate public and political pressure on the government.

'CREATING BOGEY'

"The union has been falsely creating in the minds of the workers and the public a bogey of mass layoffs. The actual facts are these:

"1. The oil industry has needed all the technological advances and mechanical aids it has developed over the years in order to maintain low consumer prices for our products.

"2. We have needed all the people we have employed.

"3. BA has not laid off a manufacturing employee since 1949."

The company said it does not intend that oil workers jobs go "down the chute."

"We need our employees who are now on strike for the OCAW," it added.

The minister of labor singled out B.C. Liberal leader Ray Perrault for a suggestion that Mr. Justice Victor Dryer should be appointed an industrial commissioner to settle the automation argument.

NOT BINDING

Legislation does not make an industrial commissioner's findings binding on either side, but Mr. Perrault said both the union and companies should agree in writing to abide by the results.

Informed sources indicated this would be tantamount to forced arbitration which would be opposed by both sides and Mr. Peterson said such statements might inflame tempers at a delicate stage in mediation.

"People who shoot from the lip should make sure they know what they are talking about and that it will help," he said.

"Speculation of this nature doesn't assist us in any way in gaining acceptance of the parties, particularly when the dispute itself involves automation and is under constant discussion.

UNIQUE IDEA

"If someone came forward with some unique idea that has not occurred to anyone else as a possible method of settlement, it would be different, but to argue over courses that obviously would be considered only makes things much more diffifult."

The minister pointed out that all alternatives available under legislation, including an industrial commission, obviously would have been considered from the outset of the dispute.

THREE DIE AS FIRE RACES THROUGH BLOCK

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)—A fireman and an elderly woman burned to death and a second fireman was missing and feared dead today in a $500,000 fire that race through a business and residential block on the city's east side.

The body of one fireman, charred beyond recognition, was recovered from the rubble in a restaurant basement. Officials said only a melted fireman's helmet was recognizable. It was believed he fell from the second floor to the basement when floors gave way.

The body of the second firefighter was also believed to be in the ruins.

Queen's representative in Rhodesia, Governor Sir Humphrey Gibbs, and behind Beadle as chief justice.

APPOINTED DUPONT

Smith withdrew recognition from Gibbs after independence and appointed Deputy Prime Minister Clifford Dupont as the titular head of the country.

The judges' reported decision was seen as a direct challenge to the legality of the Smith regime.

Smith, whose government represents Rhodesia's 220,000 whites, declared independence after negotiations broke down over Britain's insistence that he guarantee an adequate voice in the government for Rhodesia's 4,000,000 Negroes.

Beadle has been staying with Gibbs at Government House and made clear he would remain there despite Smith's order to the British - appointed governor to vacate. Gibbs has refused to comply, contending that Smith's government is illegal.

Prime Minister Wilson told the House of Commons Thursday the British government will pay Gibbs' salary if he wants it to. Before Smith stripped Gibbs of his authority, the Rhodesian government paid the governor's salary.

The British prime minister called the restrictions placed on Gibbs—the cutting off of telephone service and transportation—contemptible.

WARNS AGAINST THREATS

Today, Smith said over Rhodesia radio that some people had sent threatening letters to Gibbs, and the Rhodesian leader warned that the government would take action against anyone who did this.

"When people resort to intimidation the government must and will intervene," he declared.

"Therefore I wish to issue a serious warning to those responsible that the government will not tolerate this type of behavior."

Smith added: "At the same time I would point out that my attention has been drawn to the fact that a large number of telegrams have been sent to Sir Humphrey Gibbs requesting him to resign and stand behind the Rhodesian government.

"I believe this type of message is perfectly in order."

There were signs of some unrest in various parts of Rhodesia. In Bulawayo, 350 Negroes were fired from their jobs for protesting independence. Another 2,000 Negroes walked out in a rail strike and face dismissal.

Driver Leaps As Car Crashes

A city man escaped serious injury by leaping from his car as it careened down Mount Douglas Wednesday night.

Harry Haamers, Strathcona Hotel, was taken to Jubilee Hospital for undetermined back injuries but was released after treatment.

He was driving his car down from the summit at the time of the mishap, Saanich police said.

When he got to a hairpin turn about one-third from the top he lost control and the vehicle fish-tailed.

Mr. Haamers jumped from the auto as it shot over the bank.

The car slid 60 feet from the roadway into an area covered in trees and bushes.

Heavy Fire Delaying Paratroops

PLEIKU, South Viet Nam (AP)—South Vietnamese government paratroopers, rushing to link up with battle-worn U.S. forces in the Ia Drang Valley of South Viet Nam, ran into a fight tonight near the Cambodian frontier.

A U.S. spokesman said North Vietnamese troops put up stiff resistance to a southward march of the paratroopers near the frontier and inflicted light casualties.

Heavy fire held up the paratroopers, part of a South Vietnamese regiment being committed to the valley battle.

The Americans, who beat off four enemy assaults during the night, reported a relatively quiet day.

FEARED IRON POISON

Many farmers refused to use cast-iron plows when they were first invented, for fear they would make the soil barren.

Wooing Hit By Angry, Cold Britons

LONDON (CP) — Milder weather and fog moved over much of England today, leaving the English free to concentrate on their rage over electricity and gas cut-offs during the season's first spell of cold weather.

Thousands of workers had to be laid off Tuesday and Wednesday and sections of the island were blacked out for hours at a time because of a sudden demand for electricity and gas when temperatures fell below freezing.

Questions were immediately asked in Parliament. What promises to be a lengthy stream of protest letters to newspaper editors has already started.

One writer suggested that Power Minister Fred Lee should resign, on the grounds that "if private industry had made such a mess, the chairman and managing directors would have been sacked."

WOO NEW CUSTOMERS

What seemed to anger many Britons was that both of the government - owned services, electricity and gas, have been competing for months in massive advertising campaigns, wooing new customers into investing in central heating, new stoves and refrigerators — into what the electricity board calls the "world of tomorrow."

Both gas and electricity boards have protested that the sudden cold snap caught them by surprise. Their replies have provoked even angrier complaints, with sarcastic reminders that winter normally comes about this time.

Thousands of British homes were reduced to using candles for light during the blackout and attempting to keep warm by opening long - disused fireplaces.

Both electricity and gas boards have promised to be in better shape by January. But they say frankly that another cold spell before then may mean more power and gas cutoffs.

HOSPITAL FACTS WANTED . . . . . . 'FROM THE HORSE'S MOUTH

Council 'Stood Up' by Minister

By AB KENT
City Hall Reporter

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell Thursday stood up a special Victoria city council meeting expecting to hear him detail regional hospital financing.

Mayor R. B. Wilson and aldermen chided the minister for appearing to neglect a matter considered vital to Greater Victoria ratepayers and the district as a whole.

In Courtenay

But discussion was carried on with the minister's executive assistant, Ian Dodds, who said Mr. Campbell was unavoidably in Courtenay and had intended to be at the meeting.

Mr. Campbell had suggested earlier that the meeting be held in his office, Mayor Wilson said.

"The fact that the minister is not here is of great disappointment to the people of this area . . . who wanted to get the facts from the horse's mouth, "Mayor R. B. Wilson said.

CAMPBELL

He was backed up by Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, who walked out of a special council meeting Tuesday to underline the seriousness of proposed compulsory property tax for hospital construction.

"It's the minister who answers to the people. He's elected by the people," Ald. Edgelow said.

"This is a matter of policy. He should have made a point of being here."

The mayor said there is no no disagreement that the voluntary system of hospital financing is out of date.

No Quarrel

"There is no quarrel with the method or raising funds," Ald. A. W. Toone said.

But the proposal backed by the provincial government could place a heavy load on the shoulders of taxpayers, he said.

After open discussion, council have first readings to a bylaw permitting Victoria ratepayers to vote Dec. 11 on participation in a regional hospital district.

The bylaw contains a form of ballot that may still be amended, depending on clarificatoin from Mr. Campbell.

Anxious

Aldermen are anxious to make clear that ratepayers in unorganized areas would be subject to the same basis of taxation as those in municipalities.

A simple majority of ballots will decide whether Victoria opts out or enters the proposed district for hospital purposes.

Three other functions of regional administration are agreed upon — a sewer survey, uniform fireworks control and regional parks.

Information

Council will make no stand on hospitals until it has all pertinent information.

According to a projection of

Victoria district hospital planning council, whose members also attended city council session, $10,569,100 must be raised by the community for new hospital construction between 1967 and 1980.

Total capital costs will come to $26,035,000 including provincial and federal grants.

It is proposed that a maximum of two mills a year on local tax bills would finance the scheme.

"What would happen if two mills a year doesn't carry the load?" Mayor Wilson asked, suggesting the estimated costs are on the conservative side.

Leeway

Mr. Dodds said that was a pessimistic outlook and hypothetical.

"I think there is leeway in the financial structure to cover it."

Ald. Michael Griffin suggested local assessments would be raised to provide more revenue from the same mill rate.

Ald. M. H. Mooney asked what would happen if one area opts out.

St. Joseph's Hospital assistant administrator Patrick Blewett said the feeling was that this would kill the district.

Ald. Griffin said the government would use an educational program to try to avoid this.

It would be "almost pressure" he said.

Annual revenue for the scheme would amount to $605,925, according to a schedule prepared from 1964 and 1965 figures for Mr. Dods.

They show the capital region assessment to be $302,952,841 and population to be 167,776.

Half the monies would be based on population and half on assessment.

Mill Rates

Victoria would raise $202,432 at a rate of 1.96 mills. The other areas would produce as follows:

Saanich $188,823 (2.18 mills); Oak Bay $72,571 (1.78 mills); Esquimalt $39,915 (2.64 mills); Central Saanich $13,003 (1.92 mil's); Sidney $9,704 (1.87 mil.s); N. Saanich $13,617 1.66 mills); unorganized $65,860 (1.76 mills).

Oak Bay Coun. Mrs. Frances Elford was one of several observers at the meeting. She said Reeve Allan Cox agreed with her proposal that regional hospital financing should be delayed for consideration early next year.

Ratepayers are entitled to more details before a vote is called, she said.

"This would be an irrevocable step, a marriage without any hope of divorce," she said.

Hands Sewed Back On

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A 47-year-old meat cutter was reported in satisfactory condition today after both his hands were sewed back on after being severed in an accident Thursday.

Joseph Weisz of nearby Hyattsville, Md., lost both hands when he triggered the starting mechanism of a meat chopping machine he was repairing.

Fellow workers immediately applied tourniquets to stop the bleeding and Weisz was rushed to the hospital in an ambulance. His severed hands were taken along in a paper bag.

Surgeons replaced the hands in an hours-long, delicate operation.

Ready to Respond

ONCE AGAIN THE VICTORIA Daily Times is happy to sponsor the annual campaign of the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada in its appeal for funds for the needy children of Asia.

This is an appeal which needs no introduction to most of the people of this community. For the past 12 years Greater Victorians have responded generously to the cry of the homeless, the hungry, the uneducated children of Korea, India and other Asian lands. This year, with the recent warfare added to India's problems, many children will look more than ever to the generosity of the people of our land of plenty.

The disposition of the funds raised each year throughout Canada for this work is supervised to the last dollar. The Unitarian Service Committee is now entering its third decade of service on a non-political, non-denominational basis, and currently supports more than 70 projects in nine countries. These include children's homes, schools, hospitals, mobile medical units, the feeding and clothing of urgent cases, while spreading the name of Canada throughout areas of need.

Last year, children in Korea, India and Greece received Canadian milk, food and other aid. This is a work which stresses the personal approach to assistance, and 85 per cent of the effort is directed to aid for children. In her address here last night, Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, the able executive director of the service, gave a graphic description of the results of Canadians' donations over the years.

Starting today, Greater Victorians have an opportunity once more to provide the money that means so much to those who receive it in the form of life-giving food and a new chance for happiness. Your contribution will be welcomed, and publicly acknowledged in the news columns of this paper.

The Direct Approach

FOR THE FIRST TIME SINCE the French boycott of European Common Market meetings last July, the ECM has moved to reach the French people directly in an attempt to convince them they have powerful economic incentives to keep the community alive.

Two reports widely distributed by the ECM last weekend were written in a way which tends to counter President de Gaulle's vehement objections to France surrendering any of its autonomy in favor of the European Community organization.

The first, aimed at French business, points out that private spending on plants and machinery in the ECM has been sluggish in recent months despite a pickup in industrial production generally. "It is not clear," the report from Brussels said, "how far uncertainty over the Common Market's future is already casting a shadow in this area." Since this is the first time that the ECM has even hinted officially at a link between the boycott by France and slowing economic activity, the message is not likely to be misunderstood.

The second ECM document is aimed at French farmers and points out that since the organization's beginning, France has increased agricultural exports to the other five ECM members by 250 per cent. In terms of farm products which the ECM directly regulates the jump has been even more spectacular, 450 per cent.

In a small way these messages from Brussels to Frenchmen could have some influence on the French presidential election since President de Gaulle can be clearly seen as the only real opponent to ending the ECM deadlock. However, there is also the possibility that Charles de Gaulle—almost a sure winner in the election — will resent this interference by the Brussels group enough to make things even tougher. French industry and agriculture are almost solidly in favor of the Common Market; but they are almost solidly in favor of De Gaulle as well.

Round and Round They Go

ANOTHER PROTRACTED meeting of the International North Pacific Fisheries Commission has ended without settlement of the difference between the North Americans and the Japanese over the area in which Japan should abstain from fishing.

Once more the Americans, no doubt speaking for the Canadians also, have pointed to the danger of depleting to a serious, perhaps critical, extent some well-established fisheries. Once more Japan has declared unacceptable the fishing limit imposed on the country by the original treaty—westward from the 175th meridian.

While these points are being repeated by the countries which were partners to the original North Pacific treaty, Russian fleets move to the border of, if not inside, the Canadian 12-mile fishing limits.

The Russians may not be fishing for the particular species covered by the Canadian-American-Japanese treaty. Their physical presence close to Canada's shores — even if they seek other types of fish — shows their easy access to North Pacific high seas fisheries of any type. They are not "fenced out" by treaty.

The resulting situation makes little sense. As Japan and the North Americans discuss the question of "fencing off" certain areas, the gate is left wide open to the Soviets.

Perhaps it is time to seek from the delegates to the North Pacific Fisheries Commission meetings a frank announcement of the compromise which must be reached—along with plans to make a renewed, or entirely new, pact applicable to all nations which can and do fish the North Pacific.

Sooner or later the three negotiating nations, Canada, the United States and Japan will have to get off the merry-go-round. The sooner they do, and seek a broader international conservation agreement which will preserve necessary stocks, the more acceptable will be their respective positions. Mere repetition of the old arguments serves little purpose.

Our Schools Need More

THE GREATER VICTORIA School Board has presented an unpleasant fact to this community: the amount of money approved last year for the school building program is not enough.

To do the job already authorized by the 1964 referendum, $1,729,734 more is required. The board asks the citizens to authorize the additional sum by an affirmative vote on the issue next December 11.

A simple explanation is given by the trustees for the difference between what seemed sufficient a little more than a year ago and what is now required: Construction costs have gone up. Tenders for the different units have been higher than the estimates.

Under different circumstances, two alternatives would lie before the voters. They might approve the raising of additional funds or they might vote no and tell the trustees to cut their suit to fit the cloth. The second alternative, in fact, is unrealistic. There is no margin for cutting. If the referendum is not passed next month, needed accommodation will not be provided. A substantial number of the community's children will be short-changed.

As the situation stands it will be necessary for the community to borrow the extra money. A commitment has already been made. It can be honored only by the provision of additional funds. Unless it is honored the reasonable expectation of all young people to enjoy equal opportunities for an education will be denied.

The assurance by the provincial government of its readiness to provide its share of the costs shows official appreciation of the need.

Patch-Up or Thorou gh Reconstruction

EVER since the count of service ballots added two seats to the Liberal column, the capital has been buzzing with rumors about approaches to Social Credit, independent or dissident Conservative members designed to bring the government's strength in the House of Commons to the magic figure of 134. This speculation obscures the true nature of Mr. Pearson's problem. There is nothing magic about such a figure in a Parliament divided among five parties. At no time in the two and a half years of the first Pearson administration did the government face an unmanageable threat in the House of Commons.

Western

The absence of a formal Liberal majority was more than compensated for by the steady refusal of the opposition groups to combine in strength against the ministry. On the few occasions when the prime minister could not count on support from across the floor, he was sustained indirectly by the opposition absentees.

Sense of Security?

It may, indeed, have been a sense of security rather than a sense of weakness which brought on the election. The behavior of opposition groups was widely attributed to a calculation that only the government stood to gain from an early vote and this probably exerted a strong influence on those who pressed their political advice on Mr. Pearson.

Evidently a government in such circumstances does not require a clear majority to maintain itself in power. What it does need is enough apparent support in the country to deter the opposition from a lethal parliamentary blow. Mr. Pearson had this from 1963 to 1965, partly because the economy was booming, partly because many of his policies (for example, the flag) were sufficiently popular to offset some obvious mistakes, and partly because Mr. Diefenbaker's leadership divided his party, including the parliamentary group, throughout this period.

It is very doubtful, however, that a government could last for long with nothing more to sustain it than a bare majority scraped together by a few concessions and long-distance telephone calls. A minority Parliament so ruled would would be an uneasy Parliament likely to be swayed by sudden gusts of opinion. Ministers must often be absent; members may miss divisions through illness; pairs are not easily arranged. A sudden vacancy at any time might destroy the illusion of security.

Overhaul Time

Mr. Pearson has no choice now but to reconstruct a ministry which has suffered losses and has been rebuffed in its bid for a parliamentary majority. The real question is: will it be essentially a patch-up job or a thorough-going reconstruction? Recent speculation about ventures outside the Liberal Party seems to proceed from an assumption that the task is one of broadening the present cast (possibly with minor changes) by bringing in persons who can fill such obvious gaps as agriculture or the representation of Prince Edward Island.

It is very possible, however, that the last patch-up job, which followed successive scandal shocks, cost the government its chance of a majority on November 8. Mr. Pearson, misjudging his real strength in the country, retained ministers who had become political liabilities, not because they had been convicted of wrong-doing but because they were obviously vulnerable on the score of judgment. The prime minister's excessive loyalty to his colleagues gave the opposition a badly needed stick with which to beat the government in the recent campaign.

With the resignation of Mr. Walter Gordon, an important change will now have to be made. In itself, however, the retirement of the finance minister proves nothing concerning Mr. Pearson's capacity for decisive action in these matters. On the evidence of the published correspondence, it was Mr. Gordon who pressed his resignation on a reluctant prime minister.

Mr. Pearson is now being advised by some friendly sources to concentrate on building a ministry of talent even at the expense of geographic comprehension. With such a ministry and a sober reappraisal of policies, there would be a good chance of regaining lost ground and winning a more favorable opinion in the country. The likelihood is that Mr. Diefenbaker's war of nerves would then become rather pointless and that an effective, though perhaps not a formal majority, would soon emerge in Parliament to sustain the government.

FROM NEW YORK

By RICHARD PURSER

Voice of Conciliation

THE United Nations security council's emergency session on Southern Rhodesia this week moved into the phase where backstage consultations begin to predominate over public pronouncements. The statements in public debate by the council members, and by the numerous other UN members allowed to participate, have by now set out the two conflicting positions in repetitious detail.

Purser

On one hand, the white Western community of nations supports the measures proposed by Britain to counter Southern Rhodesia's unilateral declaration of independence. On the other hand, the non-white community of nations deride the British measures and demand a tougher policy, including force if needed.

The voice of conciliation was raised during the session's first five meetings by a member of an "in between" group, Latin America. Dr. Hector Paysse Reyes of Uruguay, Latin America's spokesman on the present council, acknowledged that the vehemence of African delegates was understandable since they had continually and correctly warned the UN on what was going to happen in Southern Rhodesia. But the voices of Britain and the great powers must now also be heard.

Argument By Uruguay

The veto in the hands of Britain and the other four permanent members of the 11-member Security Council requires that the unanimity of the big powers not be disturbed. For that reason Uruguay would not support the African demand for the use of armed force at this time.

Dr. Paysse Reyes was in effect accepting British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart's warning against paralyzing council action by "discussing impossibilities" — pressuring Britain into putting down Mr. Ian Smith's rebellion by force. Uruguay had suggested to the British delegation changes in the British resolution now before the council, calling for UN support of British policy. These changes would take into account provisions of the African draft resolution also before the council, calling for militant action.

This is of course the usual path of compromise, the signs are that Africans are listening. A suggestion made publicly by Dr. Paysse Reyes and privately by others was to extend Britain's economic and financial measures into a universal and total economic and financial blockade against Southern Rhodesia. A decision to blockade could be made compulsory on all UN members under article 49 of the UN charter. According to Dr. Paysse Reyes, a blockade, by avoiding military action, would prevent Rhodesian Africans from becoming "cannon fodder." It would not cause hunger to the Africans, who already live austerely, but it would strangle the privileged white minority.

Britain has displayed no liking for a total blockade, on the ground that loopholes tend to appear when such action is attempted. Britain has proposed only measures which it can guarantee. To the distress of Africans, Britain has avoided calling for an all-important oil embargo. British spokesmen say this is because Britain has not the power to ensure its effectiveness, as it hs the power to stifle sales of the Rhodesian tobacco crop.

Africans' Opinion

Africans doubt that a total economic blockade would in fact avoid military action. They believe any blocade may be nullified by aid given white Rhodesians by Portugal and South Africa. To be effective, they say, it would require military sealing of the Rhodesian frontiers. (South Africa on Monday refused a council request to appear before it to state its policy, on the ground that the issue was one of "exclusively domestic concern in which the United Nations was not competent to intervene." Africans regarded this as ominous.)

Africans feel that as things stand, Mr. Smith has won a seeming victory concealed by the practiced subtleties of British diplomacy. They are crying out for "responsible" — meaning British—action to decisively crush the rebellion because they believe that, in its absence, irresponsible action will be taken. They do not really expect communist troops to join an African call to arms. (Nor do countries like Zambia and Malawi want them —they feel Red troops would be easier to get in than to get out.) Despite their protestation of African unity, they also doubt that their own countries can mount an effective joint action.

What they fear is a reign of terror in Southern Rhodesia. The white population is pitifully small in comparison with the black population. The white army could not be nearly as effective as South Africa's against a true national guerrilla uprising. Terror would strike white and black alike; one of its chief manifestations would be physical coercion of blacks themselves by their leaders. The first signs of black resistance will lead to white repression, which will set off an escalating cycle. This is the dismal pattern of Mau Mau and Algeria.

Great Orator

Aneurin Bevan, the most controversial leading figure in the Labour Party in recent times, became by common consent, one of the greatest speakers the British Parliament has known in this century . . . He could think on his feet more than any other speaker I ever heard. Not merely could he devise a sudden retort to crush an interjection; Lloyd George and Churchill had that faculty too. But Bevan could re-design a whole speech, a whole argument in mid-flight. It made him the prince of debaters.

After having held for many years first place in popular favor among Victoria dancers, the two-step will probably soon give way to a new dance called the three-step. The new dance is a combination of waltz, ripple and two-step, and all the dancing set are busy trying to master it.

Nearly every night a small party gathers at some Victoria home to practice. Mrs. MacNaughton-Jones and Mrs. MacTavish are reputedly expert "three-steppers."

Letters

To Dramatize the Issue

Armistice Day and "The Guns of August" remind us of the horrors of war. At the same time we realize that the world is divided politically, economically and racially. At least the following seem necessary before the human race will be safe from catastrophe:

1. Reduction of national armaments —especially destruction of non-conventional weapons such as N-bombs, H-bombs and germ weapons. Most people think that a world police force must take their place.

2. Increased effective sharing of wealth with the poorer nations, such as the compulsory 1 per cent of the combined national incomes of the developed nations for foreign aid, as is being discussed by the UN.

Members of the Peace Club of Uvic believe that the situation is urgent, and that we can't spend all our time "studying" the situation. Since in a democracy public opinion counts, we believe that one way of helping is by dramatizing the issues. We joined a vigil on November 11, and will participate in other actions.—Bruce Hardy, for Peace Club of Uvic.

Rouse the Teachers

Herewith is delayed action triggered by the Victoria Daily Times November 12 report of Dr. Geoffrey Mason's criticism of the educational system reflected in our schools and universities.

In this day of disturbing change and unparalleled challenge it is all too easy to find a scapegoat in one or other of our institutions; but the strength of the Uvic professor's approach lay in its constructive and eminently practicable suggestion made to a key professional group.

The purpose of this letter is to urge the teacher members of the speaker's audience to take up the matter vigorously with their local association and provincial federation, and to arouse curiosity and impel inquiry on the part of the general public; for initiative in the principles and practice of education lies with the public in general and truly professional teachers in particular.—Eric H. Whittingham, 2190 Ferndale.

Commence to Govern

Now that the sorry and depressing election campaign is over, and the people have questionably returned a similar verdict as in 1963, portraying that they are neither for nor against the status quo, but apparently giving the government a chance to redeem itself, it is now the moral obligation of all parties concerned, that is the 265 elected members, to settle down and commence to govern.

It is to be hoped that the intentions of the opposition parties, especially the main one, are not to waste the country's valuable time in making "mincemeat" out of the prime minister for past mistakes. That is water under the bridge. It must be remembered that all parties help to govern. The opposition is paid the same as the government members, and it is up to them to see that good legislation goes through. Under the present circumstances it seems to me that to have a workable government all parties must co-operate and work together in good fellowship, and to bend all their energies in pursuing the dream of a strong and vibrant Canada. Forget petty rivalries and concentrate on only those issues that will benefit us all.—"Very Anxious."

Wrong Beatitude

Upon reading my letter which you kindly printed in Wednesday evening's edition of your newspaper under the heading "Sowers of Discord," I noticed to my horror—and embarrassment—that I had misquoted the beatitude "Blessed are the peacemakers" which should end with the words "for they shall be called the children of God" and not "for their's is the Kingdom of Heaven."—Mrs. John Bainbridge, 1712 Queensbury.

Curbs Democracy

New York Times

BRAZIL's revolutionary government has moved in decisive and immoderate fashion to maintain itself in power. It took action, according to President Castelo Branco, so that it could continue to carry out its admittedly unpopular but necessary economic reforms. But in abolishing all political parties, in packing the Supreme Court, in expanding the power of the military, and in declaring that the next president will be elected by indirect means, the government is destroying the democratic institutions essential for real participation in Brazil's economic recovery.

Until now, Castelo Branco has resisted hard-line elements in the army and in the business community who were prepared to destroy budding democracy in Brazil. His explanation for succumbing to their demands now is that the government was threatened by followers of the deposed Goulart regime. This is as dubious as the claim that the revolution took power originally to forestall a Communist coup. The opposition is strong, but it is rallying behind Juscelino Kubitschek, the charismatic leader of the Social Democrats, and not behind the discredited Jango Goulart. In the recent state elections, the Kubitschek forces scored a series of victories that reflected the extent of the nation's discontent.

Castelo Branco had a choice. He might have attempted to placate the democratic opposition; he elected instead to accept the dictates of the extremists. He hopes that this new step in the revolution will give the nation a period of "tranquillity" in which to carry out economic rehabilitation. But it is far more likely that the government's authoritarian powers will foster more resentment and unrest and thus undermine the prospects for internal development.

So Brazil's essentially middle class and democratic revolution, which once seemed so promising in its aims and its actions, is turning away from democracy. To be sure, Brazil's inflation-racked economy needs to be rehabilitated. But Brazil is basically rich in people and resources, while her democratic institutions have been traditionally weak. The revolutionary government could have tried to bolster democracy even if it meant some slowing down of economic reforms. In deliberately turning against democracy, it also jeopardizes Brazil's economic rehabilitation.

The Penkovsky Papers—2

No Doubt Large Part of Journal Is Deliberate Forgery by CIA

By VICTOR ZORZA
The Manchester Guardian

Well known as an expert on Soviet affairs, Mr. Zorza here concludes his examination of the controversial Penkovsky Papers, purportedly the journal of an Anglo-American spy executed in Russia in 1953. Mr. Zorza has been often stigmatized by Soviet officials as a "tool of the imperialists," and as a "reactionary" and "enemy of the people," which lends irony to the fact that he comes to the conclusion that the Penkovsky Papers are in part forged and were issued by the Central Intelligence Agency as an anti-Communist propaganda move.

LONDON — So far as can be established, the Russian manuscript of Penkovsky's memoirs just does not exist.

When news of the imminent publication of the Penkovsky English papers was reported in the world press, the American publishers of the book were inundated with requests for permission to serialize the story in newspapers and to publish it in foreign languages.

Among these requests was one from a small Russian emigre publishing house in West Germany. All it could offer was $250. This was accepted without any haggling, since all the proceeds from the book are to go to the "Penkovsky Foundation", formed in the United States for this purpose.

That the American publishers had accepted the book for publication in good faith is shown by their willingness to procure the Russian text for the emigre publishing house. But after several weeks and repeated requests to the "Penkovsky Foundation," the Russian text has not been made available, and it looks as if it never will be.

The English text is peppered with words and phrases that no man with Penkovsky's Soviet background would use. He is made to refer repeatedly to "Soviet Russians" or to "Soviets" in describing his countrymen. These terms would sound as strange in Russian as a "United States American" or "British Englishman" would sound in ordinary English usage.

From Ignorance

These are not mistakes in translation, but they arise from ignorance of Soviet terminology. The stock Soviet phrase for the kind of political deviation for which Marshal Zhukov, the defence minister, was purged in 1957 is "Bonapartist tendencies." Yet Penkovsky is made to report Khrushchev as saying that Marshal Zhukov was displaying "Napoleonic characteristics." No translator would depart so far from the original. But if the remark was inserted in English by someone writing some time after he had read an account of the Zhukov affair, a faulty memory for phrases might have easily led him to use the associated, but incorrect, term.

Penkovsky is made to illustrate the change in Sino-Soviet relations by remarking that the phrase "Great China" has now been replaced in official terminology by unadorned "China." However, the official usage was never "Great China" — It was "the great Chinese people." He is made to refer to a high party official as an R.S.F.S.R. Communist party leader" — a phrase that would never be used by a Soviet official, who would know that the R.S.F.S.R. — the initials of the Russian Republic—has no Communist party distinct from the Soviet party.

One of the chapters begins with a reference by Penkovsky to his recent trip to "Europe" —although a Russian returning to Moscow would speak of a visit to the "West." The reference to a trip to "Europe" would have come naturally to an American compiler of the papers.

Facts Wrong

Among Penkovsky's many unlikely digressions, his excursion into the history of the party appears particularly improbable—and factually wrong. He provides a long list of party leaders over the years who, as successive editions of the party history went to press, were purged and described variously as enemies of the people, traitors, and imperialist hirelings.

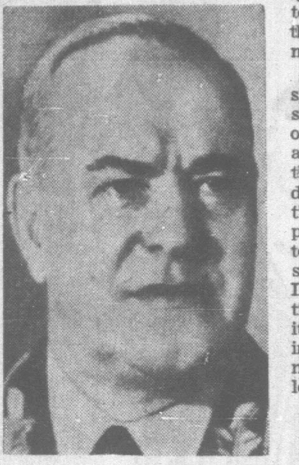
This is an exercise beloved by anti-Communist propagandists, and figures in many of their tracts. But a true professional would never make the mistake of listing Marshal Zhukov as "Khrushchev's Enemy"—a phrase that would never be used in an official Soviet textbook. Penkovsky would certainly have known it to be wrong.

In listing the official functions of high Soviet officers, he often describes them as "deputies of the Supreme Soviet"—a meaningless dignity on which, good spy that he was, he would not waste his breath. However, a Western compiler might well have taken these and other details from any good reference book, just to fill out the picture for the inexpert reader.

Penkovsky is made to show his indignation at Khrushchev's recklessness in 1961 in testing a 50-megaton bomb which he describes as having a yield of 80 and, elsewhere, of 100 megatons — although the accurate measurements taken by Western experts have put it at under 60 megatons.

Similarly, he reports that several Soviet launches of manned Sputniks took the lives of their crews. In fact, all Russian launchings have been monitored by Western radio and radar tracking devices which would have revealed beyond any doubt, through the nature of the communications passing between the satellite and the base, the presence of a human being aboard. Western experts have repeatedly dismissed this particular rumor.

The report attributed to Penkovsky that Marshal Chuikov, the commander-in-chief of the ground forces, was dismissed from this post in 1961 and appointed chief of civil defence is wrong. It is true that he got the civil defence job at that time, but he continued as commander of the ground forces — and the Soviet military press referred to him repeatedly as such.



MARSHAL ZHUKOV
. . . Napoleonic?

It was only in 1964 that he lost this post, nearly two years after Penkovsky's arrest. It would appear that someone compiling the "papers" more recently has confused the two events and dates, making Penkovsky report something that occurred after he was executed in 1963. Similar confusion is evident in Penkovsky's references to the removal by Khruschev in 1957 of the "anti-party group" of Molotov, Malenkov, and Bulganin — although Bulganin remained prime minister until 1958, without at first being charged with membership of the group.

Virtually the whole section on Soviet military doctrine appears to have been written by a Western pen. It is here that the references to "Soviets" and "Soviet Russians" are most obstrusive.

First Strike

Would Penkovsky really have bothered to write out long passages from a publication which he had photographed and dispatched to his Western masters? This whole section, and a number of others in the book, is accompanied by repeated warnings from Penkovsky about the Soviet determination to acquire a first strike posture, and to launch nuclear attack on the West.

The chapter on strategy is made the main vehicle for the message, and the long quotations from the "special collection" are designed to give it an air of authority. But the impression is false, for General Gastitlovich, on whose contribution the compiler relies to drive the first strike lesson home, was strongly contradicted by equally authoritative contributors to the "special collection", but the Penkovsky papers give no hint of this.

General Kurochkin, a respected Soviet strategist, went so far as to describe some of the more extreme views as "anti-Marxist". This is the chapter that can be described without any hesitation as forged. The compiler of the book adds insult to injury by making Penkovsky say that "I am sorry that I cannot copy here the entire special collection"—or is it, perhaps, a private joke inserted for the entertainment of the compiler's colleagues?

Great Pity

The use—or misuse—of the special collection in this way is a great pity. Its publication in full would have added greatly to the understanding of Soviet strategy among students in the West. But there is now reason to fear that the account given in the papers will prevent the full publication which would inevitably show up the imbalance of the Penkovsky book.

It may be that some of the errors pin-pointed in this article are not necessarily evidence of forgery, but the cumulative weight of the evidence is too great to support any other interpretation.

The book can have been compiled only by the Central Intelligence Agency. No other organization in the West, apart from British Intelligence, and certainly no individual, could have had access to the information of which the book is made up.

Federal Vote Result Ominous For Provincial Liberal Party

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

Mika

The national election results in British Columbia last week failed to bring any particular cheer to the federal Liberals but they were positively ominous for the provincial Liberal party.

On the basis of the popular vote swings alone, the party will have to strive mightily at the next provincial election to avoid sinking below the level of 1956 when it elected only two members to the legislature.

A gloomy-minded backroom boy might even view the Nov. 8 results as a finger pointing towards an entirely new horizon in Canadian politics which might see the disappearance of both old-line parties and the emergence of a two-party system in B.C. involving only the radicals—Social Credit on the right and New Democrats on the left.

The finger is a shadowy one, as all political projections must be, but there is a certain statistical substance to it. And, if need be, Premier Bennett's redistribution of provincial constituencies this coming spring might shift that horizon a little closer to bring it into actual view—although he would be "sorry for the inconvenience" of course.

No Comfort

Provincial Liberal strategists can't take any comfort from the fact that it was a federal election because the consensus of the pollsters, newspapermen and candidates themselves was that no national issues stirred the B.C. voters or seriously affected their choices.

In essence, it was a prelude to a provincial election (expected next year by both NDP Leader Strachan and Liberal Leader Perrault). And to some extent Premier Bennett's unusually-parochial campaign in support of his national colleagues can be considered the first round in a fight he hopes will crown his B.C. career with an unprecedented sweep of the legislature.

Remember his "Nobody, but nobody, should vote Liberal in this province" slogan? Where was that aimed—at the Ottawa landscape or the aforementioned horizon looming through the shadows of B.C. politics?

Very Troubling

That question can be very troubling to both opposition parties for if Mr. Bennett renders the provincial Liberals as impotent as the Conservatives, the NDP stand to lose some seats they have won solely because of previous three-way spilts.

Although the national Socred party didn't have enough candidates in the field to form an official opposition even if all were elected, the tides of popular support reached a highwater mark for the Socreds in B.C. with an amazing upsurge (surely attracted only by Mr. Bennett) of four per cent.

While the NDP did well nationally, in B.C. they increased their support by only two per cent.

Most significant, the Liberals lost two per cent and the already moribund Conservatives were drained of a further four per cent making their future questionable even as a fourth-rank contender in this province.

An analysis of the votes lost by the federal Liberals and gained by the federal Socreds in ridings which contain the provincial constituencies represented by Ray Perrault, Gordon Gibson, Dr. Pat McGeer, Harry McKay and Alan Macfarlane shows a grim picture.

A further drain of Liberal support and almost complete Conservative switch to the provincial Socreds is a possibility but ignoring these entirely and taking only the statistical trends: Perrault, McGeer and Macfarlane have "skin of the teeth" edges in hanging onto their seats while the other two are definite underdogs if an early election is called by the premier.

ALAN MACFARLANE
. . . seat in danger

Mr. Macfarlane, whose Oak Bay constituency is swallowed up by the Victoria federal riding, has an extra liability poised over his head that could crush his chances. Redistribution of the provincial seats is more than half-expected to pull his constituency out from under him and Victoria MLA Waldo Skillings —a close social friend of Mr. Bennett — even joked at the last session of the legislature that Oak Bay would be gerrymandered.

But even if Oak Bay remains as a separate seat, the Socreds have a much better chance of winning it if their Nov. 8 performance is an indication. The poll-by-poll counts are not available yet to allow positive separation of the Oak Bay area from the rest of the Victoria riding results, but officials on both sides agree that the Socreds made serious inroads into Liberal precincts—even the Uplands—and these will have to be won back if Mr. Macfarlane is to have a new lease on his seat.

North Vancouver, which returned Mr. Perrault and Mr. Gibson despite a strong challenge by Socred candidates in the 1963 election, comes within the federal Coast-Capilano riding—where the federal Liberals lost 1,688 votes between 1963 and 1965 while the Socreds gained 2,020.

Bare Victory

The same trend in a provincial contest would elect the leading Socred, Herb Capozzi, next time with Mr. Perrault barely squeezing out a victory over the second Socred. Mr. Cibson, correspondingly. would run a poor fourth and lose his seat.

Fernie constituency, which comprises about half of the Kootenay East federal riding, would reject incumbent Harry McKay if the Liberal federal loss of 835 votes and Socred gain of 1,398 votes was repeated provincially on a pro rata basis.

And Dr. Pat McGeer, who headed the poll in the three-member Vancouver - Point Grey constituency, would eke out a bare margin of 371 votes to hold third and last spot while Attorney-General Bonner resumed his accustomed first place and Trade and Industry Minister Ralph Loffmark consolidated his position by moving up into second.

Federal Losses

This projection is based on the Liberal federal losses in both Vancouver-Burrard and Vancouver-South (which combined duplicate the provincial constituency) where they totalled minus 2,215 votes against the Socreds plus 2,741 votes.

In all the mainland examples, the NDP and Conservatives also suffered heavy losses comparable to those of the Liberals and only the Socreds were gainers.

This, of course, makes pretty grim reading for Liberal supporters but for many it probably will serve to steel their resolve. After all, in 1956 there were only two of their party in the legislature and the party appeared ready to follow the provincial Conservatives into oblivion — but they've bounced back to five.

New Push On Soviet Agriculture

By STEPHEN S. ROSENFELD
The Washington Post

MOSCOW — It is a fair reflection of the low estate of Soviet agriculture that only now is it beginning to be touched by the excitement and intellectual ferment which have produced far-reaching reforms in Soviet industry.

As though to catch up in one swoop, an agricultural economist has proposed that "planning by directive" — the present system of elaborate detailed instructions sent down from the centre—be abolished in favor of "planning by price."

The centre would simply set prices for the crops it buys from the farms and the farms would be left to steer themselves as they choose toward high prices and away from low ones.

What gives economist G. Lisichkin's suggestion special value is that it is not merely an isolated outspoken notion but a response to Communist Party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev's invitation last March to economists to submit fresh farm ideas.

Lisichkin also heeds Brezhnev's specific summons for proposals on how to make self-supporting enterprises out of the state farms (collective farms are theoretically farmer-owned co-operatives) which make up the economically weakest but heretofore politically most favored quarter of the country's farm establishment

State farmers are paid mainly straight wages for particular tasks. Since their pay is not tied to the quantity or quality of what is produced, Lisichkin contends, they don't work as hard as collective farmers and don't worry much about introducing new technology of being more efficient.

He therefore would use financial levers to interest state farmers more in output and productivity, like collective farmers. Here he follows Brezhnev, who spoke for making state farms self-supporting by letting them keep any profit, which now goes to the state.

Nationalism and Football: End of the Canadian Game

By DOUGLAS FISHER
Former NDP MP for Port Arthur

Fisher

The difficulties of the Canadian nationalist who stews about American pressures are not confined to the political and the economic sphere.

A prize example is the resurgence of concern over the future of Canadian football. This is restricted so far to enthusiasts for sport and the game itself but the dilemma is symbolic, even typical, of the gropings in more august activities.

There's a similarity between the "import" quota and restrictions in football and the Time-Reader's Digest situation in periodical publishing or the Board of Broadcast Governors' 55 per cent Canadian content ruling. How does the small group activity survive with any distinctiveness against the pressures, mainly indirect and casual, of a much larger group?

The problem of the Canadian Football League in 1965 has become clearer because of a disbalanced Eastern division which provided inferior sporting entertainment. Yet it isn't so simple that we can believe a restoration of competent football teams in Toronto and Montreal will reproduce the golden years.

The Toronto Rifles are the germ of even greater trouble and the slow attrition in respect for Canadian football among Canadians is going to continue as long as more and more Canadians watch the TV displays of the NFL and the AFL.

The temptation is growing, although no one has really seized it yet, to achieve in football something akin to the Canada-U.S. automobile deal. There are two possibilities here, neither of which is very satisfactory.

* * *

The first is that the CFL would come to some understanding with one or both of the top U.S. leagues which would permit a grooming of newer, younger players and the playing out in Canada of the last years of older players from the States in some kind of regulated pattern. This would make the CFL an associated but minor league with special protected status, probably with a percentage clause, much as exists now to assure some measure of Canadian content on the Canadian teams.

This would have some slight advantage for Canadian-born players in that they could look to higher competition and bigger income if they met American standards. For the Canadian football fan it would mean a better chance to follow up the career in the really big leagues of favorites who proved themselves here first.

The second alternative can be satisfactory to fans and promoters in only a few places, perhaps three cities, Toronto, Montreal and Vancouver. That would be the gaining of a franchise in the NFL or the AFL.

Undoubtedly a number of persons with money already have this in mind. It would destroy the national, east-west links of the present set-up, just as the concentration of junior hockey talent in eastern Canada ruined the Memorial Cup race as a great national preoccupation during the '50s.

* * *

Since government intervention is almost unthinkable in the field of professional sport, the future course of Canadian-football will be interesting as a free exercise in how Canadians without official leadership react to American influence.

Almost every indicator points to a continued absorption and increasing domination. In sport both nomenclature and rules are vital to retaining both an entity and an identity.

In the period immediately after the First World War when the scrimmage line and the snap were formally taken into Canadian football, the largest accommodation to American play was made. After that came the forward pass, the acceptance of downfield blocking, the use of American names for the various positions, and the copying of American equipment, coaching systems and formations.

There was the long fight over "imports" and the steady growth in their acceptance. Associated with this was the quarrel, especially in the '20s, over Simon-pure amateurism.

* * *

The lingering quality of community promotion and support one can still see in Edmonton, Regina, and even in Ottawa, has tended to obscure the "business enterprise" nature of Canadian football. In this process the less successful disappeared (e.g. the ORFU Senior League) and the source material for recruitment in college and local intermediate, junior and high school football became alienated from the professionals except for a small scatter of sponsored teams concentrated in a few areas.

I have never encountered any intellectuals who wish to make a case for preserving Canadian football. Nostalgic sentimentalists for the good old days like Ted Reeve seem to be increasingly regarded as anachronisms.

The feeling among those who in the long run count most—that is, the spectators—seems to be an increasing fascination with American play in the U.S., shown to us on TV screens by our prime agency in preserving and fostering the Canadian identity, the CBC.

Fall-Out Damage Found After 11 Years

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — A significant number of Marshall Islanders are only now—11 years later—beginning to show thyroid gland damage after being accidentally drenched with radioactive fallout from an American H-bomb test in the Pacific.

The finding of latent damage, according to the government doctor in charge of treating the islanders for thyroid damage, means that atomic experts now see an increased hazard from short-lived radioactive debris. This is the kind of fallout, such as radioactive iodine, that occurs mostly near an atomic blast and gets into the human body through food and drink.

Moreover, said Dr. Robert Conrad in a telephone interview, there is some evidence that fallout damage to the thyroid gland might also be the cause of an observed stunting among some of the children exposed to the fallout.

* * *

Dr. Conrad is the leader of a medical survey team that commutes between Brookhaven National Laboratory on Long Island and Rongelap Island in the Marshalls. The team's most recent report to the Atomic Energy Commission is being circulated to members of the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy.

What these reports show is this:

Between March and October of this year 10 new cases of thyroid abnormalities have been found among the 82 Rongelap natives who were exposed to fallout in the first week of March, 1954. This brings to 18, the total number of the 82 fallout-drenched natives who show thyroid gland abnormalities.

Most of the abnormalities are thought to be benign tumors. But at least one has turned out to be a cancer of the thyroid gland.

Significantly, in a control group of Rongelap natives who escaped the 1954 fallout—including some near relatives of those not as lucky—there has been no evidence of thyroid disease.

Six of the thyroid victims have undergone successful operations. Three, with benign tumors, underwent surgery at the U.S. Naval Hospital on Guam in 1964. Three others, two with benign tumors and one with a cancerous thyroid gland, underwent surgery at the Lahey Clinic in Boston in July of this year after tests at Brookhaven.

* * *

Dr. Conrad said he was hopeful that additional cases of thyroid tumors among the exposed natives can be averted through treatment with a synthetic thyroid hormone now being given to the islanders. It is believed the hormone can arrest the development of the tumors and possibly even cause their regression.

The Brookhaven medical scientist also is anxious to learn whether the hormone treatment will have any effect on the apparent link between radiation-damaged thyroids and the retarded growth seen among some of the exposed children.

In Dr. Conrad's view, the emphasis hitherto given to the immediate and external effects of radiation now must be balanced with a new appreciation for the latent, internal effects that can be caused by radioactive materials, such as radioiodine, that gets into the body. Radioiodine selectively concentrates in the thyroid gland.

Agreed.

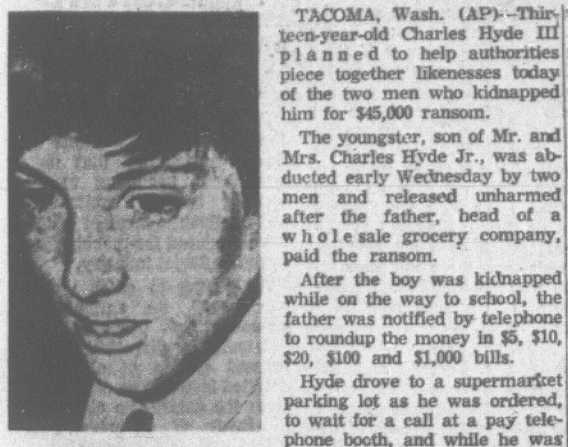
VICTIM DESCRIBES TWO MEN

Portrait of Kidnappers



CHARLES HYDE

TACOMA, Wash. (AP)—Thirteen-year-old Charles Hyde III planned to help authorities piece together likenesses today of the two men who kidnapped him for $45,000 ransom.

The youngster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hyde Jr., was abducted early Wednesday by two men and released unharmed after the father, head of a wholesale grocery company, paid the ransom.

After the boy was kidnapped while on the way to school, the father was notified by telephone to roundup the money in $5, $10, $20, $100 and $1,000 bills.

Hyde drove to a supermarket parking lot as he was ordered, to wait for a call at a pay telephone booth, and while he was there the valise holding the bills was removed from his car.

Recalling the nine-hour nightmare, Charles said when his captors left him in the concrete waterfront building where he had been hidden, they told him they'd shoot him if he didn't stay at least 20 minutes.

Then he worked his hands loose from the tape which bound them and climbed about a half mile up a hill above the waterfront to the home of family friends.

Late Thursday at the sheriff's office, he and Pete Schultz, an officer who specializes in composing portraits of wanted men from a set of plastic pieces, tried to work out the visages of the two kidnappers. They planned to go on with their work today.

'NDP WON'T BACK PHONEY MOTIONS'

SASKATOON (CP)—T. C. Douglas, leader of the New Democratic Party, said Thursday the NDP will not take part in "phoney" motions of no-confidence when the new parliament meets.

Mr. Douglas, speaking briefly to the annual meeting of the Saskatchewan CCF party, said "we must realize that Canada can't have an election every year. Parliament has got to get down to work."

The NDP would not be drawn into any "phoney" motions of no-confidence in the government to further anyone's personal ambition, the former CCF premier of Saskatchewan said.

Bus Drivers Won't Cross Picket Line

Greyhound bus drivers won't go through picket lines if there is a general strike in B.C. next week, a union spokesman said in Calgary.

Stuart Snowdon, business agent for Local 1374, Amalgamated Transit Union, said such a move would mean passengers travelling west would be stopped in Calgary.

Buses originating in Vancouver "just wouldn't start," he said.

The union represents drivers, maintenance men and mechanics at Greyhound and Saskatchewan Transportation in Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and B.C.

Bastion Bids Soar Over Estimate

Lowest bid for redevelopment of Bastion Square is about $25,000 over the estimated $154,000 restoration job.

Victoria city council received the news mutely at a special meeting Thursday.

Two bids were received—$176,000 by R. A. Hall Ltd. and $212,849 by Farmer Construction Ltd.

They were referred for analysis to engineering consultant Willis and Cunliffe, Bastion Square technical planning committee and council's special Bastion Square committee.

Original estimate for the job was around $70,000. It was found that the project could be widened without adding to the city's share of the urban renewal scheme.

A revised estimate of $130,000 was brought in, of which the federal government would pay half. This was again revised upward.

City manager Dennis Young told council the last estimate was not raised to the extent suggested by the bids.

He did not specify the latest estimate, but the engineering department confirmed later that it was $154,000.

The federal government has allocated $77,000 as its share, but this amount is subject to variation, depending on bids.

Bidding was based on specifications that include the conversion of Bastion Street between Government and Langley to a pedestrian way, a matter still undecided by council.

Strangers In Plane Before Flight

VANCOUVER (CP) — The presence of two "mystery men" who walked unannounced through a parked DC-6B aircraft just two hours before it exploded in mid-air last July 8 was raised at an inquest here Thursday.

The hearing was resumed after a four-month delay during which RCMP conducted an investigation.

The Canadian Pacific Airlines plane crashed over the Cariboo district, killing all 52 persons aboard. Officials have said an explosion in the tail section ripped the plane apart in mid-air.

After several CPA hangar employees testified the plane was in normal running order prior to its flight, upholsterer mechanic Tom Kelly told of seeing two strange men at the hangar two hours before the plane was to take off.

"I saw an RCMP officer with two strange men in the plane," he said. "They were in the galley area of the plane at the time."

George Murray, QC, representing the attorney-general's department, said his department has identified the RCMP constable and can introduce him if necessary.

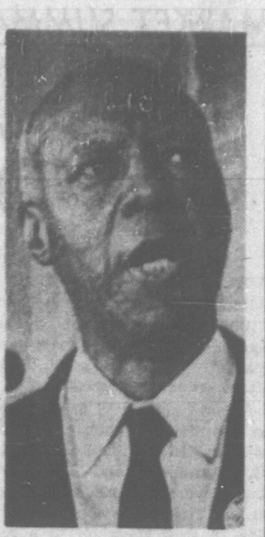
John Hyra of 100 Mile House, the area in which the crash occurred, testified he saw the explosion that crippled the plane.

"The front part of the plane seemed to continue to fly while the tail section seemed to hesitate and then fall away from the front part of the plane.

"The front . . . continued to fly for about 30 seconds before it went into a spin.

"Then it disappeared in the trees and there was a terrific blast as it hit the ground."

The inquest continues.



A $100 BILLION federal aid program to wipe out Negro ghettos was called for by A. Phillip Randolph at a Washington meeting on civil rights. President of the sleeping car porters union, he said the program would be cheaper than letting tensions build up until they explode into another Watts of Los Angeles riots.

Youth Sentenced To 12 Months For $800 Forgery

A youth who uttered a forged cheque for $800 to purchase a car was sentenced in city court Thursday to eight months definite and four months indeterminate.

John Henry Murphy, 17, of 213 Obed, was given a scare when Magistrate J. A. Byers asked prosecutor Peter Birkett what the requirements were to proceed against him as an habitual criminal.

"If you carry on in this way of life, you could qualify," the magistrate told him.

Murphy was convicted of the forgery offence at an earlier hearing. The cheque was forged against his mother's bank acount.

ENEMA RELEASES 93 GEMS

Thief Swallows His Share

RENO, Nev. (AP)—Walter Cunningham yielded 93 gems—worth an estimated $50,000—Thursday from his stomach.

Police said Cunningham, 52, admitted swallowing his share of the loot in last Saturday's $126,000 jewel theft from the mansion of a wealthy San Francisco automobile dealer.

Another $72,000 worth of jewelry was found cached in a vacuum cleaner in the home of Albert E. Schlesinger, the theft victim. His chauffeur, Robert H. Heermann, 27, was arrested in San Francisco and charged with burglary.

At least 65 brilliant-cut diamonds, 26 baguette and small-cut diamonds, a 20 - carat emerald - cut ruby and an emerald chip were recovered from Cunningham at a Reno hospital by means of an enema.

Cunningham and Larry Igou, 24, were arrested by Reno police Monday at the request of San Francisco police.

Also arrested in San Francisco in connection with the theft was Vern Bennett, 19. He was charged with receiving stolen property.

The time we could spend trying to look different, we spend getting better.

We're not saying it's wrong to look different every year.

Quite a few people do it.

And they're very successful at it.

It's just that we'd rather put our time and money into getting better every year. Making improvements.

As you probably know, change is against our principles.

Take the front of the Volkswagen, for instance.

We could have taken the time to fuss about with fat fenders and big, chrome-covered grilles.

But we kept the sloping nose you're used to. So you can still see a lot of road.

What we did do with our time is add another defroster vent below the front windshield. So you see a lot of road more clearly in rainy or snowy weather.

Our attitude was just about the same at the back of the VW.

We didn't spend our time dressing it up with fancy fins. We just lifted up the back hood and made our engine bigger. It's got 8½ more horsepower this year. And it's still just as economical.

And we did some other things to the Volkswagen that we wouldn't have had time for if we'd played with the styling.

Like improving the door locks. Adding a four-way emergency flasher. Installing automatic safety locks on the front-seat back rests. And brightening up the interiors with attractive new colour.

Why not visit a Volkswagen dealer and see just how much time we've spent getting better this year?

You'll see quite a difference.

THURSDAY

Atlantic Investors Back Shift

TORONTO (CP)—Senior noteholders of insolvent Atlantic Acceptance Corp., warned that the finance company's losses could run as much as $25,000,000 more than first expected, voted Thursday to support turning its management over to a United States firm.

The move to make General Acceptance Corp. of Allentown, Pa., interim manager is subject to approval by the courts.

At the same time the senior noteholders repeated their overwhelming support of a bid by GAC to buy part of Atlantic's assets. The GAC bid was first approved by them Sept. 17 and later won court approval, but last week subordinated noteholders were granted permission to appeal the court ruling.

The subordinated noteholders, with claims against Atlantic totalling $29,000,000, oppose the GAC takeover plan on grounds it would leave few if any assets to meet their demands after taking care of senior noteholders, with claims of $103,000,000.

HAVE FIRST CALL

Senior noteholders normally have first call on any assets of any insolvent company.

The senior noteholders' fresh support for the GAC purchase plan came in the form of an overwhelming vote against a proposal by the subordinated noteholders to reorganize Atlantic, infuse fresh capital and management and try to put it on a profitable basis.

The noteholders' meeting was called by Montreal Trust Co., Atlantic's receiver and trustee, to consider possible moves made necessary by delays following the courtroom developments.

During an intermission some noteholders discussed openly for the first time the possibility of much sharper losses than had been expected last summer.

One senior noteholder said his company now would be happy to get 75 cents on the dollar, while another said there have been informal offerings of senior Atlantic notes around Toronto at 60 cents on the dollar.

'WHISTLING IN DARK'

J. G. Haxton of the Montreal Trust told the meeting he sees no reason to change his early estimate that Atlantic's assets should realize about $100,000,000 — but one noteholder said later he was "whistling in the dark."

The proposal to make GAC interim manager of Atlantic was presented by Walter Strothman, GAC vice-president.

He told the noteholders the action of the subordinated noteholders could delay implementation of GAC's purchase plan until next May or June — but his firm could not afford to stay around that long.

His proposal was for GAC to take over Atlantic's operations, "running it as we think it should be," and taking 10 per cent of the loans collected as a fee.

If the GAC purchase plan finally was approved by the courts, 75 per cent of the total fee would be returned to the trustee.

APPEARS BEST HOPE

Mr. Strothman said the management plan appeared the best hope of preventing a serious deterioration of Atlantic's staff. He estimated it would cost $1,800,000 in fees during the next six months—of which 75 per cent could be returnable—but proper management would assure maximum protection of Atlantic's assets.

Without that protection, Atlantic's losses could run to an additional $20,000,000 to $25,000,000, he said.

Donald H. Tetzlass, chairman of a committee of subordinated noteholders, appeared at the meeting briefly and read a short statement, then walked out.

He said Montreal Trust had not properly fulfilled its duty to the subordinated noteholders and promised to continue opposition to the GAC purchase plan before the courts.

Paris Ending Cold War With Market

By HAROLD KING

PARIS (Reuters) — The cold war between France and its European Common Market partners is drawing to a close, French government sources said today.

As part of the process, a meeting of foreign ministers of the six market countries is expected to take place in the second half of December to discuss the entire organization of the trade group.

And a summit meeting of the heads of government of the six seems likely in the new year. President de Gaulle is reported to favor such a meeting, which West German Chancellor Erhard has sought for two years.

France has boycotted the market since June 30, when negotiations for financing a common agricultural policy among the six broke down.

MUST BE CLARIFIED

Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville then made it clear the agricultural issue could no longer be treated alone. Political conditions for the conduct of the European economic community must be clarified first, he said.

France, desiring greater freedom of action in the market context, wants to avoid majority decisions on questions of declared vital national interest. It feels that each government should be free to determine when majority voting should not apply.

France has recently held bilateral talks with Italy, West Germany and Belgium and, says the diplomatic correspondent of the mass-circulation newspaper France-Soir, "there is no outstanding difficulty which cannot now be settled at a meeting of the foreign ministers."

The other market members are The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Mines, Steels Feel Decline

Mines were generally down at Vancouver and steels were lower in Toronto in today's trading. Wall Street was higher late this afternoon in moderate trading.

AT TORONTO steel stocks continued to show weakness in a generally soft and quiet mid-afternoon trading session.

Algoma slipped ⅜ to 30, Stelco and Slater ⅛ each to 26 and 14¾ and Hayes Steel 1¼ to 23. 23. Aluminium and Dominion Stores were also off ⅜ each to 30 and 25⅝ but Quebec Natural Gas swished ahead ⅜ to a record 13⅝ and MacMillan, Bloedel added ½ at 26¼.

Companies with interests in the Pine Point area of the Northwest Territories remained weaker with Central Patricia down 2 cents to 1.70, Conwest 10 cents to 7.60, Cominco ¼ to 50¼, CPR ¾ to 70 and Pine Point Mines 1 to 81½.

AT VANCOUVER two mining stocks hit 1965 highs in fairly active trade shortly before noon today but most issues were lower in price.

Norgold gained .01 to .17 on 74,500 shares and Slocan put on .06 to .75 on 94,500 shares.

Pyramid was off .25 to $16.25 on 10,300 shares and Dynasty dropped the same amount to $11.75. Northlodge dropped .10 to .35 and Croydon was off .04 to $1.36.

Continental Potash went down .07 to .50.

In the oils, Prosper declined .09 to .90 and Royal American gained .10 to $1.25.

AT NEW YORK the stock market continued higher late this afternoon. Trading was moderately active.

Volume for the day was estimated at 6,800,000 shares, compared with 7,040,000 Thursday.

Aircraft companies turned strong, providing leadership in a generally indecisive session. Boeing ran up more than 5 points while Douglas advanced more than a point. United Aircraft and General Dynamics were fractionally higher.

AT MONTREAL papers were up but most other sections moved fractionally lower in quiet trading.

Industrial volume was 97,100 and mines and oils 680,900.

Utilities were lower with Interprovincial Pipe Line dropping ½ to 85 and Bell Telephone ¼ to 57½.

AT LONDON the stock market had a brighter look today although interest was again selective. There were several features in the industrial market but many of these were prompted by company news.

Gilt edged were quieter after Thursday's activity with prices mixed. Dollar stocks were mainly firm and the strength of the dollar premium helped them to offset Wall Street's easier overnight tone.

Scores Stake Claims Near Pyramid Find

HAY RIVER, N.W.T. (CP) — Staking fever has hit this community of 2,500 on the south shore of Great Slave Lake.

Scores of men are staking mining claims in a 60-mile by 30-mile area in the wake of announcements by Pyramid Mining Co. of Vancouver that drill samplings in the area showed evidence of zinc and lead deposits.

The staking area is near the Pine Point, N.W.T., lead and zinc mine of Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. of Canada Ltd.

Staking has been going on near the Cominco mine since late September on the basis of exploratory activity by a number of companies but it hit a peak after the Pyramid announcements.

Rudy Steiner, 39, a man with two years' schooling who has lived here for 21 years, has more than 40 men out staking for his general contracting company, Territorial Expeditors Ltd.

The men have driven 6,000 wooden stakes in the last two weeks marking Terrex or Trx on each one.

Steiner then sells the claims to mining companies for as much as $1,000 each.

"We don't know exactly what the claims are worth," he says. "We work on hunches. The buyers are the mining companies who have had men just to look around and pick up land.

"Each company has its own geologists and they all have their own theories about the geology of the area.

"Very few claims are sold outright. It might be a cash sale or shares in a company or both or something else."

THINK

"Thinking machines" and "giant Brains" do not really exist. But Computers do exist for the benefit of mankind. They are very real in the day-to-day world of business. They can take over and change many of our jobs simply because they can do some things better than we can. In fact, new uses are being found for computers every day. They have great speed accuracy and a tremendous memory. However, they lack the ability to think—they need some one to do this for them. THEY NEED SOMEONE BUT NOT JUST ANYONE. They need MEN and WOMEN with imagination and ingenuity. They need MEN and WOMEN able to analyse problems and perceive solutions. They need TRAINED PEOPLE able to convert information into a form they can take in and understand. In other words, the computer needs someone to converse with it; NOT JUST ANYONE, but MEN and WOMEN with APTITUDE and TRAINING. Perhaps "YOU CAN THINK YOUR WAY" to a real future in data processing. DIRKSEN SLAMS SALE OF COPPER STOCKPILE

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. copper industry appeared ready today to swallow without complaint a move by President Lyndon Johnson to stem rising copper prices. But not Senate GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen.

In the first move of its kind since the Korean War, Johnson Thursday invoked emergency powers to bypass Congress and authorize immediate sale of 200,000 tons of copper from government stockpiles.

The action brought a quick charge of "retaliatory price control" from Dirksen, who voiced his Company Serves Canada And . . . Uh . . . Its Suburbs

By JIM HUME
Times Business Editor

When Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. applied to the Alberta Oil and Gas Conservation Board about a year ago for permission to increase its exports of natural gas, the company brief stressed the growing needs of Eastern Canadians.

Hume

During the 12-day hearings company representatives were asked if, rather than a larger Canadian market, they didn't have their eye on potential markets in the Eastern United States.

They admitted that they did, but insisted that the desire to serve their fellow Canadians was uppermost in their minds.

In the recently published "nine months report" of the company there is the following statement: "The 1965 construction program required to meet additional natural gas sales and estimated to cost $29.6 million is nearing completion.

"Included in this program is 39 miles of pipeline from Montreal to Philipsburg, Quebec, for connection with the facilities of the Vermont Gas Systems Inc. This extension of our system, which is scheduled for completion this fall, will provide natural gas service for the first time to the major areas of the State of Vermont."

All of which adds up to a promising up-coming 12-months for Trans-Canada shareholders.

In the first nine months of this year the company reports a net income of $10,013,000 as compared with $9,502,000 for the same period last year.

With a brand new and untapped market to go at in Vermont it isn't hard to forecast a record year for the company in 1966.

The list of big businesses hurt by the Atlantic Acceptance debacle reads like a who's who in the American business world.

Clipped hard were such expert investors as U.S. Steel, the Carnegie Pension Fund, Morgan Guaranty Trust, the First National City Bank of New York, the Ford Foundation, the Connecticut General Life Insurance Company, the National Lead Company, the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, the General Council of Congregational Christian Churches, Princeton University and the University of Pennsylvania.

There were others of equal "wisdom," all highly respected for their skill in business dealings.

Though embarrassing for all—and disastrous for some—we can gain some consolation from the fact that it is not always the little man who gets hurt. And it is refreshing to know that even the biggest companies are fallible when it comes to picking out winning investments.

MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River announces the award of $3,414,000 in contracts during October as work on their Powell River expansion continues.

Total cost of the expansion program is $100 million with completion date set for late 1967 or early 1968.

The work in hand involves the construction of a new pulp mill, installation of a newsprint machine, a deep-sea wharf plus assorted other facilities.

GM Workers Get Bonus For Yule

DETROIT (AP) — About 350,000 General Motors production workers will share a $14,000,000 kitty next month.

It's the so-called Christmas bonus which the United Auto Workers union negotiated in 1964 contracts.

The bonus, from Supplemental Unemployment Benefits, was negotiated with GM and Ford Motor Co., but Ford won't be paying one. Ford's required "maximum funding" level of its S.U.B. fund is out of reach at this time. A Ford spokesman said this resulted from Ford's increasing hiring of workers forcing a rise in the maximum funding level.

The GM payment will come to about $40 for each eligible employee and will be paid Dec. 17.

S.U.B., universal in the U.S. auto industry, is the company payment to a discharged or laid-off worker which supplements his regular unemployment compensation from state funds.

GM and Ford contribute five cents an hour for each employee to their S.U.B. funds.

Takeover King Winning Fight

LONDON (CP) — Charles Cloré, whose takeovers in British business have made him a rags-to-riches legend, apparently has succeeded in his biggest venture yet, acquisition of Selfridge's in London and a dozen other department stores in the United Kingdom.

British Shoe Corp., Clore's major holding, originally bid £55,000,000 ($165,000,000) for Lewis' Investment Trust, which owns the department stores, and was rebuffed.

Wednesday, British Shoe increased its offer by a shilling (15 cents) a share—to a total of nearly £60,000,000—and Lewis' directors gave in.

WILLIAMS JUST HAS TO WORRY . . . . . . ABOUT DECIDING GAME WITH BOMBERS

Jerry Wasn't Around for Gruesome Days of Stamps

HARVEY WYLIE

CALGARY (CP) —The best thing going for Jerry Williams this week is the fact that he didn't join Calgary Stampeders' coaching staff until 1964. He doesn't have to relive two of the most gruesome events that ever happened to a football club.

As he moves toward the end of his freshman year as head coach, a job he inherited after a season as assistant to Bobby Dobbs, Williams can confine his worries to patching a lineup for Saturday's deciding game of the best-of-three Western Football Conference finals against Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Williams was around when Calgary was belted out by British Columbia Lions in last year's WFC final. But that was straight football — and besides, the Lions went on to win the Grey Cup.

What he missed was the 1963 semi-final in which the Stampeders managed to blow a 27-point lead in the second game of a total-points series, and the 1962 final, the memory of which still wakes up loyal Calgarians in the middle of the night in a cold sweat.

It was bad enough in 1963, when the Stampeders went into Regina with a 35-9 victory over Saskatchewan Roughriders under their belts and chased quarterback Ron Lancaster through the snowdrifts while he completed pass after pass to beat them 39-12 for a one-point edge in the round.

But 1962 was the year the Stampeders were 11 seconds away from a berth in the Grey Cup final when the roof fell in. And that's a story that nobody is telling in Calgary this week.

With the best-of-three series tied at a game apiece, the Stampeders were leading 7-6 with less than two minutes to play and the Bombers punting from their nine-yard line.

Charlie Shepard's boot took a good bounce and Calgary was chased back to its own 25, where two running plays got nowhere. Jim Furlong kicked short, the Stamps were penalized for no yards and Winnipeg took over on the Calgary 17 with time for one play The Bombers elected to try a field goal.

The only man in the Calgary end zone was Harvey Wylie, one of the finest defensive halves in the game, a four-time WFC All-Star and a popular choice as 1962's Canadian player of the year.

Gerry James kicked from the 22-yard line. Furlong charged in to deflect the ball and it spun beneath the goalposts with several Bombers charging after it.

Wylie spotted a gap between the oncoming players and tried to kick the spinning ball to safety. He barely connected and it popped into the hands of Winnipeg end Farrell Funston for the touchdown that gave the Bombers the game, 12-7.

Wylie retired at the end of last season. But some 18 of his team-mates, along with about 13 of the Bombers, will be back for Saturday's replay.

The teams take the field at 2 p.m. (1 p.m. PST) with both CBC and CTV networks televising the proceedings. General manager Rogers Lehew, an assistant coach at the time of the 1962 debacle, said there are no arrangements for closed-circuit TV in Calgary.

Lehew did a little housecleaning Thursday to plug Calgary's most dangerous weakness, the doubtful status of middle linebacker Wayne Harris, Canada's Lineman of the Year.

Veteran Art Johnson, a defensive back, was put on waivers to make room for defensive end Roy Payne, who was on the injury-reserve list with a bad knee. If Harris is unfit, Payne will start as a corner linebacker and Don Stephenson will move into the middle.

Forecasts call for a temperature of 20 to 25 degrees at game time with a slight chance of snow, but McMahon Field is in good condition.

Fouts and Cacic Lone B.C. Lions On 1965 'Stars

WINNIPEG (CP) — Fullback George Reed, who rushed for more than one mile, and end Tommy-Joe Coffey, who caught a record-equalling 81 passes, were the only unanimous choices for positions on the 1965 Western Football Conference all-star team announced today.

Coffey, whose catches for last place Edmonton Eskimos matched a record he set last year, was one of five players who broke through a three-club domination of the 25-man team selected by the football reporters of Canada. The extra player resulted from a tie for an offensive half spot.

Calgary Stampeders, Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Saskatchewan Roughriders—who finished one-two-three respectively in the standings—took 20 places.

The Stampeders and the Bombers each had seven players honored; Saskatchewan six, including Reed; Edmonton three and British Columbia Lions, defending champions who plunged to fourth place this season, two.

The makeup: Offence—Five Riders; four Bombers; two Stamps; two Eskimos. Defence—Five Stampeders; three Blue Bombers; two Lions; one Roughrider, one Eskimo.

Second Player to Top Mile Mark

Wayne Harris of Calgary received unanimous support on defence from the 24 voting members but two placed him at corner linebacker. The others put him at interior linebacker.

Reed, 24, a graduate of Washington State College, was named Canada's Outstanding Player for grinding out 1,768 yards and establishing a one-game conference rushing record—268 yards—in his third WFC season.

He also was chosen the WFC's Most Valuable Player before making his first all-star team.

Reed is only the second player in Canadian Football League history to exceed one mile rushing in a single season. Fullback Earl Lunsford of Calgary drove for 1,794 yards in 1961.

His partners in the offensive backfield are Lovell Coleman of Calgary, halfback Dave Raimey of Winnipeg, halfback Jim Thomas of Edmonton, flanker Hugh Campbell of Saskatchewan and quarterback Kenny Ploen of Winnipeg.

Herman Harrison of Calgary is Coffey's fellow end.

Ted Urness of Saskatchewan, the only native Canadian to crack the offence, centres a line formed by Herb Gray of Winnipeg and Al Benecick of Saskatchewan at guard, Frank Rigney of Blue Bombers and Clyde Brock of the Roughriders at tackle.

Fullback Coleman, Canada's Outstanding Player in 1964, finished second to Reed in rushing with 1,509 yards. He was the leader in 1963 and 1964.

Coffey, Benecick, Rigney and Campbell were members of the 1964 all-star offence

Campbell caught 73 passes for a WFC-record 1,329 yards to finish a notch ahead of Harrison in the receiving department. Herman caught 53 passes for 828 yards.

Five Canadians on Defensive Squad

Ploen had the second-best pass completion average among quarterbacks—58.2 per cent with 124 successes on 213 attempts.

Canadians grabbed five places on defence. Henry Janzen of Winnipeg, Larry Robinson of Calgary and Dale West of Saskatchewan captured half positions; Jim Furlong of Calgary a corner linebacking slot and Mike Cacic of the Lions a tackle berth.

Rounding out the defensive squad are Dick Thornton of Winnipeg and Jerry Keeling of Calgary at half; Harris; Pat Holmes of Calgary at tackle; Al Miller of Winnipeg at corner linebacker; E. A. Sims of Edmonton and Dick Fouts of B.C. at end.

A measure of B.C.'s decline was that only two Lions made the team. In 1964 they placed nine on the squad. Only one Lion was considered for offence—tackle Ken Sugarman—and he got just one vote.

Gray, Canada's outstanding lineman in 1960, made his seventh all-star unit. Teammate Rigney, the WFC's Most Valuable Lineman in 1960 and 1961 and Canada's best in 1961, was on his sixth.

Toronto Has Right 'Pully'

By The Canadian Press

If Toronto Maple Leafs are having a hard time so far this year, Bob Pulford doesn't appear to have much to do with it.

Pulford, a centre starting his 10th National Hockey League season with the Leafs, figured in all three goals Wednesday night as Toronto downed the Canadiens 3-1 before 13,376 fans in Montreal in the only scheduled game.

The threesome of Eddie Shack, Pulford and Larry Jeffrey, easily the best combination on the ice for either club, accounted for a goal apiece, all in the third period.

Ralph Backstrom was the lone Canadiens' marksman, picking up his fourth goal of the season midway through the opening period.

The win was the fourth for the Leafs, who now have 10 points, one less than New York Rangers and five behind Chicago Black Hawks and Montreal who are locked in first place with 15 points apiece.

HABS TOOK LEAD

Backstrom put the Canadiens on the scoreboard at 10:25 of the first period with assists going to Dave Balon and Claude Provost. On the play, Provost was dumped in front of the Montreal bench, but managed to steer the puck to Balon.

The Montreal left winger carried right in on his wrong side only to have Toronto netminder Johnny Bower stop his hard shot. However, Backstrom, who had followed in, dumped the rebound behind Bower.

The teams battled to a scoreless middle frame only to have Montreal netminder Lorne Worsley and Bower come up with key saves.

But in the third period, at the 6:09 mark, Pulford set up Shack who beat Worsley to tie the score. It was Shack's third goal in five games since his return to Toronto from Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League.

FIRST FOR JEFFREY

Jeffrey, obtained by Toronto in an off-season trade with Detroit Red Wings, broke the tie just five minutes later. It was his first goal since coming to the Leafs, and proved to be the winner. Pulford and Baun drew assists on the goal.

Pulford put the game on ice with 26 seconds remaining in the game when he fired his third goal of the season into an empty net.

Worsley had been removed to give Montreal a two-man advantage because Baun had been penalized at the 19:00 mark.

Referee Art Skov called only three penalties throughout the game, none in the opening 20 minutes, one in the second to Montreal and one to each club in the third.

On Saturday, New York is at Montreal, Chicago visits Toronto and Detroit plays at Boston.

Sunday's action has Montreal at Boston, Toronto at Chicago and Detroit at New York.

AT ROYAL ROADS

U.S. Airmen, Huskies Tackle Canuck Cadets

Annual competition between cadets of the U.S. Air Force Academy at Denver and cadets from the Canadian Services College at Royal Roads will be resumed Saturday.

Future officers from north and south will clash in two competitions on the Royal Roads grounds.

Cross-country runners will get things rolling at 9:30 a.m. and soccer players will swing into action at 10. Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes is scheduled to perform the official kickoff for the soccer match.

Royal Roads athletes will tangle with American rivals in another contest at 1:30 p.m. They'll be at home to University of Washington Huskies in the opening game of a home-and-home rugby series.

The Canadian cadets will be attempting to extend a rugby string of three successive shutout triumphs, scored in local competition.

Spectators are invited to attend all of Saturday's events.

Huskies also have a rugby date Sunday at Gordon Head, against University of Victoria Vikings at 2:30.

Ticats Unchanged For Vital Clash

HAMILTON (CP)—Ralph Sazio will go with the same lineup Saturday that he used in the first game of the Eastern Football Conference final against Ottawa Rough Riders.

The coach of Hamilton Tiger-Cats will not dress halfback Johnny Counts and will use Dick Cohee, normally a defensive back, in his spot in the offensive backfield.

The Ticats, 18-13 winners in the first game last Sunday of the two-game, total-points series, meet the Riders at Civic Stadium here Saturday with the kickoff at 1 p.m. (10 a.m. PST).

The game, to be carried on both the CBC and CTV television networks, has been moved ahead of the customary 2 p.m. EST starting time to meet television commitments involving the Western Football Conference final between Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Calgary Stampeders in Calgary.

Counts sat out last Sunday's game as he was recovering from an ankle injury. He's healthy again, but Cohee's performance in the opener, in which he scored a touchdown, convinced Sazio to string along with him again.

Cohee's berth on offence means that Ted Page will replace him at defensive halfback and Jim Reynolds will play in Page's spot at corner linebacker.

The Ticats are trying for their fifth consecutive berth in the Grey Cup final and their eighth in nine years. The Grey Cup game will be played in Toronto Nov. 27.

BESSELINK TIPS WORKED FOR BILL

CARACAS (AP)—Some putting advice from veteran Al Besselink staked young Bill Wakeham to a one-stroke lead today going into the second round of the Caracas Open golf tournament.

"My putting is what made the difference and I have to thank Al Besselink for that," the Calgary pro said Thursday after posting a four-under-par 66.

"He gave me some sound advice on what to do on the greens. I began to take shorter, firmer strokes with my putter and it sure worked."

* * *

Wakeham, a native of Victoria who turned pro only 15 months ago, has never appeared on the United States PGA circuit, but made the Caribbean tour last winter.

His 66 gave him a one-stroke lead over Alvie Thompson of Toronto. Ramon Sota of Spain is third with a 68.

Tied at 69 are Angel Miguel of Spain, Wes Ellis Jr. of West Caldwell, N.J., and Jack Rule. Wilf Homeniuk of Winnipeg is in another three-way tie at 70 with Homero Blancas and Bob McCallister.

Besselink, the defending champion, had a three-over-par 73.

Wakeham told the Times today that Besselink's tips helped him tour the Caracas course with only 29 putts. He fired birdies on the third, seventh, 11th, 14th and 18th holes, and had one bogey.

Hucul, Matthews Duel For WHL Point Mark

LARRY KEENAN

There will be a duel within a duel when Victoria Maple Leafs renew Western Hockey League hostilities tonight with Vancouver Canucks.

Leafs will open a home-and-home series with the Canucks at Vancouver Forum tonight and take on their arch rivals in a return joust Saturday night at Memorial Arena.

In the process, the Leafs hope to gain ground on the front-running Portland Buckaroos, who pulled four points ahead of Victoria Thursday night by clipping the Blades 7-5 at Los Angeles.

Now holding three games in hand over the Portlanders, the Victorians are leading the third-place Canucks by six points.

SHARE RECORD

Although Victoria's pursuit of the Bucks will, of course, get the most attention, the spotlight will also fall on a duel between two veteran defencemen.

Going into tonight's game, Fred Hucul of the Maple Leafs and Canuck smoothie Ron Matthews are deadlocked for the all-time WHL scoring leadership for defencemen.

Both have career totals of 525 points in the WHL, Matthews on 136 goals and 389 assists and Hucul on 135 goals and 390 assists.

Matthews, 38, and in his 18th professional season, has managed only two points this season, both on goals. Hucul, 34, and playing his 14th pro campaign, has collected 17, on three goals and 14 assists.

KNEE OPERATION

Rejoining the Maple Leafs Thursday was Larry Keenan, who scored 35 goals for Victoria last season. The 25-year-old centre underwent a knee operation after reporting to the Toronto training camp in September.

Keenan, who was unable to get sufficient time on skates in Toronto, skated twice at Memorial Arena Thursday but is not expected to return to action for about four weeks.

Buckaroos were held to a 1-1 tie in the opening period Thursday at Los Angeles, but zoomed ahead in the second session with a four-goal assault against the Blades.

CASS DOWN, TOO

Floyd No Novice At Hitting Deck

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Champion Cassius Clay has been floored three times in his professional boxing career of 21 fights, which may offer a shred of hope for Floyd Patterson to regain the heavyweight title here Monday.

This may seem nonsense to the 23-year-old Muhammad Ali, alias Clay, and it must be noted that Cassius bounced up from the canvas every time and is still unbeaten.

Sonny Banks, Doug Jones and Henry Cooper have put Clay down.

Patterson is 30 and no novice at hitting the deck, but he insists he has the experience and skill to win.

He also possesses a lethal left hook which has been instrumental in the knockout of 33 fighters in 48 bouts.

"Clay says he has faster legs, but I have faster hands, and this is not a foot race," said Patterson.

Muhammad has amused his followers with a display of distain for the ex-champion and he has shocked some of the purists of boxing with his clowning.

But his manager, Angelo Dundee, says:

"The only problem we had was to convince Clay not to take his opponent cheaply. You don't take heavyweight championship fights cheap.

"Whatever you might think, Clay isn't taking this one that way."

BETTER OFFENCE WANTED . . . . . . NO REPLACEMENT NAMED

Larks Part With 'Shocked' Jim Trimble

MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal Alouettes of the Eastern Football Conference are looking for a replacement for head coach Jim Trimble.

The club's board of directors announced Thursday it has decided not to renew its contract with Trimble.

Ted Workman, president of the Alouettes, said the club has no replacement at the moment but "we will open our door to the best possible coaching candidates in North America."

Board Chairman Joe Atwell said in Toronto most board members felt Trimble "didn't generate enough offence. Maybe he's too defensively minded. You can't change him at this stage. Members of the board aren't football people but they want to see a better offence."

Atwell is co-owner of the team with Workman.

Trimble, 47, said he was "shocked" to hear about the decision.

"I don't have a clue about what I am going to do yet but I'd like to stay in football," he said.

Trimble, a native of McKeesport, Pa., a small steel mill town, became the youngest head coach in the history of the National Football League in September, 1952, with Philadelphia Eagles. He was named professional Coach of the Year in his rookie season.

He joined Hamilton Tiger-Cats in 1956 and in 1959 he signed a five-year contract with Hamilton. Of the seven years he was with Hamilton, he coached them into five Grey Cup games.

While at Hamilton Trimble amassed a remarkable 61-28-2 record in seven seasons, and took the Ticats to an 11-6 record in playoff competition.

Trimble then came to Montreal where he signed a contract with the Alouettes in February, 1963.

Trimble in three years at the Montreal helm guided the team to only 17 wins against 25 losses.

Trimble said he would continue to live in suburban Hudson, Que., where he built a large home when he joined Alouettes. He has six children.

UNITED HAS TASK SATURDAY

Firemen Could Be Stopped—by Viet Cong

By ERNIE FEDORUK

It's difficult to say how Vancouver Firefighters would stack up in a fist-fight with such rabble-rousers as the Viet Cong or the Ku Klux Klan.

But there's no question as to the Firemen's superiority in and around the Pacific Coast Soccer League. With or without fists.

This is a Firefighters' era, and the important question asked by soccer fans is: "Will anyone seriously challenge the Firemen?"

Victoria United, which plays the Firemen at Royal Athletic Park on Saturday, hopes to. So do the New Westminster Royals, UBC Thunderbirds, Burnaby and Columbus.

As yet, and if the truth must be told, none of the hopefuls are in the same class as the Firefighters. Barring injuries to key Firefighter personnel or an unforeseen but great improvement by a challenger, none will.

That's because the Firefighters are blessed with most of the ingredients that make good teams great. They have an excellent blend of youth and experience, depth and balance, and a management that appears to know exactly what its job is,

Holders of the Canadian as well as the league title, Firefighters have won the provincial championship in six of the past 12 years; four of the last five.

All but three of the team's roster are actually members of the Vancouver fire department—a situation that helps manager-coach Doug Grieg to drum up an excellent training-schedule.

Grieg, rated one of B.C.'s all-time great halfbacks, took on the additional chore of managing the club earlier this season but has coached the team for three years.

The team's leaders on the field are Ken Pears, 31, called the finest gotlkeeper ever produced in Canada, and Art Hughes, 34-year-old centre forward. They provide the steadying influence for teammates whose ages average out to 25.

But it is the efforts of such young stars as Gary Stevens, 23; Greg Arnett, 21; Jim Blundell, 24, and Lou Trischuk, 24, that have provided Firefighters with six straight victories this season.

United's task Saturday is to stop Firefighters from making it seven.

CORNER KICKS: United's only non-starter is winger Dunc McCaig, still bothered by an ankle sprain. . . Hughes and Blundell, who operate as double centre forwards, will get special coverage from United's Dave Stothard and Bill Hamilton. . . . Blundell leads the league in scoring with six goals . . . Firefighters' Bob Babcock and Tom Millar each have scored five, along with UBC's Dick Mosher. . . Victoria coach Frank Grealy expects to start Al Davies in goal and hold Barry Sadler in reserve. . . Grealy also hopes to fill his bench by recruiting Doug Hill from Vic West of the District League and Dave Grass from juvenile ranks. . . Game time is 2 p.m.

Elder Scores In Jumping Event

TORONTO (CP)—Jim Elder, Canada's team captain, rode Pieces of Eight to victory Thursday night in the Maple Leaf Stakes at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair.

In this international horse show event, 18 riders tourned a 10-jump course and only Elder completed the round without a fault.

Terrell's Associates Worry California Body

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) California's Athletic Commission wants Ernie Terrell barred from boxing until he can show he is free from undesirable influences. Terrell is the World Boxing Association heavyweight champ.

Terrell, answering the charge Thursday from a Toronto night club where he is appearing with a rock-'n-roll act, said Commission Chairman Dr Dan P. Kilroy "doesn't know a thing about me."

"He's just guessing," said Terrell. "His statement is uncalled for and unprovoked and he has no reason to make it."

Kilroy, in a statement, said Bernard Glickman is Terrell's manager. Kilroy said Glickman was the manager of former welterweight champ Virgil Atkins who lost his title to Don Jordan in 1959.

Frankie Carbo and Frank (Blinky) Palermo were convicted in 1961 of trying to muscle in on Jordan's contract after that fight. Kilroy said Glickman was a close associate of Carbo.

Terrell denied Glickman was his manager and got backing from an Ontario Athletic Commissioner and a past president of the WBA, to which California does not belong.

'CAN'T SIGN CONTRACTS'

Commissioner Merv McKenzie said: "As far as I know, Glickman is only his personal adviser." Terrell said Glickman "cannot sign contracts for me."

Kilroy said Julie Isaacson was thrown out as Terrell's manager after the Chicago fighter successfully defended the WBA title against George Chuvalo in Toronto.

". . . Glickman purchased Isaacson's interest out of the manager's share of the purse earned in Terrell's recent fight with Chuvalo" Kilroy said. "Since Isaacson already was entitled to a manager's share, what did he get?"

McKenzie said the money was deducted from Terrell's purse by the Ontario Commission and not from the manager's share.

"The day after the fight here between Terrell and Chuvalo, Julie Isaacson was paid $15,000 by Terrell," said McKenzie. "And we saw it."

Terrell countered that Isaacson wanted to get out of boxing because he didn't have time for it.

"I never asked him to release me," Terrell said. "I paid him for the contract. There was nothing shady about it."

HOWE'S HOCKEY

By GORDIE HOWE

Question: In practicing shooting, where would you advise a young player to concentrate his shots? High, low or the corners? I.E., Madison, Wis.

Answer: As a youngster, I used to practice shooting by the hour at the side of our house. I didn't have any nets. I'd get a nice level piece of ground or use a piece of cardboard or wood from which to shoot.

I had a lot of targets. I could pick out any one shingle to shoot at. I didn't realize at the time how I was developing my accuracy.

When we're practicing shooting at Olympia, many players will be wide of the net. I don't think there's any great trick to hitting the middle of the net.

★ ★ ★

When we shoot from the point, we try and hit the post. When we were warming up before a game, I know Terry Sawchuk, now the goalie for Toronto, enjoyed it when some of the older fellows were shooting because they shot for the corners.

By shooting for the corners, we made the goaltender extend himself. It gave him a good workout.

Some of the younger fellows were just anxious to get the puck in the net. They'd shoot in a hurry. You didn't know where it was going. It might go over the top of the net, anywhere.

★ ★ ★

Imagine you're a goalie standing in front of the net. Lean over slightly with your gloved hand extended and move it in a semi-circle.

You'll see that anything shot waist high would be easy to catch. But if it is one foot to the side or tight to the shoulder on the glove side, it is a problem.

Some goalies will pull back and try to catch such a shot. By the time they try to move and get the hand up there, the puck is in the net.

Title Meet Scheduled For Distance Runners

Vancouver Island Track and Field Council will stage the first Island cross-country running championships Sunday at the Royal Roads grounds.

Six races are scheduled for the meet—three for men and an equal number for distaff runners. Both will decide titles in open, under-19 and under-16 divisions with the women going 1½, 1 and ¾ miles and the male joggers racing 5½, 4 and 2½ miles.

Aces from Nanaimo and Victoria Spartan Track Club are favored to grab most of the honors in the endurance tests, which start and finish at the Royal Roads sports field.

First race begins at 1 p.m.

AT CENTRAL

Double Fare For Cage Fans

Tune up the violin . . . Strum the guitar . . . Sing a sonnet . . .

Victoria will have a basketball "first" Saturday night.

The country's two top men's basketball teams will play in the same gym, the same evening.

Alberni Athletics, proprietors of the national senior swag, put their reputations on the line against Victoria's Haida Chiefs. Game time at Central Junior High is 7:30.

Victoria Chinooks, holders of the junior pennant, swing at 9 p.m. against North Shore Mountaineers in an Intercity Junior League squabble. Chinooks are 4-0; Mountaineers, 2-2.

START TONIGHT

Tonight at 9 p.m. Howie Tooby's Chiefs and Elmer Spiedel's Athletics meet in the first game of the weekend doubleheader. A pre-midget boys' preliminary goes at 8.

Both nights have been designated as "minor basketball" nights in Victoria.

The approximately 300 youngsters playing in under the Greater Victoria minor hoop banner will be able to see the country's best either night for a 10c admission.

All they have to do is contact Bob Bird at EV5-0793 for special identification passes.

ALBERNI HAS HEIGHT

Artistically the weekend matches represent a conflict between established powerhouses and formidable challengers.

Alberni has the height and experience of six-seven Neil Dirom, six-five Don Krego and six-even Larry Lehtonen, possibly the best guard in the country. Newcomers don't make this club easily; there are only two. Marv Johnson moves up from the junior ranks and Barry Sadler is a Haida transfer.

Chiefs have lost Pete Simmonds but may be stronger overall with former juniors John Lauvaas, Ken Gregory and Rick Barnswell backing up smooth Darrel Lorimer.

Chinooks, not the wrecking crew they were last year despite their record, face a North Shore team that will pose board problems.

Coach Johnny Clarke, like his aide Keith Hart, a former Victorian, has a front line of Don Goodwin, six-five, Ken Kabush, six-four and John Hart, the club's leading scorer, six-two.

Chinooks and Chiefs could be in for a warm evening.

SHORES STOPPED

North Shore missed a chance to grab a share of second Thursday night, dropping a 61-40 decision to Kerrisdale. In another game, CYO drubbed Killarney 91-52 for its first victory of the season.

Paul Bazely led North Shore's attack with 14 points while John McLean and Rich Inrig added 12 and 10, respectively.

Brent McLean, with 24 points, and Bob Kelsch, with 23, led CYO.

Montreal Backs Mayor In Plan for Olympics

MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal city council Thursday night enthusiastically backed Mayor Jean Drapeau's plan to bid for the 1972 summer Olympic Games in Montreal.

The council authorized the mayor to present an official invitation to the International Olympic Committee in Lausanne, Switzerland, to choose this city for the games.

Calgary is expected to make application for the 1972 Winter Games.

Mayor Drapeau leaves for Toronto tonight armed with a voluminous dossier containing maps, statistics and other information designed to reinforce Montreal's claim. There the city will make its preliminary application Saturday before the Canadian Olympic Association.

Mayor Drapeau plans to suggest the period July 12-28 for the 16-day games.

APPLY TO IOC NEXT

If the COA gives the go-ahead, Montreal will have to get its official request into the hands of the IOC before Jan. 1, 1966.

The IOC will render its decision at a meeting in April, 1966, Mr. Drapeau told the council.

Montreal needs the approval of the COA and the federal and provincial governments before the application can be considered.

Thursday Mayor Drapeau received a letter from Quebec Premier Jean Lesage telling him the Quebec cabinet unanimously supports Montreal's effort "without reserve."

Some people prefer console TV's to portables RCA VICTOR understands. Let's face it! There are some things a portable TV has to sacrifice to be portable ...like being big enough and sturdy enough to practice yoga on. Or important enough to be a favorite piece of furniture. Or sacred enough not to be moved all over the place. That's why RCA Victor offers such a wide selection of deluxe consoles. You get the most dependable TV you can buy. All the skill RCA acquired putting a television camera on the moon has been poured into the perfection of RCA Victor TV's. Such as Solid Copper Circuits. (Far more dependable than the old-fashioned "hand wired" type.) All our consoles have the exclusive New Vista tuner to pull in distant stations with the sharpest, clearest picture you've ever seen. Ask your RCA Victor Dealer lots of tough questions. We build the right answers into every set.

Cowichan High School Takes to Television

DUNCAN — Teachers at Cowichan Secondary School are brushing up on their smiles.

It's every bit as important as homework when you're on Candid Camera.

And the camera is here to stay, according to teacher Jev Tothill.

Mr. Tothill and students this week produced the school's first live television show.

From the tiny studio inside the school, the 20-minute program was broadcast to 12 sets throughout the classrooms.

The first such project on Vancouver Island, it will be tested on school board officials next Thursday.

Along with new teachers to the school, the officials will be asked to say a few words into the mike.

Cost of renting the equipment from B.C. Telephone Co. is $425 a month.

But it's well worth it, according to Mr. Tothill.

When well established, programs will be beamed to other schools in the Cowichan area.

Main function will be to televise lessons. Teachers believe students take greater interest in classes on television than in live lectures.

Lower Speed Law 'Highly Probable'

The highways department will probably lower the speed limit on a killer section of the Island Highway south of Campbell River.

A department spokesman today said engineers are carrying out a traffic survey to determine if the reduction is warranted.

The 10-mile stretch was subject of a protest march Wednesday by angry parents and their children.

The march was sparked by the death Monday of seven-year-old John Larsen as he crossed the highway.

Another seven-year-old, Gloria Bordian, died in almost the same spot two months ago.

The present speed limit is 50. Residents want this lowered to 40.

'PRETTY SOON'

Said the department spokesman: "We were considering this action before Monday's accident.

"It's highly probable the reduced speed limit will be in force pretty soon."

He would not comment on another demand by the school board for a secondary road to bypass the highway.

APPOINTED municipal clerk of new Municipality of North Saanich is Lieut.-Col. Michael Allen, former commanding officer of the Canadian Scottish Regiment. He also will be treasurer, assessor and collector. Mr. Allen, now an assessor for Saanich, starts Dec. 1.

Fast Pace Set By Building At Campbell R.

CAMPBELL RIVER — Construction continues to move along at a steady pace here with building permits totalling $440,500 issued in October.

Only April was a bigger month when the total was over $500,000.

Total value of building permits issued by the municipality to date this year is $2.5 million, more than double the total in the same period last year.

Major projects under construction include an apartment building, a new senior secondary school and the new 82-room Haida Motel. Both the school and motel are nearing completion and should be open before the end of the year.

On the drawing boards are another modern apartment featuring a Roman style courtyard, new Bank of Montreal building and a shopping centre in the downtown area.

ISLAND DIGEST

'Abolish Tax For Schools'

COBBLE HILL—The way to boost projects in proposed regional districts is to abolish school taxes.

George Bonner, Cobble Hill, said Thursday this demand will be made by the B.C. Federation of Ratepayers' Associations to Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell.

Mr. Bonner, federation president, said: "We feel that before a regional area is formed the school taxation of the area should be abolished.

"Such relief would help meet the new added taxation implemented for the new district."

Mr. Bonner said: "Assistant deputy minister James Baird has said the government can't guarantee there will not be an increase in taxation following formation of a regional district.

"The abolition of school tax would give the area a boost to take on new projects it would not otherwise be able to carry out."

Negotiation Starts On Land for Hall

DUNCAN — The city's Teen Town organization is negotiating with a private citizen for a piece of land on which to build a community hall.

Adult adviser Jim Quaife today said he is unable to release details.

He said: "City and municipal councillors have made statements someone must give leadership in recreation.

"Teen Town is willing to accept the challenge—if the city and municipality will meet to discuss development of one recreation complex to meet the needs of the people of the Cowichan Valley."

FAILED

Teen Town was unsuccessful with appeals to both councils for building sites.

Mr. Quaife said: "I'm sure the unorganized area to the south of Duncan would help in a joint project."

One hundred Teen Town members will carry out a door-to-door canvass of the Cowichan Valley Saturday, Nov. 27.

The aim is to establish a building fund for a community hall.

Finning's Jack Hubble can't see what he's doing until he turns off the lights.

He's looking for signs of metal fatigue in a critical engine part. Such fatigue may take the form of a hairline crack, invisible to the naked eye.

So Jack will turn off the lights and find it.

The machine he is using is a kind of magnetic X-ray. It takes a part that has first been coated with flourescent iron particles and runs an electric current through it. This causes a tiny arc to jump the hairline fault attracting a build-up of iron particles so that they can be seen under black light.

Still, great though the machine is, it takes an expert like Jack Hubble to operate it. It is his skill and judgment that must separate what looks like trouble from what is trouble. There's no room for error!

Making sure every step of the way is a feature of Finning's repair and rebuild services. It's a case where only the best men working with the best equipment will do. And one more reason why people in B.C.'s primary industries buy Caterpillar equipment year after year. From Finning, the service company.

FOR GRADUATE SCHOOLS

Grant Increase 'Fantasy'

A University of B.C. professor suggested here Tuesday that it is an "Irish fantasy" to believe the recommendations of the Bladen Commission into financing higher education will be implemented in the next few years.

Dr. Douglas Kenny, psychology department head at UBC, was speaking at a panel discussion on graduate psychology studies in the province.

He was referring specifically to a recommendation of the Bladen Commission that universities establishing graduate schools should be given additional grants from the federal government.

University of Victoria psychology department head Dr. William H. Gaddes said he hoped a graduate studies program in psychology would be started next September.

"If we can attract the right professors with the right kind of money we can turn out a first class graduate student," he said.

He said the Uvic program would likely begin with only two or three students working toward a doctorate.

Dr. Gaddes emphasized the Uvic program was only in the planning stage and still needed the approval of the university senate.

Graduate psychology studies at Uvic will include a course in psycho-linguistics which would examine psychological problems in bi-lingualism and specific problems of various language groups.

The instruction in the planned program would be in terms of seminars and course work would not be emphasized.

Dr. Lorne Kendall of Simon Fraser University also outlined his department's graduate psychology studies program under the tri-mester system.

He said the program is being arranged so that a student could begin the program in any of the three four-month semesters and continue on to a doctorate.

OPTIMIST OF YEAR is Al Collier, here presented with Optimist Life Membership for notable service in youth work. Optimist past district governor of Downtown Victoria club George Gordon makes presentation.

FUR EATEN OFF ROBE, COMPLAINS MAYOR

OTTAWA (CP)—Mayor Don Reid complained Thursday that his official robes are in a terrible state. "The fur is all eaten off," he told members of board of control. Furthermore, the robes don't come close to fitting the six-foot-three mayor. The last wearer was pint-sized Charlotte Whitton, who is a foot or more shorter.

LUNCHED, LOOKED, LEFT

15 Optimists Go to Jail

Fifteen Optimists went to jail on Thursday.

But just for lunch.

Bert Whyte, treasurer of the Victoria - Downtown Optimist Club, explained why.

"Two of our most valued members, Detective Tom Smith and Al Collier, police station plant engineer, spend so much time keeping the city and the station in good shape they have not time to join us at our regular luncheon meetings.

"So we come to them."

"A case of the mountain coming to Mohammed," added Optimist past district governor George Gordon.

Box lunches on their knees and donut sugar on their fingers, the Optimist Club was roughing it.

Their usual venue is the Pacific Club.

Major business was the award of life membership to Mr. Collier.

"Only one award a year," said Mr. Whyte. "To the Optimist who serves the club's aims best over the year."

COOK'S TOUR

After lunch, police quartermaster, Sergeant Jim Smith, took the Optimists on a Cook's tour of the renovated station. They visited Chief John Gregory's office, went behind bars, and inspected the detectives' office—everywhere Optimists wouldn't ordinarily go.

Everyone decided they were happy they had always kept out of trouble, thanked Sgt. Smith, and went back to work.

MILESTONE IN CHURCH'S 2,000-YEAR HISTORY

Religious Liberty Document Gets Final Passage

By BENNET M. BOLTON

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican ecumenical council voted final approval today for a Roman Catholic declaration that all men must have religious liberty.

The council bishops accepted the document, a milestone in their church's 2,000 - year history, by a vote of 1,954 to 249.

The vote ended work on the declaration which sets a new tone for Catholic relations with other Christians and non-Christians. It recognizes the right of followers of non-Catholic faiths to worship according to their conscience.

Meanwhile, an effort by Archbishop Philip Hannan of New Orleans to amend the council's denunciation of nuclear weapons ended in failure.

Archbishop Hannan, former auxiliary bishop of Washington, D.C., had proposed changes that would have accepted stockpiling under certain conditions as a defensive deterrent.

The acceptance vote on the religious liberty declaration cleared the way for its promulgation as a church decree by Pope Paul in a public session the day before the council ends Dec. 8.

The declaration states that all men have an intrinsic right derived from God to think and worship as they believe without outside coercion.

The text still contains a section demanded by conservatives. It is a reaffirmation of the church doctrine that Catholicism is the one true religion and the one true church.

Many progressive bishops and Protestant observers at the council feel the assertion is out of place in the religious liberty document since it already has been spelled out in the council's 1964 decree on the nature of the church.

Man, 101, Weds 'Baby Bride', 77

SEATTLE (AP)—William Payson Holt said Thursday he has taken a "baby bride" to share his future. Holt is 101. He will be 102 next week. His bride is 77.

Holt, a Washingtonian since 1884, and Mrs. Karen Monrad, formerly of Chicago, were married by a justice of the peace last Friday. It was the fourth marriage for Holt, who has three children. Mrs. Holt has two children. The couple will live in a home for the elderly.

"Our families certainly don't need us any more," Holt said. "We're all alone and we have need for each other. I think we're going to be very happy."

Holt said he had needed "the companionship and help of a good woman."

"I've found it in my baby bride."

CANADA ROLE OUTLINED

Use Army for Peace, Urges Nanaimo MP

Canada's present military role on the international scene is both "ludicrous and ambiguous," Colin Cameron, NDP MP for Nanaimo, Cowichan and the Islands, said this week.

The military role should be abandoned for "what Canada does well," that is, peacekeeping, Mr. Cameron told students at the University of Victoria.

"The military man has never been very high on our national totem pole," Mr. Cameron said.

In the audience were 50 uniformed men from HMCS Naden prep school.

At the same time Mr. Cameron made some tart comments on Canada's image abroad, attacked "the late, unlamented John Foster Dulles," and blasted U.S. action in Viet Nam.

Introduced as "the NDP's expert on foreign affairs," Mr. Cameron denied the title, saying there is probably no expert on the subject in the whole of Canada.

Canadians "seem to be undecided as to what we are," he said.

MILITARY STRUT

It is ridiculous, he added, for Canada "to strut as a military power.

"Inevitably, we dance to the tune of an American military band."

Known abroad as polite, modest and kindly people, Canadians have long had "a foot-shuffling sense of inferiority," Mr. Cameron charged.

"The British used to push us around almost absent-mindedly." Now the Americans do the same, he said.

To rid Canada of foreign domination and establish a better international image, Canada's political leaders should "speak bluntly and plainly" to the U.S. or to any other government whose foreign policy they disagree with.

CANADIAN TROOPS

And it would be "merely confounding the folly and crime of a neighbour" to send Canadian troops to Viet Nam, said Mr. Mr. Cameron.

Although the danger of the Viet Nam conflict escalating into a world war is exaggerated, the war itself is "grossly unconstitutional" from the American point of view, he said.

He added that the North Viet Nam communist regime is "no more shocking" than the U.S. government in the south, which features "gross incompetence and gross dishonesty."

The Americans, he said, have taken a "simplistic, naive and childish view of the communist world.

DAM BUILDING

The opinion, held by the late John Foster Dulles, former U.S. secretary of state, that "all Communists are devils" is "imbecile and extremely dangerous." said Mr. Cameron.

Mr. Cameron disagreed with the Dulles handling of the founding of NATO and also with his negotiations with the Egyptian government about building the Aswan Dam.

MARGARET KEPT HOPPING

'It's Only the Beginning'

By KELLY SMITH

NEW YORK (AP)—Britain's Princess Margaret and her husband received Mrs. John F. Kennedy, wife of the late president, as their first guest Thursday night after arriving here on the last leg of a U.S. tour.

"This is not the end of a glorious visit," said the princess, "but the beginning." Her six-day itinerary includes a ball, dinner parties, country outings, shopping and enough tourist hopping to stagger a hiker.

The princess and her husband, the Earl of Snowdon, made a speedy start toward warming up New York.

Soon after they stepped off their plane late in the afternoon the princess was introduced to some 400 newspaper, radio and television representatives in a hotel suite.

WANTS TO RETURN

"During the last 14 days," she said, "we have seen so much that we have not only enjoyed, but greatly admired. I do hope that we can come back again soon. In fact, you will be hard put to keep us away."

A private reception for diplomats and newspaper publishers was held in the hotel afterwards.

The couple then visited the home of John Hay Whitney, publisher of the New York Herald Tribune and U.S. ambassador to Britain during the Eisenhower administration.

Mrs. Kennedy arrived at the Whitneys only minutes after the princess and her party entered. Mrs. Kennedy stayed half an hour and left with a tiny white box.

A British information agency spokesman said the princess had asked to meet Mrs. Kennedy.

Two Drinkers Fined After Wild Rides

Two young men each were fined $300 in city court Thursday for impaired driving.

Both had wild rides earlier Thursday before their court appearances.

Ian Dudley Wickett, 19, of Parksville, and Ronald George Bowman, 21, of 3421 Veteran Street, pleaded guilty.

In addition to the fines, both were prohibited from driving anywhere in Canada for four months by Magistrate J. A. Byers.

Esquimalt police said Wickett drove through a dead-end barrier near Work Point Barracks, travelled 187 feet across a field and came to rest in a ditch on Macaulay Street.

Bowman was paced at 55-60 m.p.h. north on Douglas from Hillside to Finlayson.

More Co-operation

LONDON (Reuters) — The British and West German foreign ministers, Michael Stewart and Gerhard Schroeder, today agreed in principle on further measures for Anglo-West German co-operation in various fields, an authoritative source said.

PIRATE TV OPERATION TO USE U.S. FILMS

IPSWICH, England (Reuters)—Britain's first pirate television station has started operating from a disused wartime fort 10 miles out at sea, off the southeast England coast. Test pictures and signals are being transmitted successfully to ordinary household sets. The station plans to put out American films each night from midnight to 3 a.m. early next year. It joins a string of pirate radio stations operating from ships and sites outside territorial waters.

BETWEEN OURSELVES

Energetic Women Ask Vote Change

By ELIZABETH FORBES

If energy, enthusiasm and dedication mean anything, then Mrs. Len J. Nyquist should win wide support in her avowed intention of having federal election laws changed to allow patients in hospitals to exercise their votes.

Young, good looking and with a quick and active mind, Judy Nyquist looks upon this project as a mission that must be accomplished.

"We live in a country where we have the right to vote as we wish," she tells you. "Why then should people, through no fault of their own, be deprived of that vote?"

Mrs. Nyquist speaks with some knowledge. She has been a deputy returning officer at three federal elections and, in the last one, she came into serious contact with the problem.

* * *

Her station was at a poll arranged in St. Joseph's Hospital.

"It brought me up against the situation," she tells you. "Over and over again we had to tell patients some who came down to us in wheelchairs—that as they could not vote in the district in which they were registered, they could not vote at all."

Many did not realize that the hospital poll had been established — not to accommodate patients — but as a district centre. When they were told they became angry and expended their wrath on those manning the poll desks.

* * *

"We were called all sorts of names," Judy Nyquist says.

One man came down from his room in his pyjamas. He wouldn't accept the fact that he could not vote in the hospital poll. When he was finally convinced, he went back to his room, put on his coat and walked out of the hospital. "I'm going to vote," he said. "It is my right!"

Another person, recently named a Canadian citizen, expected to vote in this country for the first time. He walked proudly into the poll and in accented English, said he wished to cast his ballot. It was a great disappointment when he was told that it was impossible.

In the maternity wing, many mothers with new born babies, missed casting their ballots. A few, who were almost ready to go home, did receive permission to leave the hospital for an hour or so but the majority had to stay where they were.

* * *

These conditions were not peculiar to St. Joseph's Hospital alone. They occurred in the Royal Jubilee Hospital, too. It is estimated in the two major institutions more than 500 people were deprived of voting privileges.

Complaints about this condition have been voiced in the past but Mrs. Nyquist's mission is the first organized effort to try to correct it.

She is aware of the difficulties that face any suggested change in the laws. She also knows that at the moment there is no clear cut way to make the change. She is pinning her hopes on arousing enough interest here and in other parts of British Columbia—perhaps across Canada—to create an awareness of the need at Ottawa.

"Then, surely every member of Parliament will give some thought to the problem," she says, "if only with the idea of increasing the number of votes cast."

* * *

Already she has received backing from news media in this city. She has also been given promises by George Chatterton and David Groos, both re-elected to Parliament in the last election, that they will look into the matter at Ottawa.

This is all to the good, she says, but she also needs the backing of the people in order to be sure that the problem will not be forgotten.

With the help of a small committee, she is preparing petitions that state, in resolution form, the need for revision of federal voting laws. These petitions will be taken from door to door to be signed, in a one-night blitz, on Thursday, Nov. 25.

* * *

Assisting in this blitz will be University of Victoria students who are vitally interested because many students across Canada, registered away from their centres of study, lost votes in the last election.

More helpers will be needed, however, if the Greater Victoria area is to be covered in the proper manner.

Mrs. Nyquist's plea is — "if you value your right to vote and you believe that right should be shared by everyone eligible to vote," then perhaps you would like to help her bring this first part of her mission to a successful conclusion.

HONORARY JAYCEE, Lieutenant-Governor G. R. Pearkes, and Miss Victoria, Gloria Mills, officially opened the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce's Christmas Lighting Contest on Thursday. Mr. Pearkes praised the Jaycees' efforts to beautify the capital city during the festive season. Entry forms are available at the electric departments of the four local major department stores. Judging takes place Dec. 20 to 23.

FEES RAISE LITTLE

The Art Gallery of Toronto raised $67,724 of its $267,015 expenses for 1965 from membership and admission fees.

False Claims Made To Collect Benefits

Two men pleaded guilty on Thursday in city court to giving false information to obtain unemployment insurance benefits.

John Cooper, 2939 Scott Street, and Gunter Beyer, 2533 Quadra Street, were prosecuted under the Unemployment Insurance Act.

Court was told Cooper said he was laid off when he was actually dismissed with cause by his previous employer.

He could have obtained benefits for six weeks but the false information was discovered immediately by the National Employment Service.

Magistrate J. A. Byers fined him $20.

Beyer received $125 more than he was entitled to by making false wage statements March 26, April 9 and April 23.

"You have stolen from other workers," Magistrate Byers told him when he remanded Beyer one week for presentence report and sentence.

He added he "could have remanded you in custody—the same as any other thief."

PRODUCT GETS GREEN LIGHT

OTTAWA (CP)—A continued seal of approval has been given a Canadian broadcast advertisement for Geritol, the iron and vitamin tonic that landed in hot water in the United States because of its advertising.

The ad aired by Canadian stations originally was approved by the federal health department's food and drug directorate. It was reviewed after a U.S. crackdown last month on Geritol ads and given a continued green light.

Jail Term Saves Money, Says Magistrate

A man convicted of his second impaired driving offence was sentenced to two weeks in jail Thursday in city police court.

"At least you saved yourself $350, Magistrate J. A. Byers told Frederick Haun, 2506 Prior.

Haun was seen by police driving west on Sooke Road about 15 m.p.h, weaving from shoulder to shoulder.

A breath test revealed a .26 blood-alcohol count.

AGE MEANS MONEY

The richest university in the Atlantic provinces is Dalhousie, founded in 1818 at Halifax, with nearly $23,000,000 in assets.

Schools Save $7,000 By Council Action

Two city private schools will get unexpected property tax relief as a result of a Victoria council finance committee recommendation Thursday.

St. Ann's Academy and St. Margaret's School will save about $7,000 between them on next year's property tax levy.

A sweeping change in the tax exemption basis had been planned for commencement Jan. 1, but on a recommendation by city manager Dennis Young the committee agreed to defer it until next year.

Council has authority to exempt from taxation all or part of lands and improvements owned by churches, hospitals, private schools or societies providing accommodation for old folks.

It is proposed to put exemptions on a formula basis, making them equitable for the first time.

Few groups or private operations would be affected significantly, although many would enjoy tax reduction.

Total tax revenue increased to the city would be about $10,000 under the new formula, most of it from private schools.

Shortness of time to prepare bylaws was one reason for deferral, but Mayor R. B. Wilson said it also will give interested parties time to prepare briefs and lay them before council.

Re-examination of the matter was to be set for early next year, which the mayor called "a very wise decision. We are changing an historic pattern drastically."

PHIL'S HILL MAY HONOR GAGLARDI

BURNABY (CP)—Highways Minister Gaglardi, who says he has never had a road named after him, may soon have as a namesake the steep road up Burnaby Mountain to Simon Fraser University.

SFU president Dr. Patrick McTaggart-Cowan said Thursday the name will be kept secret until the road is officially opened Dec. 2, but he heaped praise on Mr. Gaglardi for building "this magnificent road."

The three-mile stretch of white cement has already earned a student nickname: Phil's Hill.

Woman Responsible?

Police believe a woman is responsible for an overnight break-in Tuesday at Reitman's Ladies Wear in the Mayfair Shopping Centre.

Sometime during the night a rock was used to break the glass in the front door and the culprit then went through the store and tried on several articles of clothing in the fitting room.

Store officials believe only $3 in petty cash was stolen.

Chamber to 'Plug Hole' In Promoting Tourism

Next March the Victoria Chamber of Commerce will try to plug the hole in West Coast touring pattern when they head on a week long safari through Oregon and Washington.

Using a recently acquired double-decker bus, last used by the British Information Service on a cross-Canada tour, 30 Chamber members will leave Victoria March 13 and return on the 19th.

"The B.C. Ferry Authority does a tremendous job for us in California and other distant points," said tour committee chairman Sam Lane. "It is up to us to try and plug the hole in Oregon and Washington where, believe it or not, we do not have the tourist image we should."

Announcing tentative tour stopping points at Thursday's regular meeting of the tourist committee at the Old England Inn, Mr. Lane said the tour would take in all major centres.

"We are still working on detailed plans for the tour," Mr. Lane said. "Right now we plan to take small gifts to the mayors of the major cities on the route and, at least once a day make a major stop at a shopping centre to give the locals a chance to see theirf first double-decker bus and tour the bottom deck where all the space will be devoted to exhibits."

Meeting chairman William Clark of the Dominion Hotel expressed disappointment at the turn out to the meeting.

"I am very disappointed in the apathy which exists when we get together," he said. "We expected at least 28 people to be here tonight, instead we have just 15."

During the meeting plans were discussed to install a Christmas Tree in Centennial Square. Pat Frumento visited city hall today seeking permission for the installation after which attempts will be made to organize local choirs for nightly carol sessions.

The committee also approved the drafting of a formal resolution calling for the lifting of the ban on liquor sales during municipal elections.

After the resolution is drawn up it will be presented to the general membership for approval before being forwarded to the provincial government.

The dates for the Spring Flower Festival in 1966 were set for April 2-11. The committee in charge will work throughout the winter on the nine-day program.

CRONE

Gov't Saves Money By This CPO's Ideas

CPO E. E. Crone, 1790 Keith, is a man who knows how to save the government money.

Twice in the last three years he has won cash prizes for ideas submitted to the federal government's suggestion award plan.

His brainchild this year was a method of reducing the size of textbooks used at HMCS Naden's fleet school.

A second idea calls for combining a textbook and notebook.

In 1963 he suggested a more economical method of cleaning ship's fuel tanks and bilges.

CPO Crone will retire from the RCN next year after 24 years' service.

He was one of 47 members of the Canadian forces to win awards announced Thursday.

Other Island servicemen to win cash for their suggestions are LS A. R. C. Haddow, CPO C. W. S. Wheatley, Lt. A. J. Rideout, and CPO Carter, HMCS Naden; PO J. G. L. Charpentier, HMCS Yukon; LAC Thomas Neil and Sgt. D. C. Roberts, RCAF Station Comox, and civilian R. G. Pilling, HMC Dockyard.

TROOPS TO GET YULE GOODIES

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hundreds of air national guardsmen—most of them weekend flyers—have a 10-day trip in their future. They're going to fly Christmas gifts to U.S. soldiers in South Viet Nam.

Volunteer crews of nine men each will fly an estimated 75 missions to Viet Nam in the next month, carrying cookies, cakes, candy and mail.

FBI Adds Canadian To Most Wanted List

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Canadian charged with using an anti-tank gun in a $423,000 burglary of a Brink's vault in Syracuse, N.Y., was named today one of the FBI's 10 most wanted fugitives.

He is Joel Singer, 22, a native of Montreal.

The 20-millimetre cannon was used during the wekend of Oct 23-24.

Singer is charged with the burglary, as well as federal charges of violating the Federal Firearms Act and conspiring in interstate transportation of stolen property.

Soviet Cuts U.S. Lead In N-Arms

LONDON (AP)—The Russians have cut the United States lead in numbers of nuclear missiles and have warheads more than 50 per cent bigger than the Americans, a British research organization said today.

The Institute of Strategic Studies, a private international organization, reported the U.S. margin now over the Soviet Union in numbers of missiles had dropped to three to one from four to one earlier this year.

In its annual review of world military power, the institute said the Soviet Union now has an ICBM with an estimated nuclear warhead power of more than 30 megatons. A megaton is equal to the explosive force of 1,000,000 tons of TNT.

The U.S. arsenal has 54 Titan IIs with warheads estimated at from five to 18 megatons.

Many Western military experts say the size of a nuclear weapon is important only up to a certain point. Beyond that any additional increase yields only diminishing returns.

The institute is a private international centre for research on defence, world security and disarmament.

Its director is Alastair Buchan, youngest son of the first Baron Tweedsmuir, governor - general of Canada in 1935-40.

RCMP Probes Lost Ballots

OTTAWA (CP) — Election officials have called in the RCMP to investigate the circumstances surrounding the discovery of two empty sealed ballot boxes following the Nov. 8 general election.

Both were found during the official ballot counts that followed the election-night tallies.

One was in Ottawa's Carleton riding and the other in Shefford, Que.

In Shefford, Liberal Louis-Paul Neveu had a 45-vote edge over Conservative Paul Trepanier following the official count.

In Carleton, Conservative Richard Bell won the riding.

Car Radio Stolen

A youth who stole a car radio Nov. 9 was given a six-month suspended sentence Thursday in city court.

Gerald Woloshyn, 220 Kamloops, was also placed on $150 bond.

Mother Admits Hitting Baby, Says Detective

A young mother, charged with killing her six-months-old daughter, was said in Assize Court Thursday to have admitted striking her twice on the forehead with her closed fist and once with her open hand.

The mother—25-year-old Mary Jean Bilton—is alleged to have told the police:

"The first two blows were as hard as I could hit. The third blow was just a slap."

Detective Lorne Johnson told of an interview he had with Mrs. Bilton early on July 3 when the body was found in a cot in her room two weeks after the baby's death.

He asked her how the baby died and Mrs. Bilton replied:

"I hit her over the head because she had been crying for half an hour. She continued crying for about 20 minutes. but when I returned to the bedroom she had stopped and seemed all right."

BABY STILL

When she went to the baby's crib next morning, it was very still.

"I knew she was dead and I had killed her," Mrs. Bilton told Detective Johnson

"She said she did not inform anyone of the baby's death because she didn't know what would happen to her. I asked the accused how she could bear to sleep in the same room as her dead baby.

"She replied she just tried to put it out of her mind as though it had never happened."

BROKE DOWN

Detective Johnson said Mrs. Bilton remained calm while giving her statement, but broke down after she mentioned striking the baby.

When he asked her why she kept silent for almost two weeks about the baby's death, she replied:

"I have been so mixed up I didn't know what to do."

The 12-man jury was excluded from court Thursday morning while lawyers argued over the admissibility of certain police evidence.

Mr. Justice J. G. Gould ruled that Detective Johnson's evidence should be heard and the jury was recalled Thursday afternoon.

CHARGE WITHDRAWN

Mrs. Bilton had pleaded not guilty to charges of manslaughter by assault, manslaughter by criminal negligence and assault causing bodily harm.

Crown prosecutor Louis Lindholm announced Friday evening that the Crown had withdrawn the charge of causing death by criminal ngeligence.

Mrs. Bilton is still on trial for manslaughter and assault causing bodily harm.

BLOODSHED CONTINUES IN KASHMIR

Death Notices Tell Real Story of Ceasefire

By CONRAD FINK

NEW DELHI (AP) — "Capt. Gautam Mubayi, son of S. N. Mubayi, was killed in action on the Kashmir front on the 3rd Nov., 1965."

Officially, a ceasefire prevails on the India-Pakistan front. But death notices like this one keep appearing as tragic proof that there is no peace.

Bloodshed has continued since the UN-sponsored ceasefire supposedly went into effect Sept. 23.

(An Indian spokesman claimed Thursday that Indian troops killed 30 Pakistani soldiers and captured eight in an engagement on the Rajsthan border between India and West Pakistan. The spokesman said three Indian soldiers were killed and four were wounded.)

UN observers on the front under the command of Canada's Maj. - Gen. Bruce Macdonald have been increased to more than 185 but they haven't been able to prevent jet fighter-bombers, tanks and heavy artillery from going into action.

Defence Minister Y. B. Chavan told Parliament 10 days ago that 262 Indians and 378 Pakistanis had been killed since the ceasefire along the 1,500 - mile truce line stretching from Kashmir southwest almost to the Arabian Sea.

Much post-truce fighting has been in the desert wastes of India's Rajasthan state and adjoining parts of Pakistan's Sind.

The most dangerous sectors are to the north—the so-called Lahore and Sialkot sectors.

Huge armored forces are poised behind front-line infantry units that skirmish almost continually along the truce line. Most UN observers are concentrated in this area.

SEAGRAM WILL FILED

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP)—The will of Thomas W. Seagram, son of the founder of Joseph E. Seagram and Sons Ltd., distillers, was filed for probate here Wednesday, leaving an estate of $2,144,133 to be divided between his widow and two sons.

DEPUTY minister of finance, Robert B. Bryce, was awarded the Vanier Medal Thursday. The medal is presented annually by the Canadian Institute of Public Administration to a distinguished public servant.

RHODESIAN CRISIS HELPS LABOR POLL

LONDON (Reuters)—The first public opinion poll since the Rhodesian crisis credited the Labor government today with a huge leap in popularity.

The National Opinion Poll, in copyright findings published in The Daily Mail, showed the government had a lead of 18.5 per cent over the Conservatives, an increase of 8.5 per cent in three weeks.

Victoria Daily Times
VICTORIA, B.C., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1965 —PAGE 23

Arthur Mayse

There was once in this hearty province a weird and wonderful outfit called the British Columbia Institute of Journalists. A great many working newsmen belonged to it, also quite a few occasional scriveners for the press.

It wasn't a club or union, although I believe in its beginnings it did nurse some such worthy purpose as improving the lot of the toilers on the dailies.

By the time I took my place among the slaves in the Vancouver press baracoons, however, nobody could say for sure what lay behind the impressive facade of its title. I suppose the Institute had a constitution and bylaws, but during the period of my membership, I was never told, or bothered to learn, what these might be.

Like the other young reporters, I joined because our hard-rock city editor told us we'd better. Meekly next payday, we forked over a dollar each, and after a wait while a new batch were run off, received cards on which the Institute name was overlaid by 'PRESS' in fire-engine red letters two inches tall.

★ ★ ★

From my present ledge on life's uppsy-downsy mountain track, I can see that the Institute of Journalists' chief function was to provide funds for a yearly banquet and the occasional party.

To this end, it sponsored an annual press ball which was heavily attended by the city's arrived elite and those who were in there trying. The social page coverage was always superb—we saw to that—and the take restored the Institute's depleted coffers

Later came the banquet. This was strictly a newsman's function. The dilettante portion of the membership could attend if it dared, but rarely did; to survive an institute banquet required considerable stamina.

A chum who held a card in the Victoria branch tells me that before one of its banquets, the late, great editor Benny Nicholas of the Times lined up his junior reporters and solemnly forbade them to attend.

But we across the water were under no such kindly restraint, and with a pint of milk or a slug of olive oil for ballast, went eagerly to join our seniors at their frolic.

★ ★ ★

The last of these banquets was held at Grouse Mountain Chalet—not the present one, but its predecessor which burned. (We didn't do it.) I believe the reason we took to the hills was because we had outworn our welcome at Vancouver's more convenient inns.

As usual, everything went along decorously for a while. We ate our dinner, drank a toast or two in ice-water, and settled down to listen to speeches. For once, it seemed, an Institute banquet was going to run its course in seemly fashion.

Then someone popped the speaker with a crusty dinner roll, and somebody else fished a bottle from under the table, and with a whoop and a holler, the Institute banquet charged joyously off the rails.

My recollections from that point are sketchy, but it was quite a party.

Something comes back about a car. We were in the car, which nobody seemed to be driving, and in our descent of the mountain we went off the road a couple of times. A lot of Institute of Journalists members must have been in the car, because we set it back on the road without any trouble.

I may be getting my banquets mixed—after all, this was a long time ago—but I also retain a pleasant memory of wading in salt water at sunrise, to an accompaniment of mighty tuneful song.

The Institute didn't survive the war, which is probably just as well. But while it lasted, it was a lot of fun.

Junior Naturalists Going to Goldstream

The younger section of the junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet on Saturday at 1.30 p.m. at Douglas and Hillside for a field trip to Goldstream picnic site.

If weather is bad, the group will visit the Provincial Museum.

CUDDLING AN OCTOPUS IS "UGH," but it's the only way to handle it, out of the water, Undersea Gardens divers Mick Vavra and Terry Pope found this morning. They had to get a 100-pound specimen out of display pen and into a portable one. Despite all of his legs, he wouldn't help. He probably didn't relish an airplane flight to Seattle where he will "lord" it over the smaller local specimen in the American city's Undersea Gardens. Big "O" was caught Tuesday "somewhere in the straits," by Victoria octopus hunter, Frank McGuire. The monster was wrestled into a plywood crate lined with plastic sheets and filled with sea water into which oxygen was pumped during the entire trip. The crate was roped into the plane for the 40-min. flight.

Uvic College System Gets 'Serious Study'

University of Victoria may be divided into several small "colleges" to combat the rapid increase in size of the institution.

Development of the college system is now receiving "serious study", president Dr. Malcolm Taylor announced Thursday.

A committee report advocating the college system has been referred by the university Senate to students and faculty.

Change to a college system would be made to maintain the close personal relationships between faculty and students which have been a part of the university, said Dr. Taylor

SIX COLLEGES

The plan put forward by the committee calls for establishment of at least six colleges to form a nucleus for residence accommodation which would eventually house over 2,000 students.

"One important point in considering the college system, for Victoria is that no additional capital costs of any size would be involved," said Dr. Taylor.

He said two possibilities exist — to initiate the new system gradually, or wait until all the facilities are available before making the change.

Construction of colleges could be "economically fitted into our existing master plan" according to university architects.

Decentralizing the present set-up in study, recreation and dining facilities would relieve the pressure now felt on the Gordon Head campus.

Support for the plan was heard from several areas on campus.

"Unless we do something like this, we will develop into a university where it will become increasingly difficult for students to get to know their professors or each other," said Dr. S. A. Jennings, chairman of the senate committee studying the plan.

Dean R. R. Jeffels called the plan "an unusual opportunity to protect ourselves from the consequences of a large-size institution and the resulting depersonalization of education."

Stroke Claims Well-Known Victoria Woman

Ida R. Jennings, wife of well-known city florist Ken Jennings, died suddenly Thursday night.

Mrs. Jennings was at her home, 1700 Ruby Road, when she suffered a stroke. She was rushed to Royal Jubilee Hospital where she died shortly after arrival.

Born in Halifax, Mrs. Jennings was a local resident for 26 years. She was a member of Glad Tidings Tabernacle and Gideon's Ladies' Auxiliary.

She leaves her husband, Ken, and one daughter, Ruth, at home; one son, David, in North Vancouver; three brothers, Gordon Yeadon of Daly City, Cal., Harry Yeadon of Victoria, Rev. Gerald Yeadon of Kelso, Wash.; a sister, Mrs. John Atkin, Teheran, Iran, and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be arranged by McCall Brothers.

NICHOLSON TO DELIVER CERTIFICATE IN PERSON

Citizenship Day Nov. 26 for Vanderpols

Atheists may not recognize Christmas, but for the rest of their lives Martin Vanderpol and his family will remember the present they received just before Christmas, 1965.

Next Friday, Nov. 26, the Vanderpols of 2758 Grainger Rd. become Canadian citizens at a special ceremony to be conducted by Immigration and Citizenship Minister John Nicholson who is flying to the coast to award the long-frustrated Dutch couple the certificate they were once denied.

The ceremony, set for 10 a.m. on the third floor of the Immigration Building at 816 Government, will end a story that began last July. At that time the Vanderpols refused to swear the oath of allegiance on the grounds that as atheists they could not swear an oath to a God in whom they did not believe.

Judge Montague Tyrwhitt-Drake, bound by the strict standards of the Citizenship Act, reluctantly refused to grant the Dutch couple Canadian citizenship.

A happy Mr. Vanderpol telephoned The Times this morning with his good news.

"The immigration people called me just a few minutes ago," he said. "I can't say how happy we are. And I'll never be able to thank all the wonderful people who wrote or phoned me to give us all encouragement. It is really great news."

HAPPY VANDERPOL FAMILY is husband Martin, his wife Frances, daughter Margaret, 12, and son Lanny, 10. (Times Photo.)

YOUNG THIEF OUTPACES POLICE OFFICER

A youth outran a city police officer early today after breaking into a James Bay cafe.

He was seen by city police Constable Frank Colli as he left the Agassiz Cafe, Michigan and Menzies, after rifling its cigarette machine.

Const. Colli gave chase but lost the youth as he darted through the provincial government employees' parking lot.

The youth broke into the cafe by smashing a window and prying apart bars on the inside.

It is unknown how much was taken from the premises.

Patricia Off Nov. 28 For Mexico

The Ss. Princess Patricia will slip anchor Nov. 28 and leave Victoria waters for Mexico.

After a two-month refit at Victoria Machinery Depot, the CPR cruise ship is all set for a sunny Christmas.

She will ply the waters between Los Angeles, Mazatlan, Puerto Vallarata, Manzanillo and Acapulco.

While in dock, she has been modernized and made virtually fire-proof.

Wooden stairways have been ripped out and replaced with steel.

A swimming pool has been built on the top after-deck and bar and dining rooms have been enlarged.

An evaporator has also been installed to convert sea water into pure water.

Cost of the refit was $340,000.

After leaving Victoria, skippered by local captain George Black, she will sail first to Vancouver to pick up passengers. She leaves for Los Angeles the same evening.

In the spring, she will be back on her old run between Vancouver and Alaska, a run she inaugurated in 1963.

BEAR NO MALICE LOVERS OF ALICE!

Alice still may be fin-loose and fancy-free.

There was speculation Thursday that the albino killer whale that has been sighted numerous times in Vancouver Island waters since 1947 had been caught by Russian fishermen in North Pacific.

Tass News Agency said in a brief report that a white whale had been taken, and because there are few albinos in the whale family, thoughts went to Alice.

Provincial Museum director. Dr. Clifford Carl, who has taken a keen interest in Alice and written about her activities, was among those who were concerned.

But there have been second thoughts.

Tass said the captured albino was 36 feet long. Dr. Carl says Alice is only about 18 feet.

She was last reported seen about two months ago off Tofino on Vancouver Island's west coast, shortly after she had put on a cavorting good show in Juan de Fuca Strait off Oak Bay.

Alice admirers will stay in wonderland until word comes that she has been sighted again, and they are hoping it will be soon.

Detective's Funeral Set For Monday

Funeral services will be held Monday for Oak Bay detective-sergeant Victor W. Pratley, who died suddenly Thursday night.

Det. Pratley was born in Edmonton. He lived here for 20 years during which time he served with the Oak Bay police. He rose from first class constable to juvenile officer in 1956 and to detective in 1958.

Rain Accompanies 12 Hours of Wind

Gale force winds lashed Vancouver Island overnight cutting power and telephone lines over a wide area.

Several communities were still without heat or light this morning as the storm subsided.

Port Renfrew was knocked out at 5 a.m. and engineers were still working to restore power at lunchtime.

GUSTED TO 60

Most failures were caused by falling branches, ripped from trees as the wind gusted up to 60-miles-an-hour.

Strongest gust recorded at Victoria weather office came shortly after 7 a.m. when the southwesterly reached 57 m.p.h.

The 12-hour blow, which began around 10 p.m., also dumped .70-inch of rain on the city.

Repair crews were kept busy up to 1:30 a.m. as complaints of power and telephone cuts poured in.

Most of the faults were repaired within a couple of hours.

Port Alberni had to switch to its radio-telephone system after the line link to Nanaimo was downed in two places.

TREE FELL

Saanich works crews were called out in the early hours to drag away a tree that had blown across Prospect Lake Rd.

In Tofino, residents were without power from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Thursday.

But it was nothing to do with the storm, according to B.C Hydro.

The power was cut off while workmen resited a number of power poles.

Despite the severity of the storm, there were few reports of property damage and no injuries.

The weather office said the storm had now passed and no further blows are expected in the immediate future.

It will be cloudy and showery again Saturday.

Three Hurt In Traffic During Storm

Three persons were sent to hospital suffering minor injuries from accidents which occurred overnight on wind-blown and rain-swept streets.

Wilfred Tucker, 1455 Bay, received an injury to his right forearm when the car in which he was riding slammed into a tree early this morning.

Driver of the car was identified by police as Gordon Alberg, 22, of 1516 Mount Douglas Cross Road.

His new car received heavy damage from the collision which occurred in the 1300 block Beach Drive, Oak Bay police said.

A crash at Quadra and Cloverdale sent driver Lena Walker, 2645 Dewdney, to Royal Jubilee Hospital suffering from shock.

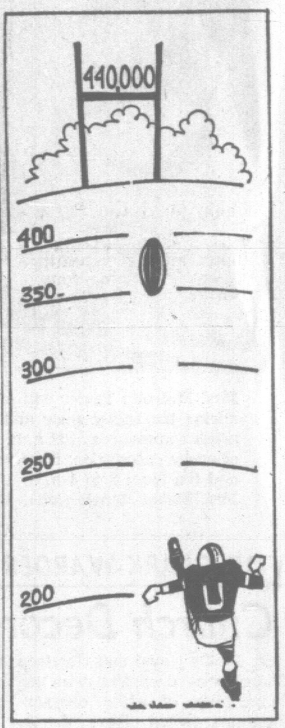
$600 DAMAGE

Other motorist involved was Edward Barker, 3244 Service, Saanich police reported. Damage to both vehicles was estimated at $600.

Mrs. Margaret McBay, 3034 Milgrove, was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital with head cuts following a rear-end collision at Douglas and Fisgard.

She was a passenger in a car driven by Robert McBay, 61 Tovey Crescent, which struck the rear of an auto driven by Gino Battison, North Vancouver, city police said.

Help Score 'Fair-Share' Goal



United Appeal total stood at $385,220 Thursday evening — 87.7 per cent of the goal.

No donations were added to the sum this morning.

Confirmation of a large amount from five chartered banks was received, however, but the figure has already been included in the total.

Contributing a total of $4,150 are local branches of the following banks — Royal, Montreal, Nova Scotia, Toronto-Dominion, and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce.

Invitations to the annual awards dinner at the Empress Hotel Dec. 2 will be put in the mail in the next day or so, an official said.

FOR CLARK-WARDER VOWS

Church Decorated With White Flowers

St. Paul's Naval and Garrison Church was decorated with arrangements of white chrysanthemums when Rev. J. A. Roberts heard marriage vows exchanged between Donna Lynne Warder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Donald Warder, 1408 Craddock Street, and Sub-Lt. Lawrence William Clark RCN, son of Mrs. R. Bell, Oshawa, Ont. and the late Mr. Clark.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a classic gown of white peau de soie, styled along empire lines. The redingote effect revealed the bodice, which featured lace appliques. Her panel train with the same lace appliques extended from her shoulders. A coronet of lace held her shoulder-length veil. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses. Only jewelry was a strand of pearls, gift of the groom.

The bride's attendants, the Misses Margaret Hallam and Sharron Warren, wore gowns of jade green peau de soie and toning wedding ring headpieces. Chrysanthemums in autumn shades were in their bouquets.

Sub-Lt. Peter Baldwin was best man, and guests were ushered by Sub-Lt. Philip Johnston and Sub-Lt. Edward Redshaw.

At a reception following in the Carlton Club, the bride and groom cut a three-tier wedding cake which was flanked with autumn-toned chrysanthemums and silver candelabra. Thomas Flannagan proposed the toast to the bride.

A two-piece apricot-colored suit with brown accessories, and moss green coat with matching hat, was worn by the bride for travelling on honeymoon to San Francisco.

SEW SIMPLE WITH Eunice Farmer

New Construction Method Makes Smoother Collars

Dear Eunice Farmer:

I have always finished a Peter Pan type collar and then applied it to my garment and been very satisfied with the results. Now I notice that a new pattern for a coat I am making calls for the under-collar to be stitched to the garment and the top collar to be stitched to the facing.

Why is this better than my method?

Mrs. May B.

Dear Mrs. B.:

The new construction method for this type of collar works beautifully. By applying the under-collar to the facing first, you can clip the neckline curve, press the seams open and catch-stitch each side of the seam to the garment.

Before stitching the top collar to the facing, it is a good idea to see if the top collar is large enough to permit the collar to roll nicely. If your fabric is especially heavy, I would suggest you take a smaller seam on the top-collar itself when stitching it to the front facing. This will give you a little extra room on the top collar. Being able to press these seams open is a great advantage and should make a much smoother collar.

Perfect Pockets

Hope you like my pocket "simplifier." When a pocket is rounded at the lower end, I cut a cardboard pocket without seam allowance. Then run a small-stitch basting thread through the seam allowance, pulling up the basting thread as you go. This rounds the corners beautifully, with no large puckers, and pockets will always be the same size.

Coffee Party

St. Michael's School was the setting for a coffee party held recently by the fun fair committee of the school's Mother's Auxiliary to discuss plans for a fair to be held in April. Mrs. E. A. McGowan was named convener of the event, to be assisted by Mrs. John Nation and Mrs. R. E. Neal.

Attending the party were Mrs. K. W. Symons, Mrs. B. G. P. Colclough, Mrs. D. S. Carter, Mrs. S. G. Pettit, Mrs. A. G. Murray, Mrs. R. A. Lawrie, Mrs. D. T. Burr, Mrs. W. H. Lund, Mrs. Q. Haddow, Mrs. M. B. Oliver, Mrs. E. J. Symons, Mrs. C. F. Genge and Mrs. J C. Cox.

Red China Artists Adhere to the Old Ways

ART UNAFFECTED BY COMMUNISM

By PAT DUFOUR

Red China, with her new ideology and leaders, seems to have discarded all of the old traditions but one, that of her art work.

The artisans and painters of that country appear untouched by the revolutionary swing to communism, continuing to carve their jade and ivory pieces in the old way and form and creating the same delicate water colors that have charmed art lovers for years.

A visit to Norma MacDonald's gallery in the Century Inn which had its official opening this week offers ample evidence of this fact in the many treasures that Mrs. MacDonald managed to bring back with her when she recently returned from Red China.

None of the pieces or paintings reflect a propaganda tinge and Mrs. MacDonald reports that the work of the present artists and carvers remains true to the old style and workmanship.

Mrs. MacDonald visited Canton and Peking during her recent trip and was delighted with the reception she received as a Canadian.

"As soon as people learned I was a Canadian, they greeted me with open arms. Both young and old told me about Dr. Norman Bethune. They absolutely revere this Canadian who died in a Chinese village at 49 after spending years trying to help their people.

"There's a beautiful shrine raised in his honor there and I didn't meet a single person who failed to bring up his name."

Although the new regime has left Red China's culture untouched, Mrs. MacDonald reports that the cult of ancestor worship seems to have vanished.

"The Chinese seem to be able to dismiss death without pangs. They bury their dead in the fields and all that marks the burial place is a mound of earth. They don't even return to visit the grave."

Marriage, too, has been affected. "Arranged marriages are now a thing of the past. The young people are encouraged to mix and not enter into marriage until they're 25. Birth control is advocated, as are small families."

Mrs. MacDonald reports that the Chinese seem to be happy in their new way of life. "There's a terrific sense of sharing. This is well exemplified in the manner in which new buildings, such as the People's Great Hall in Peking, are built.

"Everyone is encouraged to take part. It's usual to donate a day's work to the project, making bricks, mixing cement or some other physical labor. Their leaders, too, do this. It's most common to hear people pass a building and say, "I helped to build that one". There's a wonderful note of pride and achievement in this phrase."

In her new venture, Mrs. MacDonald hopes to specialize in Oriental art. As well as Red China, she also visited Japan, Hong Kong and Korea.

She's brought back some pottery from Korea that art lovers are bound to be interested in. There's Korean celadon, pottery made to put in the graves of people who died in the 12th century. These graves have now been opened and their treasures sold to the western world and other markets.

Leaning against masterpiece of Chinese carving in her new gallery at the Century Inn, Mrs. Norma MacDonald tells of her recent trip to the Orient.

Even more priceless is the Korean silla which Mrs. MacDonald managed to obtain. This is pottery, black instead of the bluish-green tinge of the celadon, and dug from the graves of the eighth, ninth and 10th centuries.

Many Victorians will remember Mrs. MacDonald's fabulous collections of dolls and paintings which were on view when she owned the Oak Bay Beach Hotel.

Some of these can still be seen in her new gallery. They'll probably be added to when Mrs. MacDonald visits Paris next February in her role as executive member of the International Hotel Association.

And, like many enigmas of art, these European treasures seem to blend with the new Oriental masterpieces in a harmony that their creators might envy.

Heirloom Ring of Grandmother Fulfills Tradition for Bride

Her grandmother's family crest ring fulfilled the tradition of "something old" for Patricia Diane Gould, when she became the bride of Arthur Alfred Squires in St. Matthias Anglican Church.

The bride's gown of peau de soie was styled with a detachable train. Lace rose appliques, starred with seed pearls, highlighted the floor-length skirt. The bodice featured a scoop neckline and sleeves ending in lily points. Her four-tier veil misted to shoulder-length from a pearl and crystal coronet and she carried a white Bible topped with white carnations, Talisman roses and ivy.

White chrysanthemums and fern decorated the church for the service uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Gould, 2385 Queenswood Drive, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Squires, 2029 Goldsmith Street. Rev. Angus Cameron officiated and Mr. Gould gave his daughter in marriage.

A full-length sheath gown of gold and bronze brocade with bow headpiece en tone and crescent bouquet of chrysanthemums was worn by maid of honor Miss Maurine Squires.

Donald Squires was best man for his brother. Guests were ushered by the bride's brother, Lee W. Gould.

A three-tier wedding cake, topped with lily of the valley and bells, centred the head table at the reception in the home of the bride's parents. Max Luxembourg proposed the toast to the bride.

A dusky rose wool suit, accented with black accessories, was worn by the new Mrs. Squires for travelling on honeymoon to California and Nevada.

Attending the wedding from out-of-town were Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Stephens of Red Deer, Alta., and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Rycroft of Vancouver.

Vows In St. John's Anglican Church

ELEANOR GENTRY MARRIED

A hand-crocheted lace tablecloth, made by the bride's grandmother, covered the head table at the reception in Holyrood House following the wedding of Eleanor Charlotte Gentry and John Skakun in St. John's Anglican Church. The bride and groom cut a three-tier wedding cake made by Lloyd Clarke. J. G. Poole proposed the toast to the bride.

The church was decorated with arrangements of chrysanthemums when Dr. J. Sandys-Wunsch heard vows uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander C. Caton, 2744 Graham Street, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Skakun of St. Paul, Alta.

Soloist Laurier Lamoureux sang "Blessed Be This Day," accompanied by organist Kenneth Ansdell, during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her stepfather, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white brocade, made by her mother. The gown featured a bell-shaped skirt and detachable train. The fitted bodice was styled with sleeves ending in lily points. A pearl tiara held her four-tier net veil. Her only jewelry was an heirloom pearl locket, "something old" belonging to her great-aunt. Yellow roses and white feathered carnations were in her bouquet.

Maid of honor Miss Judith Poole, bridesmaid Miss Lynn Cross and flower girl Wendy Clarke wore floor-length gowns of coral crystalette, made by the bride's mother. Coronets of the same material held their coral net veils. They carried bouquets of white chrysanthemums. Jewelry was pearl pendants, gifts of the bride.

Robert Gentry was best man for his brother, and guests were ushered by Don Lowe. Fred Clarke was ringbearer.

For travelling on a honeymoon trip motoring through the mainland, the bride chose a three-piece white wool suit and pink rosebuds en corsage.

The couple will live in Prince Rupert.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Surprise Your Family With Nutty Treats

By Penny Saver

This is the season for "chestnuts roasting on an open fire." It all sounds so romantic—a moonlit night, a blazing fire, the intermittent crunching of a succulent chestnut. Then there are the feeble cries from the not-so-romantic members of the household, "Can we go home now? I'm cold."

"We tried," you say as you pack the kids into the car, and begin the trek home. "What could we ever do with chestnuts anyway?"

The proprietor of a shop which carries canned whole chestnuts gave me some helpful suggestions. Next time that you roast a chicken or a turkey, liven up your stuffing with these tangy nuts. The outdoor man will really go for the woodsy flavor. A can of these chestnuts sells for 99 cents.

Chestnut glaces, preserved in a sugary syrup, are the prime ingredient of a very delectable dessert. Add a touch of vanilla, a mound of fluffy whipping cream topped with a dab of red jelly to add color, and there it is. This is a winter dessert, as it would be too rich in the summer. (Perhaps too rich for winter calorie-counters too.) However, a can of these prepared, mashed chestnuts sells for $2.15.

Another chestnut delight is a candied chestnut spread, which sells in this shop for 41 cents. Spread it on toast or tiny crackers when you have a "sweet tooth."

Other tempting ideas for quick desserts, or snack-time treats, are French biscuits. Some of the different kinds of these biscuits are small butter biscuits, and fatless biscuits to be eaten with wine. A package of these sells for 63 cents. Try them out on your neighbor next time she drops in for tea.

Is your throat getting dry just thinking about these delicious foods? Try something different. Imported, sparkling grape juice from Switzerland and Germany is available in this shop for $1.35 the bottle. A tart glass of English apple juice is enough to quench any thirst. A bottle of this juice sells for 50 cents.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Not in Stitches!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: First, let me say that I am a better-than-average seamstress. I don't sew to save money, because considering the type of fabrics I buy, and the time I put into my work, I actually spend more on my clothes than I would pay to get ready-made clothes. I sew to get exactly what I want when I want it, and I get a better fit, too. But my problem is a certain woman in this town who makes me feel that there is a "stigma" attached to "home-made" clothes. Whenever I see her, which is often, she makes remarks like, "I can tell you didn't buy THAT!" and, "You sew so well it's hard to tell when you are wearing something store-bought or home-made." She pretends she's complimenting me, but the way she says it, I know it's a dig. Once I wore a new $35 hat and she said, "Don't tell me you make HATS, too?" I never enjoyed wearing the hat after that. How can I fight this situation?

LOVES TO SEW.

DEAR LOVES: Not with needles. Accept her remarks with grace and keep your composure. When she sees that you are not coming apart at the seams, she'll lay off.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a woman who lost her husband a few months ago and is raising her three children, ages 2, 4 and 6, to believe that their Daddy is an "angel" up in heaven and is looking down watching everything they do? She has pictures of her dead husband all over the place and when the kids pass the pictures, they say, "Hi, Daddy!" Honestly, I think someone should tell that young mother to tell these kids the truth about their father because, when they find out their mother has been lying to them, they'll never believe another word she says. If you put this in the newspaper, it might help her.

FRIENDLY NEIGHBOR.

DEAR NEIGHBOR: I see no reason to disturb the children's present beliefs. It's comforting, and apparently has satisfied their childish curiosity for the moment. While the mother isn't able to prove her theory, neither is anyone able to disprove it. So if the mother is happy, and the children are satisfied, what's the harm?

DEAR ABBY: My son is a fine young man, but when he writes to me he never addresses me as "Mother"—he just writes, "Hey!" Should I tell him in my next letter that I do not like this type of salutation? Or should I remain silent and accept it as a result of my failure as a mother?

FAILURE.

DEAR "FAILURE": Write and tell the boy how you feel about his salutation, but don't regard it as an indication that you have "failed" as a mother. It's not the salutation, but the sign-off that counts. If he ends with "love" and means it, consider yourself a success.

DEAR ABBY: If there's anything I can't stand, it's a woman who lies about her age. I wonder what happens to all the years that women subtract from their ages?

HOMO SAPIENS.

DEAR SAP: Don't worry, they're not lost. They add them to someone else's.

Troubled? Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Will the Laird allow his single malt whisky to marry?

The Laird's pride and joy is a rare malt whisky his family has been distilling for generations, deep in the Scottish highlands.
It's one of the 42 different whiskies that are expertly blended to create Ballantine's Scotch. Once blended, these whiskies are allowed to mingle, or "marry", in oaken casks for a period of years.
It's a natural process. And it's the only way to impart the mellow smoothness and authentic flavour that is Ballantine's.
Most whiskies are made this way. But with some, it's a marriage of convenience.
The Laird would have none of that.
His whisky, and the others that go into Ballantine's, are made for each other.
You might even call it a love match.
Your first sip of Ballantine's will tell you what marriage is all about.

WHY GROW OLD?

Where Do Safety Pins Go During Emergencies?

Lowman

Once I asked my readers this question, "What happens to safety pins, bobby pins and paper clips? Our house must have unsuspected crevices."

One reader wrote, "I am eagerly awaiting your column when you find out how to keep up with safety pins. The safety pins are SUPPOSED to be in a dish on my dresser, but just try to find one when I need one!"

Believe me, this reader and I have a great rapport and if I tried to tell her how to keep track of safety pins it would be like the blind trying to lead the blind.

To listen to us you might think that our families are held together with safety pins, paper clips, bobby pins and maybe a little glue. I am sure that this is not true of my reader's family and it is not true of mine. However, I insist that loads of energy is wasted in looking for the small articles we require for good grooming, the work we do and for emergencies—and when we need a safety pin it is a real emergency!

However, we have help from this reader. It is a wonderful suggestion. "We solved this problem and it has worked for 11 years. I went to a dime store and bought several small plastic refrigerator containers, the kind that will stack. In one we keep safety pins, in others bobby pins, rubber bands, thumb tacks, and straight pins. Other items are placed in the various containers, and the whole thing is placed in the bathroom closet. It takes a very little space and everyone knows where to find what they need."

Q. Although I have always heard about carbohydrates, I am ashamed to say I really don't know what a carbohydrate is. Is your carbohydrate gram counter still available?

A. All sugars and starches are carbohydrate foods. You may write for my Carbohydrate Gram Counter by sending 15 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to me in care of this newspaper.

Q. Two friends were arguing about how many calories a teaspoon of sugar has. What is correct?

A. One level teaspoon of granulated sugar has about 15 calories. A rounded or heaped teaspoon about 30.

9 IN MEMORIAM

COWARD — In loving memory of father, Robert Coward.

Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear;
Too far away for sight or speech,
But not too far for thought to reach.
Sweet to remember him who once was here
And who, though absent, is just as dear.

—Sadly missed, Eleanor and Ken.

COWARD — In loving memory of Robert Coward, husband and father, who passed away Nov. 19, 1964.

The pearly gates were opened,
A gentle voice said "Come."
And with farewells unspoken,
He gently entered home."

—Always remembered, loving wife Helen and son Rod.

Opening lead—♠ Q.

So was the opening lead of the spade queen which was ducked by both declarers. They had to win the next spade and struggle with a very tough contract. Each declarer made it but strangely enough, the lines of play were radically different.

One South lead a diamond to dummy's ace and returned a diamond toward his own hand. Then he held back his queen and watched West take his king. West cleared the spade suit but South had nine top tricks at his disposal.

The other South went right after hearts by leading ace and jack. East won with the queen and led a third spade.

Declarer won and entered dummy with the ace of diamonds in order to cash his three remaining hearts.

He discarded down to the queen-eight of diamonds and the ace-nine of clubs. West had to discard in back of him and finally came down to the king of diamonds, one spade and the king-ten of clubs.

South wasn't sure exactly which four cards West held since West had false-carded with the ten of clubs in order to hang on to the king-deuce, but East had thrown away his last spade so that West was marked with one spade only. Eventually, South read the club false-card and played a diamond, whereupon West could take one spade and one diamond only.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

CHANNEL CHIT CHAT: NBC-TV's ratings department claim that the network's coverage of Pope Paul's visit to the United States "was seen in more homes than any other program in TV history"—29,480,000 is their claim. They also made some other boasts which are rather difficult to believe.

They list the next four most-watched television broadcasts of all time, following the Pope Paul visit, like this: NBC-TV's 1964 election coverage . . . the same network's 1960 election returns reporting . . . the fourth and final game of the 1963 World Series, the Sunday contest in which Sandy Koufax of Los Angeles beat the Yankees, and CBS-TV's 1964 showing of the Miss America pageant.

Of course, as one source pointed out, the ratings experts probably were referring only to scheduled programs, for it seems inconceivable that there could have been anything more watched in TV's history than the coverage of President's Kennedy's assassination and its aftermath . . . Canadian newsmen are prominent on all three U.S. networks—Peter Jennings, Baden Langdon and Barrie Dunsmore with ABC-TV, Elie Abel with NBC and Michael Keating with CBS.

The Smothers Brothers have had to hire a couple of girls to handle their TV fan mail, running at about 3,000 letters a week . . . Next week's Frank Sinatra NBC special was scripted by Toronto's Frank Peppiatt and John Aylesworth . . . Rumors are flying in CBS-TV that Garry Moore will return in January with an hour-long musical comedy series. It would be a good move.

ABC-TV has announced cancellation of O.K. Crackerby as of mid-January. The Burl Ives comedy series will be replaced by the Double Life of Henry Phyfe, starring Red Buttons . . . Robert Goulet as a double agent, replaces Gidget Wednesday nights at 8:30 . . . Andy Griffith has decided to continue his high-rated CBS-TV series next season.

Film footage of Toronto was included in the pilot for a CBS-TV project entitled Nightwatch. The series would be shot entirely at night. Cleveland, Chicago, Detroit and Milwaukee are other cities included in the pilot film . . . Lucille Ball and Zero Mostel have been set as guest stars on Carol Burnett's CBS-TV hour color special next February.

Hanna-Barbera Productions will produce a "Laurel and Hardy" television series for Wolper Productions, which acquired TV rights. David Wolper said work on 156 five-minute cartoons will begin soon, on a budget of over $2 million. It will be filmed in color.

Jury Rules Driving 'Erratic'

A Victoria coroner's jury found Thursday night that Barry John Morrison, 25, of Nanaimo, died as a result of "dangerous and erratic" driving.

Mr. Morrison died in Royal Jubilee Hospital, Oct. 18 of acute confluent bronchial pheumonia and cerebral hemorrhage after he was injured in a traffic accident on the Trans-Canada Highway near Cobble Hill.

He was the driver of a car which collided with another car driven by Malcolm Quaite, 481 Boleskine, at about 5:15 p.m., Oct. 9.

Also injured in the accident were Ross Gillespie of Nanaimo, a passenger in Mr. Morrison's car, and Mr. and Mrs. Quaite and one of their three children, all passengers in the Quaite's car.

Mr. Quaite said he was on his way home when he heard the squeal of brakes and saw ahead of him a car which was "fishtailing" along the road.

"I braked, but I didn't come to a full stop," he testified. "I just slowed to about 15 miles an hour. I pulled over until I was almost completely on the road shoulder.

"I lost sight of him for a moment, and then I saw the car coming towards me sideways."

William Lees of Victoria, Melvin Wills and Norman Beirnes of Wellington, and Andrew Easton of Ladysmith, all testified that Mr. Morrison was driving his car in an erratic manner.

NEAL TRIAL

Court Rules Involuntary Manslaughter

INDIO, Calif. (AP)—Former actor Tom Neal, one-time Hollywood hero in low-budget movies, was convicted Thursday night of involuntary manslaughter in the shooting of his estranged third wife.

Neal's conviction carries a possible sentence of up to 10 years in prison. It also is possible he could serve a minimum sentence in Riverside County Jail and be released in a year.

Judge Hilton McCabe referred the case to the probation department for an investigation and sentence recommendation to be returned Dec. 7. The court is not required to follow the recommendation.

During the four-week trial, the prosecution charged that Neal shot his estranged wife in the head while she slept.

But Neal, 51, contended tearfully that Gail Neal, 29, was shot accidentally last April 1 after an attempt at reconciliation.

The prosecution built much of its case on the testimony of two witnesses—close friends of Neal.

James Willet said Neal came to his restaurant the night of April 1 and told him: "I shot her. She was napping."

Robert L. Balzer, a one-time Buddhist monk and Willet's partner, testified Neal told him the same thing.

Mrs. Neal had sued for divorce not long before her death. Neal's second wife, Patricia, died in 1958. Neal has an eight-year-old son by her.

B.C. Couple Killed In Oregon Car Crash

ASHLAND, Ore. (CP)—Mrs. Edith Dunn, 68, of Vancouver, B.C., died in hospital Thursday, five hours after being injured in a car crash five miles east of here that took the life of her husband.

John Henry Dunn, 68, died instantly when his car smashed into the back of a parked semi-trailer truck. The driver of the parked vehicle had placed warning flares.

Three other Vancouver persons were taken to hospital—Eleanor Gordon, 67; Francis Lucille Water, 49, and David Muir, 79.

RCAF Pilot Killed In Trainer Crash

METZ, France (Reuters) — The wreckage of a missing RCAF T-33 jet trainer was found today in the forest southeast of Metz, its pilot's body lying nearby.

RCAF headquarters here said the second member of the crew, FO G. D. Jensen, 24, of Timmins, Ont., parachuted to safety.

The pilot's name was not disclosed.

Sale of Equipment Denied by Accused

Two men on trial for obtaining photographic equipment from Victoria firms at the expense of the Royal Canadian Navy denied selling the equipment, it was stated in Victoria County Court Thursday.

The men—Lieut. Eric Haywood of Victoria and Charles Whyte of Sidney—are charged with four counts of fraud and one of theft, relating to the equipment.

Corporal Walter Semenoff of the RCMP testified at the 10th day of the trial that he questioned Lieut. Haywood on Nov. 30 last and asked him if he knew of supplies from the photographic section at HMCS Naden being sold downtown.

"Definitely not," he replied.

Witness said the two men admitted they knew of the loaning of naval photographic supplies to downtown studios, but denied selling any.

NOT OFTEN

Lieut. Haywood told him he authorized the loaning of supplies but not very often. Charles Whyte said: "I have knowledge of them (the studios) borrowing items."

Mr. Whyte was questioned about an enlarger the two men had bought from Saanich police, which is the subject of one of the fraud charges.

Corporal Semenoff said Mr. Whyte told him they had obtained the enlarger for use by the navy's hobby club. In return the police department was given $75 worth of photographic material in lieu of cash.

Mr. Whyte said it had been passed on to another dockyard employee, but had not been sold to him.

Later Corporal Semenoff said he questioned the two accused concerning a still camera and a movie camera they are charged with obtaining for their own use at the navy's expense.

Lieut. Haywood said he obtained the still camera in an exchange deal with Whyte. Mr. Whyte said he could not remember buying the camera at Victoria Photo Supply. He added: "I am not guilty. I have only been doing as I am told."

Crown prosecutor Kenneth Murphy said the Crown would conclude its case today—the 11th day of the trial.

Gyros Give $400 To Athletic Club

DUNCAN — The Gyro Club here, continuing its support of local athletics, has donated $400 to the revived Cowichan Athletic Club.

Duncan Gyros two years ago sponsored construction of a cinder track at Cowichan Senior High.

Gyro Dennis Hogan (also chairman of North Cowichan Recreation Commission) said Thursday the club had plans to erect bleachers at Cowichan High next spring.

Smart girl. Dodd's Pills stimulate the kidneys to help relieve the condition causing the backache and tired feeling. Soon she felt better—rested better. Answer to Previous Puzzle

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to John Snell, age 9, of Douglass, Kan., for his question:

What is a truffle?

It is a plant, but it has no pretty green leaves. In fact, the truffle is not at all a pretty plant. You might say it is shy, for it never pokes its head above the ground. It is very good to eat, and people say that it tastes better than almost anyhing in the world.

The truffle is a timid cousin of the tasty mushroom. It spends all its life hidden in the ground from people and pigs, bunnies and goats and many other animals that want to eat it. The truffle tastes better than the mushroom, and has a few extra smells and flavors that are not in any other food. Master cooks slice it thin and use the tiny pieces to flavor gravies and meat dishes.

Master cooks go to a lot of trouble to capture a truffle, for it is very hard to find. It is a rare plant, and all of it is buried in the soil. So far as we know it does not grow in the Americas. The people who search for it often find it in certain woodsy parts of France and Germany.

They search for it in rich, chalky soil around the roots of oak and ash trees. As a rule, a person needs help to find a truffle. He needs a nose that is sharper than a human nose to smell out the hidden treasure. In truffle country, people use trained dogs, pigs or even goats to help in the search. The animal is held on a string and coaxed to sniff around the soil.

Lives in Loamy Soil

The trained truffle hunter suddenly gets excited and starts to paw the ground. He wants to eat the buried truffle, but his master pulls him away and carefully digs up the tasty treasure for himself. The animal is rewarded with a scrap of some other favorite food.

The shy truffle is a round ball, perhaps as big as an orange. It may be much smaller, but it is worth taking even if it is no bigger than a pea. The soft ball may be pasty white or dingy grey, smudgy brown or sooty black. Its skin may be as smooth as that of a mushroom, but it is usually covered with bumpy warts. The truffle is not a tempting sight, but its flavor of meaty mushroom is enough to make your mouth water.

The truffle is a fungus plant, and its cousins are the mushrooms and the toadstools. It has no greenery to make its own food from air, water and sunlight as most plants do. For this reason it must live in very rich and loamy soil where there is plenty of food from decaying leaves. Rotting logs and tree roots also provide the ready-made plant food a truffle needs.

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Jill Tasker, age nine, of Rockford, Ill., for her question:

How did the state of Illinois get its name?

The Prairie State was once populated with Indians of the Illiniwek tribe. They also were known as the Illini. In their language, their Indian name meant the men. Perhaps they thought they were more manly than the Indians of other tribes.

Early settlers from France reached the rich Prairie State and met the Indians who hunted there, but the French could not pronounce the Indians' tribal name. They did the best they could and called them the Illinois. Later, the Indian name, with the French touch, became the name of the state.

New York Cavalcade

By Louis Sobol

NEW YORK—It wasn't exactly one of those occasional boxing matches at Madison Square Garden, but something of a battle went on between members of Nat Mager's staff handling the National Arts and Antiques Festival at the big arena. Whether or not a controversial Salvador Dali oil should be exhibited—a sizzling painting of a nude gal and nude lad. Some thought the publicity that the bold picture would tug would be priceless—others were offended and aghast. Mager, himself, decided finally to let the picture hang until he thought it over. But the following morning, just before the press opening, the decision was made for him. Garden officials had swept it off the wall in the wee hours of the morn!

* * *

Their close friends are dismayed to learn that Bess Meyerson, beautiful TV panelist and former Miss America, and her husband, attorney Arnold Grant, are living apart and hope they'll get together again in short order—for this was presumed to be one of the truly happy couples in our town . . . Eighty-year-old Harry Hershfield climbed down 39 floors from his midtown office to keep an appointment during the recent blackout—and has been bedded ever since, under doctor's care

Sinatra is getting married! Oh, don't hold the presses—it's Frank's cousin, Richard, who will march to the altar with Linda Marsh, the Ophelia in Richard Burton's "Hamlet"—during the Christmas holidays . . . I don't know how that top film producer, Joe Pasternak, and his wife, the former Broadway beauty Dorothy Darrell, feel about it, but their 20-year-old son, Jeff, who weighs slightly under 105 pounds, has decided to become a jockey. He will start as an apprentice on the California tracks.

Mayor-elect John Lindsay evidently expects to give up none of his extra-curricular activities. For instance, he has just signed up for the renewal of his locker-membership at the Rockefeller Centre Promenade Ice Skating Rink! . . . Charles Chaplin's and Oona O'Neill's 20-year-old beatnik son, Michael, evidently is a reformed character. Has shaved his beard, wears conservative clothes and now takes his duties in a British publishing house seriously.

That's sad news—the unexpected death of dancer Tony DeMarco. We had been friends for more than three decades—and I can still recall the occasions when he'd phone and ask us up for a spaghetti dinner at his apartment atop the Capitol Theatre building (it had formerly been occupied by Major Edward Bowes)—a dinner he'd prepare himself. He was an expert cook; he was always a delightful host. For a dancer, he was an astute businessman. One of his deals—he was part-owner of the Beverly Hills Hotel—netted him some $750,000. Other realty deals made him a millionaire. To his lovely Sally, who was his final dancing partner, our condolences.

Speed-Up Approved In Color Telecasts

OTTAWA (CP)—The way has been opened for speedy processing of applications by television stations to start broadcasting in color by mid-1966.

But the Board of Broadcast Governors, announcing the road-clearing Thursday, added a big proviso:

Conversion to color should not be done at the expense of extending signals to unserved areas or of providing second service to areas where only one channel is seen.

The BBG announced it will waive the usual public hearing for color TV applications where neither of these conditions is involved. Such applications would simply be passed to the BBG from the transport department after a technical check, be given a BBG recommendation without a public hearing and be sent back.

AVOID DELAY

This would avoid delaying all applications until the next public hearing of the board, set for Feb. 1.

Waiting until then wouldn't give interested stations much time to get set up for the July 1 starting date for experimental colorcasting.

The formal start for color TV in Canada is Jan. 1, 1967. But the government has announced that a test period will start July 1 with stations allowed experimental colorcasts overnight after regular broadcasting hours.

REGULAR HOURS

A final polishing-up period begins Oct. 1 for color transmissions during regular hours to iron out any remaining kinks.

But the BBG said it would consider public hearings for applications where there are considerations about second service for extension of service.

The view is that stations wishing to add to their service by going into color "should be permitted to make the expenditures they consider appropriate for this purpose," the BBG said.

QUEEN ADDS PERSONAL HONOR

U.K. Votes Support for Gibbs

LONDON (AP)—British leaders in an unprecented demonstration of political unity joined in support of Rhodesian Governor Sir Humphrey Gibbs today after the Queen had conferred high honor of her personal representative in the breakaway colony.

The Queen's gesture brought a degree of royal involvement in a burning political issue. It amounted to a personal repudiation of the rebel colony's Prime Minister Ian Smith, who has insisted that he and his cabinet are loyal to the Crown.

The Queen acted by conferring on Sir Humphrey, the 63 - year - old Rhodesian who Smith regards as having no official position, a knighthood of the Royal Victorian Order.

This order is unique among British honors in that it is awarded for personal service to the monarchy and is in the gift of the monarch alone. Other British honors are awarded by the monarch on the advice of the government.

Immediately after the award had been announced, the leaders of the two opposition parties joined Prime Minister Wilson in signing a House of Commons motion expressing admiration for "the dignified and courageous stand taken by Sir Humphrey Gibbs, the governor of Rhodesia, in face of illegal attempts to drive him from office.

EXPECT SIGNING

This motion was framed at Wilson's suggestion. The great majority of the other Commons members were expected to sign it today as a demonstration of opposition against Smith's seizure of independence eight days ago.

This motion, too, was without precedent in the memory of veteran Commons members. Normally, the rival party leaders join in signing motions only for formal occasions, such as expressions of sympathy on the death of a statesman.

Sir Humphrey, himself a Rhodesian, has stayed on in Government House in Salisbury, the Rhodesian capital, in line with the British view that he now is the only legal authority there.

British policy is intended, through stringent sanctions and political pressure, to bring about a situation in which the breakaway cabinet splits up. Then the governor could appoint what the British would regard as a legitimate administration.

The nearest known case of royal involvement in a political issue goes back before the First World War when Ireland was struggling for independence.

King George V repeatedly made clear to ministers that he was basically on the side of the Irish home rulers.

ACTS PUBLICLY

His attitude became known only years later when the detailed history of the Irish struggle was written. This time his granddaughter has acted publicly.

Even before the award to Sir Humphrey, the Queen's position in the Rhodesian issue had become a matter for political argument.

A group of right wing Conservative members of the Commons had signed a motion attacking Wilson for suggesting in a speech last Monday that the Queen personally approved action against the Rhodesian rebels.

This motion was in any event unlikely for technical reasons to come to debate. The steam in it evaporated with the Queen's own demonstration of involvement and Conservative Leader Edward Heath's demonstration of unity with Wilson.

Sentence Suspended For Theft

Robert Montgomery, 4957 Cordova Bay Road, was given a one year suspended sentence when he appeared in Magistrate's court Wednesday after pleading guilty to theft.

Montgomery admitted stealing drill bits worth $73.95 from Woodward's Store Oct. 30.

A condition of the sentence was that he continue psychiatric treatment and he was also required to sign a $250 bond to be of good behaviour.

Vandal Warning

Homeowners in the Mount Tolmie area have been warned by Saanich police to be on the lookout for vandals.

The warning was issued today after reports of smashed floodlights in Mount Tolmie Park.

Police said Sunday seems to be the favorite night for vandals in the area to strike.

U.S. SEALIFT FREES ANOTHER 186 CUBANS

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI)—Two U.S. chartered boats ferried 186 Cuban refugees to freedom today, including the former head of Cuba's Cinema Photographers Federation.

About 1,100 Cubans were still awaiting evacuation from the Cuban port of Matanzas.

Diago Fontela, 42, former leader of the powerful Cuban cameramen's organization, said he had been in and out of political prisons in Cuba on charges growing out of disagreement with the Fidel Castro government over propaganda films.

HEAVY PENALTIES

Fines Possible If Strike Called

VANCOUVER (CP) — Union leaders preparing for a 48-hour general work stoppage in British Columbia are doing so in the knowledge that the cost may be high.

Labor legislation in B.C. provides stiff penalties for illegal strikes or violations of collective agreements.

Two cabinet ministers have said they consider the planned work stoppage would be illegal, a general strike, and in violation of contracts between unions and management.

ROOT DISPUTE

Labor sources say they are not sure of their legal ground, but that won't hold them back.

Pat O'Neal, secretary-treasurer of the B.C. Federation of Labor, admitted in an interview: "We haven't had time to talk to lawyers."

The federation was going ahead with plans for the work stoppage at midnight Nov. 24, even as the chief provincial conciliation officer worked on a settlement formula for the root dispute, the strike against two petroleum companies.

The Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers' Union (CLC) is on strike against all B.C. plants of British American Oil Co., one plant of Imperial Oil Co., and is locked out at a Pacific Petroleums Ltd. plant.

Unless a settlement is reached beforehand, the OCAW will extend the strike to all other plants and companies at midnight Nov. 24.

SIMILAR PERIOD

The federation has asked all affiliated unions to refuse to handle petroleum products for 48 hours from the start of the province-wide oil strike, or to withdraw their services for a similar period if they do not handle such products.

So far, the conciliator has held exploratory meetings with labor spokesmen and oil company officials separately, attempting to define their positions.

The OCAW has scaled its wage demand down to a 50-cent increase on the basic wage of $2.75 an hour. But labor spokesmen say the whole union movement is vitally concerned with the OCAW's demands for job protection in the face of automation. Job security, not wages, they say, is the key point.

PENALTIES LISTED

Under the Labor Relations Act in this province, unions can be fined $125 a day for calling or authorizing a strike contrary to the provisions of the act.

Union leaders guilty of the same offence can be fined $50 a day.

Also a factor is the Trade Unions Act, known in B.C. as Bill 43 and denounced universally in the union movement.

Unions which have declared themselves in support of the work stoppage include the 6,000-member B.C. Hydro Employees' Association, the International Woodworkers of America, the Pulp and Sulphite Workers, the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union, the Civic Outside Workers Union, the Postal Employees' Association and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

Man Fined For False Pretences

A man who wrote a cheque on an account with 18 cents in it to pay a $15 car repair bill was fined $75 in central court Thursday.

John Martin Knowles, 930 Grilse, Brentwood, was convicted on a false pretences charge.

He wrote the cheque, payable to Admirals Road Home Service, Aug. 9. On that date there was 18 cents in his account.

Mr. Knowles said he had another account at the bank where the cheque was drawn.

But he admitted under cross-examination that account only had 33 cents in it the day he wrote the cheque.

Bank accountant Charles O'Brien told the court his bank had no authority to transfer money between Mr. Knowles' accounts, anyway.

Mr. Knowles told the court he had subsequently paid for his car repair in cash.

Guilty Plea To Having Housebreak Tools

Sandor Domonics, no fixed address, in city court Thursday pleaded guilty to being in possession of housebreaking tools.

He was picked up by police at 1 a.m. that day proceeding north on Cook Street on foot near North Park Street.

Court was told he had a bricklayer's hammer, a screwdriver and a pair of gloves in his possession.

Domonics was remanded one week for pre-sentence report and sentence.

By The Canadian Press

Weather conditions began returning to more seasonal norms across Canada today.

Montreal and Ottawa area residents started digging themselves clear of snowdrifts piled up after two days of wind-whipped storms. Heavy rains that disrupted ferry service to Newfoundland and train traffic in Nova Scotia gave way to clearer skies and light snow on the Atlantic Coast.

Typical mid - November conditions continued on the Prairies where temperatures hovered just above zero and light snowflurries spread over Alberta and into Saskatchewan.

Cloud and rain covered the West Coast and some snow fell in the British Columbia interior Thursday night but the temperature in Vancouver was in the 55-to-60-degree range.

In the Atlantic provinces, colder air, cloud and light snows moved in after high winds and heavy rain Thursday battered the west coast of Newfoundland, halting passenger and freight ferry service. At least five trains were hours behind schedule in Nova Scotia. Temperatures today rose to the high 20s and mi-d30s.

In Montreal, workers were clearing streets clogged with 10 inches of snow. The snow, driven by 40-mile-an-hour winds had disrupted shipping in the St. Lawrence Seaway between Beauharnois and Montreal. But brighter conditions are expected for the next few days.

Sunny skies returned to the Ottawa area following snow and sleet storms that ripped down power lines, blocked roads and left cars in ditches.

In the rest of Ontario, there was continuation of cool weather today with considerable cloudiness and a few snowflurries. Temperatures stayed around the high 20s and 30s.

Light snow and winds and temperatures ranging from five below to 20 remained in Manitoba.

Late Thursday night, snow was falling in Edmonton and spreading into western Saskatchewan. There was some fog and cloudiness in southern Alberta, with occasional light snowfalls today in both provinces. Below normal temperatures prevailed.

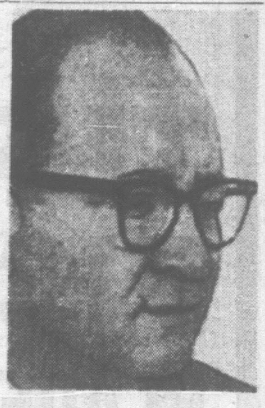
MOSCOW (Reuters)—Senator Mike Mansfield conferred today with Soviet Premier Kosygin, completing the U.S. Senate majority leader's discreet probe into current Russian policies.

Kosygin received the Montana Democrat and four other travelling senators in his Kremlin office. The Senators leave Saturday after a four-day visit.

Although U.S. officials have maintained unusual secrecy on why Mansfield has come to Moscow, it was generally believed he is talking to the Russians about a possible way out of the Viet Nam war.

Most diplomats here believed the visit is significant and could be "meaningful." But U.S. officials have been careful to say nothing to encourage speculation of this kind.

There have been persistent but unconfirmed reports North Vietnamese Premier Pham Van Dong made a secret visit to Moscow and Peking during the last few weeks.



DENYING any knowledge of contracts and cheques alleged to have been forged in the name of a Quebec cabinet minister, Moise Darabaner today took the stand in his own defence during his trial on charges of fraud and conspiracy to fraud a Quebec firm of $115,000. He was discharged as a commissioner of Quebec Superior Court to face the charges.

Pearson Won't Be Pressed

OTTAWA (CP) — The prime minister's office decided today to end the corridor scramblings and jostlings that almost invariably mark the quest for news after a cabinet meeting.

The second-floor corridor outside the cabinet room in Parliament's East Block is to be "off limits" to reporters just before, during and after cabinet meetings.

Instead, reporters are to wait in a special press room for either the prime minister or a spokesman to appear after such meetings to make statements and answer questions.

The step apparently was sparked by a noisy corridor conclave following the first cabinet meeting after the Nov. 8 election.

Steps to end the scramble as reporters clustered around the prime minister or other cabinet figures had been under consideration for two years, the announcement added.

But it seemed evident that the corridor tangle outside the Nov. 10 post-election cabinet meeting that brought some testy comments from Prime Minister Pearson played a part in the move.

'PROCEEDING IN FACE OF FURORE'

Conciliation Officer Meets Oil Workers

By ROGER STONEBANKS
Times Labor Reporter

Mediation talks resumed today between oil workers and chief government conciliation officer Reg Clements.

An initial meeting between the two sides was held Wednesday followed by a meeting between Mr. Clements and oil companies Thursday.

The chances of averting a two-day general work stoppage in B.C. next week depend on the outcome of these talks.

Major unions are supporting a call from the 110,000-member B.C. Federation of Labor for a work stoppage next Thursday and Friday if the oil workers' dispute is not settled by midnight Wednesday.

'NORMAL WAY'

Mr. Clements has declined to comment on progress of the talks. He would only say: "The talks are on and I am just proceeding in a normal way and as quietly as possible in face of all the furore."

Labor department sources in Vancouver, where the talks are taking place, said it is unlikely there will be direct company-union bargaining today.

The Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers' Union already is on strike against British-American and Imperial Oil's refinery at Port Moody. Pacific Petroleums has locked out employees at its Taylor, B.C., refinery.

The union has set a strike deadline of next Wednesday night for an extension of the strike to all other petroleum companies. This is almost the last day the union can legally strike the companies under the Labor Relations Act.

KEY ISSUES

Key issues in the dispute concern job security. The union, representing 600 men in B.C., wants job retraining within the company in the face of growing automation plus six months' notification of new processes

In two other developments today, British-American Oil Company accused union leaders of irresponsibility towards oil workers and the public by "publicizing non-existent issues and in threatening the economy with a general strike."

And Labor Minister Leslie Peterson decried speculation in public about possible methods of settling the oil dispute as a hindrance to mediation efforts

STATEMENT

A statement from B-A, struck two months ago in B.C., the Prairies and Ontario, said after five months of negotiations the issues were put to a conciliation board whose recommendations were rejected by the union.

"The union has also rejected B-A's subsequent offers," the statement continued. "The last offer was substantially better than settlements being accepted in Canadian industry generally.

Judges Refuse To Obey Smith

SALISBURY (CP) — Chief Justice Sir Hugh Beadle indicated today there was some substance to a press report that Rhodesia's judges had refused to take an oath of allegiance to Prime Minister Ian Smith's rebel government.

Beadle declined to confirm the report in the Johannesburg, South Africa, Rand Daily Mail. But he also did not deny it, saying instead that no authority had been given for publication of the report that the nine judges had refused to sign the new oath required by Smith's government after it declared independence from Britain last week.

Rhodesia's judges are appointed by the Crown, not by the government of the colony.

The Rand Daily Mail said in a dispatch from its Salisbury correspondent that Rhodesia's judges had unanimously decided to stand firmly behind the

GOVERNOR THREATENED

SALISBURY (AP) — Prime Minister Ian Smith's rebel Rhodesian government restored a police guard to Government House today after it was disclosed Sir Humphrey Gibbs, British-appointed governor deposed by Smith, had received four threatening letters.

Prime Minister Smith himself disclosed the threats in a radio broadcast. At least one of the writers, it was learned, threatened to come to Salisbury and shoot the governor.

Rhodesian Policy Protested

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — African diplomats boycotted a reception for Princess Margaret at the United Nations today to protest the British government's policy toward the breakaway white - minority government of Rhodesia.

Heads of all UN General Assembly delegations and permanent UN missions of Commonwealth countries were invited to the reception, but none from Africa showed up.

One African diplomat told a reporter:

"I know definitely that it was a boycott."

In UN Security Council debate, Africans generally have accused Britain of not acting with firmness either to prevent Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith from declaring independence from Britain or to end his rebellion and install Negro majority rule in Rhodesia.

The royal party was welcomed by several rounds of applause as it passed through the delegates' entrance. Pierre de Meulemeester of France, chief of protocol, welcomed the party on behalf of UN Secretary-General U Thant.

Princess Margaret and her husband arrived under police escort after a visit to the Empire State Building. A crowd of United Nations employees and officials gathered inside and outside the entrance to the building.

The royal party was escorted immediately to the second floor where it was welcomed by Lord Caradon, Britain's permanent representative to the United Nations. The party then proceeded to a reception in the Indonesian Lounge where there were between 50 and 60 guests, including the heads of the Commonwealth delegations to the UN.

The princess looked beautiful in her pink, diagonal-weave wool coat with detailed top stitch. She wore a pink silk dress with stitched inset on the bodice. A multi-colored lace wool turban, grey handbag, shoes and gloves completed the ensemble.

SAW THANT

After the brief reception, Princess Margaret and Lord Snowdon were escorted to the 38th-floor apartment of Thant for a visit. From there the party proceeded to the Dag Hammarskjold Memorial Library for a lunch.

Hostess at the luncheon was Mrs. Tin Myint U, daughter of the secretary-general. About 50 persons were invited.

The remainder of the program at the UN involved a tour of committee rooms and a brief visit to the General Assembly hall where the royal party was to attend the opening of the afternoon session.

Police said security at the Empire State Building was the heaviest since Cuban Premier Fidel Castro visited the 102-storey skyscraper in 1959. Some 30 uniformed policemen were assigned to the royal couple's route between street level and the building observatory.

ROUSING START GIVEN TO TIMES-USC FUND

$7.47 . . . Reminder of Suffering Children

By CANDIDE TEMPLE

A rousing start was given the Children of Asia fund Thursday night at its opening meeting in St. Andrew's Kirk Hall.

Contributions totalling more than $650 were received—giving the annual Times-sponsored Christmas campaign a warm send-off.

"A great success," said Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, of the meeting.

The energetic, red-haired doctor, executive-director of the Unitarian Service Committee which distributes the aid, spoke of the 20 years of work the USC has done with needy persons around the world.

Special contributions to the fund included a $100 cheque from the Victoria Daily Times, and $7.47 in coppers and silver presented in a tin by two young boys.

Particularly pleased with their gift, Dr. Hitschmanova recalled how one of the boys "used to sit on his mother's lap" at USC meetings every year when Dr. Hitschmanova came to speak.

The boys, now aged 10 and 13, who wanted to remain anonymous, collected the money by dropping a few coins in the tin before meals to remind them of hungry children in other lands.

Other "special guests" at the meeting, attended by more than 100 persons, were two elderly ladies who had travelled from Salt Spring Island for the event.

Mrs. S. A. Thompson and Mrs. E. Adams, residents of Fernwood on the Island, founded a group called the North End Neighbours three years ago to contribute to the USC fund.

Sweaters, blankets, shirts, pants and other garments similar to those made by the two ladies were on display at the meeting.

"We're wishing we had brought some over with us ourselves," said Mrs. Adams. "We really have some lovely stuff."

Starting in a small way with only the two of them working for the fund, they were soon "avalanched with clothing and offers of help."

Last year Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Adams were presented with USC pins for outstanding work for the fund, when Dr. Hitschmanova made her annual appearance in Victoria.

The two workers, who "don't feel they do any more than we should," say they have enjoyed every minute of it.

"It gets to be sort of a disease," said Mrs. Thompson. "If I'm not patching or mending something I feel lost."

Dr. Hitschmanova, introduced by Times' editor Brian Tobin, spoke of the 20 years of work done by the USC in far corners of the world.

Slides of the committee's progress and Dr. Hitschmanova's visits to the various projects in India, Korea, Hong Kong and Europe were shown.

Contributions to the Children of Asia fund can be made by sending them care of The Victoria Daily Times.

A list of donors will be published daily.

VANCOUVER—NOON TODAY

THURSDAY

Atlantic Investors Back Shift

TORONTO (CP)—Senior noteholders of insolvent Atlantic Acceptance Corp., warned that the finance company's losses could run as much as $25,000,000 more than first expected, voted Thursday to support turning its management over to a United States firm.

The move to make General Acceptance Corp. of Allentown, Pa., interim manager is subject to approval by the courts.

At the same time the senior noteholders repeated their overwhelming support of a bid by GAC to buy part of Atlantic's assets. The GAC bid was first approved by them Sept. 17 and later won court approval, but last week subordinated noteholders were granted permission to appeal the court ruling.

The subordinated noteholders, with claims against Atlantic totalling $29,000,000, oppose the GAC takeover plan on grounds it would leave few if any assets to meet their demands after taking care of senior noteholders, with claims of $103,000,000.

HAVE FIRST CALL

Senior noteholders normally have first call on any assets of any insolvent company.

The senior noteholders' fresh support for the GAC purchase plan came in the form of an overwhelming vote against a proposal by the subordinated noteholders to reorganize Atlantic, infuse fresh capital and management and try to put it on a profitable basis.

The noteholders' meeting was called by Montreal Trust Co., Atlantic's receiver and trustee, to consider possible moves made necessary by delays following the courtroom developments.

During an intermission some noteholders discussed openly for the first time the possibility of much sharper losses than had been expected last summer.

One senior noteholder said his company now would be happy to get 75 cents on the dollar, while another said there have been informal offerings of senior Atlantic notes around Toronto at 60 cents on the dollar.

'WHISTLING IN DARK'

J. G. Haxton of the Montreal Trust told the meeting he sees no reason to change his early estimate that Atlantic's assets should realize about $100,000,000 — but one noteholder said later he was "whistling in the dark."

The proposal to make GAC interim manager of Atlantic was presented by Walter Strothman, GAC vice-president.

He told the noteholders the action of the subordinated noteholders could delay implementation of GAC's purchase plan until next May or June — but his firm could not afford to stay around that long.

His proposal was for GAC to take over Atlantic's operations, "running it as we think it should be," and taking 10 per cent of the loans collected as a fee.

If the GAC purchase plan finally was approved by the courts, 75 per cent of the total fee would be returned to the trustee.

APPEARS BEST HOPE

Mr. Strothman said the management plan appeared the best hope of preventing a serious deterioration of Atlantic's staff. He estimated it would cost $1,800,000 in fees during the next six months—of which 75 per cent could be returnable—but proper management would assure maximum protection of Atlantic's assets.

Without that protection, Atlantic's losses could run to an additional $20,000,000 to $25,000,000, he said.

Donald H. Tetzlass, chairman of a committee of subordinated noteholders, appeared at the meeting briefly and read a short statement, then walked out.

He said Montreal Trust had not properly fulfilled its duty to the subordinated noteholders and promised to continue opposition to the GAC purchase plan before the courts.

Paris Ending Cold War With Market

By HAROLD KING

PARIS (Reuters) — The cold war between France and its European Common Market partners is drawing to a close, French government sources said today.

As part of the process, a meeting of foreign ministers of the six market countries is expected to take place in the second half of December to discuss the entire organization of the trade group.

And a summit meeting of the heads of government of the six seems likely in the new year. President de Gaulle is reported to favor such a meeting, which West German Chancellor Erhard has sought for two years.

France has boycotted the market since June 30, when negotiations for financing a common agricultural policy among the six broke down.

MUST BE CLARIFIED

Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville then made it clear the agricultural issue could no longer be treated alone. Political conditions for the conduct of the European economic community must be clarified first, he said.

France, desiring greater freedom of action in the market context, wants to avoid majority decisions on questions of declared vital national interest. It feels that each government should be free to determine when majority voting should not apply.

France has recently held bilateral talks with Italy, West Germany and Belgium and, says the diplomatic correspondent of the mass-circulation newspaper France-Soir, "there is no outstanding difficulty which cannot now be settled at a meeting of the foreign ministers."

The other market members are The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Mines, Steels Feel Decline

Mines were generally down at Vancouver and steels were lower in Toronto in today's trading. Wall Street was higher late this afternoon in moderate trading.

AT TORONTO steel stocks continued to show weakness in a generally soft and quiet mid-afternoon trading session.

Algoma slipped ⅜ to 30, Stelco and Slater ⅛ each to 26 and 14¾ and Hayes Steel 1¼ to 23. 23. Aluminium and Dominion Stores were also off ⅜ each to 30 and 25⅝ but Quebec Natural Gas swished ahead ⅜ to a record 13⅝ and MacMillan, Bloedel added ½ at 26¼.

Companies with interests in the Pine Point area of the Northwest Territories remained weaker with Central Patricia down 2 cents to 1.70, Conwest 10 cents to 7.60, Cominco ¼ to 50¼, CPR ¾ to 70 and Pine Point Mines 1 to 81½.

AT VANCOUVER two mining stocks hits 1965 highs in fairly active trade shortly before noon today but most issues were lower in price.

Norgold gained .01 to .17 on 74,500 shares and Slocan put on .75 on 94,500 shares.

Pyramid was off .25 to $16.25 on 10,300 shares and Dynasty dropped the same amount to $11.75. Northlodge dropped .10 to .35 and Croydon was off .04 to $1.36.

Continental Potash went down .07 to .50.

In the oils, Prosper declined .09 to .90 and Royal American gained .10 to $1.25.

AT NEW YORK the stock market continued higher late this afternoon. Trading was moderately active.

Volume for the day was estimated at 6,800,000 shares, compared with 7,040,000 Thursday.

Aircraft companies turned strong, providing leadership in a generally indecisive session. Boeing ran up more than 5 points while Douglas advanced more than a point. United Aircraft and General Dynamics were fractionally higher.

AT MONTREAL papers were up but most other sections moved fractoinally lower in quiet trading.

Industrial volume was 97,100 and mines and oils 680,900.

Utilities were lower with Interprovincial Pipe Line dropping ½ to 85 and Bell Telephone ¼ to 57½.

AT LONDON the stock market had a brighter look today although interest was again selective. There were several features in the industrial market but many of these were prompted by company news.

Gilt edged were quieter after Thursday's activity with prices mixed. Dollar stocks were mainly firm and the strength of the dollar premium helped them to offset Wall Street's easier overnight tone.

Scores Stake Claims Near Pyramid Find

HAY RIVER, N.W.T. (CP) — Staking fever has hit this community of 2,500 on the south shore of Great Slave Lake.

Scores of men are staking mining claims in a 60-mile by 30-mile area in the wake of announcements by Pyramid Mining Co. of Vancouver that drill samplings in the area showed evidence of zinc and lead deposits.

The staking area is near the Pine Point, N.W.T., lead and zinc mine of Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. of Canada Ltd.

Staking has been going on near the Cominco mine since late September on the basis of exploratory activity by a number of companies but it hit a peak after the Pyramid announcements.

Rudy Steiner, 39, a man with two years' schooling who has lived here for 21 years, has more than 40 men out staking for his general contracting company, Territorial Expeditors Ltd.

The men have driven 6,000 wooden stakes in the last two weeks marking Terrex or Trx on each one.

Steiner then sells the claims to mining companies for as much as $1,000 each.

"We don't know exactly what the claims are worth," he says. "We work on hunches. The buyers are the mining companies who have had men just to look around and pick up land.

"Each company has its own geologists and they all have their own theories about the geology of the area.

"Very few claims are sold outright. It might be a cash sale or shares in a company or both or something else."

THINK

"Thinking machines" and "giant Brains" do not really exist. But Computers do exist for the benefit of mankind. They are very real in the day-to-day world of business. They can take over and change many of our jobs simply because they can do some things better than we can. In fact, new uses are being found for computers every day. They have great speed accuracy and a tremendous memory. However, they lack the ability to think—they need some one to do this for them. THEY NEED SOMEONE BUT NOT JUST ANYONE. They need MEN and WOMEN with imagination and ingenuity. They need MEN and WOMEN able to analyse problems and perceive solutions. They need TRAINED PEOPLE able to convert information into a form they can take in and understand. In other words, the computer needs someone to converse with it; NOT JUST ANYONE, but MEN and WOMEN with APTITUDE and TRAINING. Perhaps "YOU CAN THINK YOUR WAY" to a real future in data processing. 9 IN MEMORIAM

COWARD — In loving memory of father, Robert Coward.

Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear;
Too far away for sight or speech,
But not too far for thought to reach.
Sweet to remember him who once was here
And who, though absent, is just as dear.

—Sadly missed, Eleanor and Ken.

COWARD — In loving memory of Robert Coward, husband and father, who passed away Nov. 19, 1964.

The pearly gates were opened,
A gentle voice said "Come."
And with farewells unspoken,
He gently entered home."

—Always remembered, loving wife Helen and son Rod.

Opening lead—♠Q.

So was the opening lead of the spade queen which was ducked by both declarers. They had to win the next spade and struggle with a very tough contract. Each declarer made it but strangely enough, the lines of play were radically different.

One South lead a diamond to dummy's ace and returned a diamond toward his own hand. Then he held back his queen and watched West take his king. West cleared the spade suit but South had nine top tricks at his disposal.

The other South went right after hearts by leading ace and jack. East won with the queen and led a third spade.

Declarer won and entered dummy with the ace of diamonds in order to cash his three remaining hearts.

He discarded down to the queen-eight of diamonds and the ace-nine of clubs. West had to discard in back of him and finally came down to the king of diamonds, one spade and the king-ten of clubs.

South wasn't sure exactly which four cards West held since West had false-carded with the ten of clubs in order to hang on to the king-deuce, but East had thrown away his last spade so that West was marked with one spade only. Eventually, South read the club false-card and played a diamond, whereupon West could take one spade and one diamond only.

HOSPITAL FACTS WANTED . . . . . . 'FROM THE HORSE'S MOUTH'

Council 'Stood Up' by Minister

By AB KENT
City Hall Reporter

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell Thursday stood up a special Victoria city council meeting expecting to hear him detail regional hospital financing.

Mayor R. B. Wilson and aldermen chided the minister for appearing to neglect a matter considered vital to Greater Victoria ratepayers and the district as a whole.

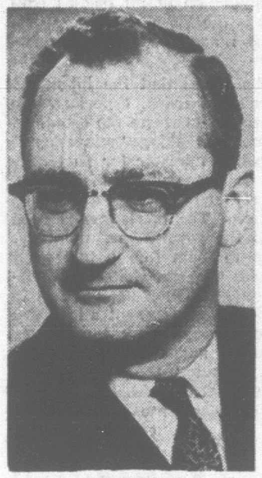
In Courtenay

But discussion was carried on with the minister's executive assistant, Ian Dodds, who said Mr. Campbell was unavoidably in Courtenay and had intended to be at the meeting.

Mr. Campbell had suggested earlier that the meeting be held in his office, Mayor Wilson said.

"The fact that the minister is not here is of great disappointment to the people of this area . . . who wanted to get the facts from the horse's mouth, "Mayor R. B. Wilson said.

WILSON
. . . disappointment



CAMPBELL
. . . sends assistant

He was backed up by Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, who walked out of a special council meeting Tuesday to underline the seriousness of proposed compulsory property tax for hospital construction.

"It's the minister who answers to the people. He's elected by the people," Ald. Edgelow said.

"This is a matter of policy. He should have made a point of being here."

The mayor said there is no no disagreement that the voluntary system of hospital financing is out of date.

No Quarrel

"There is no quarrel with the method or raising funds," Ald. A. W. Toone said.

But the proposal backed by the provincial government could place a heavy load on the shoulders of taxpayers, he said.

After open discussion, council have first readings to a bylaw permitting Victoria ratepayers to vote Dec. 11 on participation in a regional hospital district.

The bylaw contains a form of ballot that may still be amended, depending on claricatoin from Mr. Campbell.

Anxious

Aldermen are anxious to make clear that ratepayers in unorganized areas would be subject to the same basis of taxation as those in municipalities.

A simple majority of ballots will decide whether Victoria opts out or enters the proposed district for hospital purposes.

Three other functions of regional administration are agreed upon — a sewer survey, uniform fireworks control and regional parks.

Information

Council will make no stand on hospitals until it has all pertinent information.

EDGELOW
. . . matter of policy

According to a projection of Victoria district hospital planning council, whose members also attended city council session, $10,569,100 must be raised by the community for new hospital construction between 1967 and 1980.

Total capital costs will come to $26,035,000 including provincial and federal grants.

It is proposed that a maximum of two mills a year on local tax bills would finance the scheme.

"What would happen if two mills a year doesn't carry the load?" Mayor Wilson asked, suggesting the estimated costs are on the conservative side.

Leeway

Mr. Dodds said that was a pessimistic outlook and hypothetical.

"I think there is leeway in the financial structure to cover it."

Ald. Michael Griffin suggested local assessments would be raised to provide more revenue from the same mill rate

Ald. M. H. Mooney asked what would happen if one area opts out.

St. Joseph's Hospital assistant administrator Patrick Blewett said the feeling was that this would kill the district.

Ald. Griffin said the government would use an educational program to try to avoid this.

It would be "almost pressure" he said.

Annual revenue for the scheme would amount to $605,925, according to a schedule prepared from 1964 and 1965 figures for Mr. Dods.

They show the capital region assessment to be $302,952,841 and population to be 167,776.

Half the monies would be based on population and half on assessment.

Mill Rates

Victoria would raise $202,432 at a rate of 1.96 mills. The other areas would produce as follows:

Saanich $188,823 (2.18 mills); Oak Bay $72,571 (1.78 mills); Esquimalt $39,915 (2.64 mills); Central Saanich $13,003 (1.92 mills); Sidney $9,704 (1.87 mills); N. Saanich $13,617 1.66 mills); unorganized $65,860 (1.76 mills).

Oak Bay Coun. Mrs. Frances Elford was one of several observers at the meeting. She said Reeve Allan Cox agreed with her proposal that regional hospital financing should be delayed for consideration early next year.

Ratepayers are entitled to more details before a vote is called, she said.

"This would be an irrevocable step, a marriage without any hope of 'divorce,'" she said.

Hands Sewed Back On

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A 47-year-old, meat cutter was reported in satisfactory condition today after both his hands were sewed back on after being severed in an accident Thursday.

Joseph Weisz of nearby Hyattsville, Md., lost both hands when he triggered the starting mechanism of a meat chopping machine he was repairing.

Fellow workers immediately applied tourniquets to stop the bleeding and Weisz was rushed to the hospital in an ambulance. His severed hands were taken along in a paper bag.

Surgeons replaced the hands in an hours-long, delicate operation.

BLOODSHED CONTINUES IN KASHMIR

Death Notices Tell Real Story of Ceasefire

By CONRAD FINK

NEW DELHI (AP) — "Capt. Gautam Mubayi, son of S. N. Mubayi, was killed in action on the Kashmir front on the 3rd Nov., 1965."

Officially, a ceasefire prevails on the India-Pakistan front. But death notices like this one keep appearing as tragic proof that there is no peace.

Bloodshed has continued since the UN-sponsored ceasefire supposedly went into effect Sept. 23.

(An Indian spokesman claimed Thursday that Indian troops killed 30 Pakistani soldiers and captured eight in an engagement on the Rajsthan border between India and West Pakistan. The spokesman said three Indian soldiers were killed and four were wounded.)

UN observers on the front under the command of Canada's Maj. - Gen. Bruce Macdonald have been increased to more than 185 but they haven't been able to prevent jet fighter-bombers, tanks and heavy artillery from going into action.

Defence Minister Y. B. Chavan told Parliament 10 days ago that 262 Indians and 378 Pakistanis had been killed since the ceasefire along the 1,500 - mile truce line stretching from Kashmir southwest almost to the Arabian Sea.

Much post-truce fighting has been in the desert wastes of India's Rajasthan state and adjoining parts of Pakistan's Sind.

The most dangerous sectors are to the north—the so-called Lahore and Sialkot sectors.

Huge armored forces are poised behind front-line infantry units that skirmish almost continually along the truce line. Most UN observers are concentrated in this area.

DEPUTY minister of finance, Robert B. Bryce, was awarded the Vanier Medal Thursday. The medal is presented annually by the Canadian Institute of Public Administration to a distinguished public servant.

RHODESIAN CRISIS HELPS LABOR: POLL

Easterners Dig Out After Big Snowfall

By The Canadian Press

Weather conditions began returning to more seasonal norms across Canada today.

Montreal and Ottawa area residents started digging themselves clear of snowdrifts piled up after two days of wind-whipped storms. Heavy rains that disrupted ferry service to Newfoundland and train traffic in Nova Scotia gave way to clearer skies and light snow on the Atlantic Coast.

Typical mid - November conditions continued on the Prairies where temperatures hovered just above zero and light snowflurries spread over Alberta and into Saskatchewan.

Cloud and rain covered the West Coast and some snow fell in the British Columbia interior Thursday night but the temperature in Vancouver was in the 55-to-60-degree range.

In the Atlantic provinces, colder air, cloud and light snows moved in after high winds and heavy rain Thursday battered the west coast of Newfoundland, halting passenger and freight ferry service. At least five trains were hours behind schedule in Nova Scotia. Temperatures today rose to the high 20s and mi-d50s.

In Montreal, workers were clearing streets clogged with 10 inches of snow. The snow, driven by 40-mile-an-hour winds had disrupted shipping in the St. Lawrence Seaway between Beauharnois and Montreal. But brighter conditions are expected for the next few days.

Sunny skies returned to the Ottawa area following snow and sleet storms that ripped down power lines, blocked roads and left cars in ditches.

In the rest of Ontario, there was continuation of cool weather today with considerable cloudiness and a few snowflurries. Temperatures stayed around the high 20s and 30s.

Light snow and winds and temperatures ranging from five below to 20 remained in Manitoba.

Late Thursday night, snow was falling in Edmonton and spreading into western Saskatchewan. There was some fog and cloudiness in southern Alberta, with occasional light snowfalls today in both provinces. Below normal temperatures prevailed.

'PROCEEDING IN FACE OF FURORE'

Several forest industry spokesmen today expressed concern that a two-day general strike in B.C. next week might affect labor - management relations in the future.

T. N. Beaupre, chairman of B.C. Forest Products, said union leaders are playing an "extraordinary game of brinksmanship."

It would be "very disconcerting" if a work stoppage, violating hundreds of work contracts, foreshadowed a new pattern of labor action, he said.

By ROGER STONEBANKS
Times Labor Reporter

Mediation talks resumed today between oil workers and chief government conciliation officer Reg Clements.

An initial meeting between the two sides was held Wednesday followed by a meeting between Mr. Clements and oil companies Thursday.

The chances of averting a two-day general work stoppage in B.C. next week depend on the outcome of these talks.

Major unions are supporting a call from the 110,000-member B.C. Federation of Labour for a work stoppage next Thursday and Friday if the oil workers' dispute is not settled by midnight Wednesday.

'NORMAL WAY'

Mr. Clements has declined to comment on progress of the talks. He would only say: "The talks are on and I am just proceeding in a normal way and as quietly as possible in face of all the furore."

Labor department sources in Vancouver, where the talks are taking place, said it is unlikely there will be direct company-union bargaining today.

The Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers' Union already is on strike against British-American and Imperial Oil's refinery at Port Moody. Pacific Petroleums has locked out employees at its Taylor, B.C., refinery.

The union has set a strike deadline of next Wednesday night for an extension of the strike to all other petroleum companies. This is almost the last day the union can legally strike the companies under the Labor Relations Act.

Key issues in the dispute concern job security. The union, representing 600 men in B.C., wants job retraining within the company in the face of growing automation plus six months' notification of new processes

In two other developments today, British-American Oil Company accused union leaders of irresponsibility towards oil workers and the public by "publicizing non-existent issues and in threatening the economy with a general strike."

And Labor Minister Leslie Peterson decried speculation in public about possible methods of settling the oil dispute as a hindrance to mediation efforts

Judges Refuse To Obey Smith

SALISBURY (CP) — Chief Justice Sir Hugh Beadle indicated today there was some substance to a press report that Rhodesia's judges had refused to take an oath of allegiance to Prime Minister Ian Smith's rebel government.

Beadle declined to confirm the report in the Johannesburg, South Africa, Rand Daily Mail. But he also did not deny it, saying instead that no authority had been given for publication of the report that the nine judges had refused to sign the new oath required by Smith's government after it declared independence from Britain last week.

Rhodesia's judges are appointed by the Crown, not by the government of the colony.

The Rand Daily Mail said in a dispatch from its Salisbury correspondent that Rhodesia's judges had unanimously decided to stand firmly behind the

Rhodesian Policy Protested

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — African diplomats boycotted a reception for Princess Margaret at the United Nations today to protest the British government's policy toward the breakaway white - minority government of Rhodesia.

Heads of all UN General Assembly delegations and permanent UN missions of Commonwealth countries were invited to the reception, but none from Africa showed up.

One African diplomat told a reporter:

"I know definitely that it was a boycott."

In UN Security Council debate, Africans generally have accused Britain of not acting with firmness either to prevent Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith from declaring independence from Britain or to end his rebellion and install Negro majority rule in Rhodesia.

The royal party was welcomed by several rounds of applause as it passed through the delegates' entrance. Pierre de Meulemeester of France, chief of protocol, welcomed the party on behalf of UN Secretary-General U Thant.

Princess Margaret and her husband arrived under police escort after a visit to the Empire State Building. A crowd of United Nations employees and officials gathered inside and outside the entrance to the building.

The royal party was escorted immediately to the second floor where it was welcomed by Lord Caradon, Britain's permanent representative to the United Nations. The party then proceeded to a reception in the Indonesian Lounge where there were between 50 and 60 guests, including the heads of the Commonwealth delegations to the UN.

The princess looked beautiful in her pink, diagonal-weave wool coat with detailed top stitch. She wore a pink silk dress with stitched inset on the bodice. A multi-colored lace wool turban, grey handbag, shoes and gloves completed the ensemble.

SAW THANT

After the brief reception, Princess Margaret and Lord Snowdon were escorted to the 38th-floor apartment of Thant for a visit. From there the party proceeded to the Dag Hammarskjold Memorial Library for a lunch.

Hostess at the luncheon was Mrs. Tin Myint U, daughter of the secretary-general. About 50 persons were invited.

The remainder of the program at the UN involved a tour of committee rooms and a brief visit to the General Assembly hall where the royal party was to attend the opening of the afternoon session.

ROUSING START GIVEN TO TIMES-USC FUND

$7.47 . . . Reminder of Suffering Children

By CANDIDE TEMPLE

A rousing start was given the Children of Asia fund Thursday night at its opening meeting in St. Andrew's Kirk Hall.

Contributions totalling more than $650 were received—giving the annual Times-sponsored Christmas campaign a warm send-off.

"A great success," said Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, of the meeting.

The energetic, red-haired doctor, executive-director of the Unitarian Service Committee which distributes the aid, spoke of the 20 years of work the USC has done with needy persons around the world.

Special contributions to the fund included a $100 cheque from the Victoria Daily Times, and $7.47 in coppers and silver presented in a tin by two young boys.

Particularly pleased with their gift, Dr. Hitschmanova recalled how one of the boys "used to sit on his mother's lap" at USC meetings every year when Dr. Hitschmanova came to speak.

The boys, now aged 10 and 13, who wanted to remain anonymous, collected the money by dropping a few coins in the tin before meals to remind them of hungry children in other lands.

Other "special guests" at the meeting, attended by more than 100 persons, were two elderly ladies who had travelled from Salt Spring Island for the event.

Mrs. S. A. Thompson and Mrs. E. Adams, residents of Fernwood on the Island, founded a group called the North End Neighbours three years ago to contribute to the USC fund.

Sweaters, blankets, shirts, pants and other garments similar to those made by the two ladies were on display at the meeting.

"We're wishing we had brought some over with us ourselves," said Mrs. Adams. "We really have some lovely stuff."

Starting in a small way with only the two of them working for the fund, they were soon "avalanched with clothing and offers of help."

Last year Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Adams were presented with USC pins for outstanding work for the fund, when Dr. Hitschmanova made her annual appearance in Victoria.

The two workers, who "don't feel they do any more than we should," say they have enjoyed every minute of it.

"It gets to be sort of a disease," said Mrs. Thompson. "If I'm not patching or mending something I feel lost."

Dr. Hitschmanova, introduced by Times' editor Brian Tobin, spoke of the 20 years of work done by the USC in far corners of the world.

Slides of the committee's progress and Dr. Hitschmanova's visits to the various projects in India, Korea, Hong Kong and Europe were shown.

Contributions to the Children of Asia fund can be made by sending them care of The Victoria Daily Times.

A list of donors will be published daily.

Prairies and Ontario, said after five months of negotiations the issues were put to a conciliation board whose recommendations were rejected by the union.

"The union has also rejected B-A's subsequent offers," the statement continued. "The last offer was substantially better than settlements being accepted in Canadian industry generally.

"Our record over the years for dealing with employees has been good and considering B-A's steady employment record and no-strike history, the union's demands for absolute guaranteed employment go beyond reason

"The union has grossly exaggerated the effects of automation in the oil industry in an attempt to generate public and political pressure on the government.

'CREATING BOGEY'

"The union has been falsely creating in the minds of the workers and the public a bogey of mass layoffs. The actual facts are these:

"1. The oil industry has needed all the technological advances and mechanical aids it has developed over the years in order to maintain low consumer prices for our products.

"2. We have needed all the people we have employed.

"3. BA has not laid off a manufacturing employee since 1949."

The company said it does not intend that oil workers jobs go "down the chute."

"We need our employees who are now on strike for the OCAW," it added.

The minister of labor singled out B.C. Liberal leader Ray Perrault for a suggestion that Mr. Justice Victor Dryer should be appointed an industrial commissioner to settle the automation argument.

"People who shoot from the lip should make sure they know what they are talking about and that it will help," he said.

"Speculation of this nature doesn't assist us in any way in gaining acceptance of the parties, particularly when the dispute itself involves automation and is under constant discussion.

UNIQUE IDEA

"If someone came forward with some unique idea that has not occurred to anyone else as a possible method of settlement, it would be different, but to argue over courses that obviously would be considered only makes things much more diffifult."

The minister pointed out that all alternatives available under legislation, including an industrial commission, obviously would have been considered from the outset of the dispute.

THREE DIE AS FIRE RACES THROUGH BLOCK

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)—A fireman and an elderly woman burned to death and a second fireman was missing and feared dead today in a $500,000 fire that race through a business and residential block on the city's east side.

The body of one fireman, charred beyond recognition, was recovered from the rubble in a restaurant basement. Officials said only a melted fireman's helmet was recognizable. It was believed he fell from the second floor to the basement when floors gave way.

The body of the second firefighter was also believed to be in the ruins.

Queen's representative in Rhodesia, Governor Sir Humphrey Gibbs, and behind Beadle as chief justice.

APPOINTED DUPONT

Smith withdrew recognition from Gibbs after independence and appointed Deputy Prime Minister Clifford Dupont as the titular head of the country.

The judges' reported decision was seen as a direct challenge to the legality of the Smith regime.

Smith, whose government represents Rhodesia's 220,000 whites, declared independence after negotiations broke down over Britain's insistence that he guarantee an adequate voice in the government for Rhodesia's 4,000,000 Negroes.

Beadle has been staying with Gibbs at Government House and made clear he would remain there despite Smith's order to the British - appointed governor to vacate. Gibbs has refused to comply, contending that Smith's government is illegal.

Prime Minister Wilson told the House of Commons Thursday the British government will pay Gibbs' salary if he wants it to. Before Smith stripped Gibbs of his authority, the Rhodesian government paid the governor's salary.

The British prime minister called the restrictions placed on Gibbs—the cutting off of telephone service and transportation—contemptible

WARNS AGAINST THREATS

Today, Smith said over Rhodesia radio that some people had sent threatening letters to Gibbs, and the Rhodesian leader warned that the government would take action against anyone who did this.

"When people resort to intimidation the government must and will intervene," he declared.

"Therefore I wish to issue a serious warning to those responsible that the government will not tolerate this type of behavior."

Smith added: "At the same time I would point out that my attention has been drawn to the fact that a large number of telegrams have been sent to Sir Humphrey Gibbs requesting him to resign and stand behind the Rhodesian government.

"I believe this type of message is perfectly in order."

There were signs of some unrest in various parts of Rhodesia. In Bulawayo, 350 Negroes were fired from their jobs for protesting independence. Another 2,000 Negroes walked out in a rail strike and face dismissal.

Driver Leaps As Car Crashes

A city man escaped serious injury by leaping from his car as it careened down Mount Douglas Wednesday night.

Harry Haamers, Strathcona Hotel, was taken to Jubilee Hospital for undetermined back injuries but was released after treatment.

He was driving his car down from the summit at the time of the mishap, Saanich police said.

When he got to a hairpin turn about one-third from the top he lost control and the vehicle fish-tailed.

Mr. Haamers jumped from the auto as it shot over the bank.

The car slid 60 feet from the roadway into an area covered in trees and bushes.

Heavy Fire Delaying Paratroops

PLEIKU, South Viet Nam (AP)—South Vietnamese government paratroopers, rushing to link up with battle-worn U.S. forces in the Ia Drang Valley of South Viet Nam, ran into a fight tonight near the Cambodian frontier.

A U.S. spokesman said North Vietnamese troops put up stiff resistance to a southward march of the paratroopers near the frontier and inflicted light casualties.

Heavy fire held up the paratroopers, part of a South Vietnamese regiment being committed to the valley battle.

The Americans, who beat off four enemy assaults during the night, reported a relatively quiet day.
